APPOINTMENT BY THE MAYOR.

Subject to confirmation by the Council, the Mayor submitted the following appointment:

Constable with authority to serve civil process upon filing a bond for the term ending April 30, 1964:

James Michael Doherty, 295 Bunker Hill street, Charlestown.

FULL COMPLEMENT OF PERSONNEL IN POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Police Commissioner concerning your resolution of April 22, 1963, with reference to bringing the Police Department to its full complement without further delay.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Police Department, May 3, 1963.
Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.
Dear Sir:

In reference to the attached Council resolution of Councillors Piemonte and Foley dated April 22, 1963, which reads: "Whereas, The crime wave of aggravated personal assaults in Boston continues unabated as witness the stabbing and death in Roxbury over the week end; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Boston City Council, in meeting assembled, on this 22d day of April, 1963, urge the Police Commissioner to bring the Police Department to its full complement without further delay," I respectfully submit the following:

There is no crime wave of aggravated personal assaults in Boston. It is granted that such crime has increased but statistics will bear me out when I say that the percentage increase in Boston more than favorably compares with the national average.

However, a program is well under way in this department to bring the Boston Police Department to its full complement inasmuch as Deputy Superintendent Charles J. Deignan, Internal Affairs Division of the Bureau of Inspectional Services, is now in the process of investigating the first fifty candidates on the Civil Service list who seek appointment as police officers in the Boston Police Department. It is the department's plans to appoint about forty recruits in June of this year and another group later on in the year. With the increased training to be provided these recruits coupled with wide and diversified training being given to all personnel of the Boston Police Department it is our expectation that the department will have reached its full capacity in the near future.

Respectfully submitted,
EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Piemonte offered the following motion:

Moved, That the communication be remanded to the Police Commissioner with the request that the figures for Boston be compared with comparable cities, namely, cities with populations of 500,000 to 750,000, as contained in the release of the Federal Bureau of Investigation having been issued on March 4, 1963, and known as Table 3, and that this report be submitted to the Council within the next three weeks.

The motion was carried.

HISTORIC SHRINES TO BE OPEN EVERY DAY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Commissioner of Parks and Recreation concerning your resolution of April 22, 1963, relative to steps being taken to provide that the historic shrines of our city be open every day throughout the year.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Parks and Recreation Department,
April 26, 1963.

Mr. Albert Kramer,

Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge receipt of your memo of April 24 to which you have attached an order filed by Councillor Piemonte in the City Council on Monday, April 22, 1963.

This particular order states that Copp's Hill Burying Ground was not open on April 19 and the order further requests that all historic shrines in the City of Boston be open every day throughout the year. It was my understanding that Copp's Hill Burying Ground was open on April 19; but it is possible that at the time that some persons visited there, the custodian was off the premises.

I do want the councillor to know that it is the custom of this department to have any shrine that is under the care and control of the Parks and Recreation Department open for visitors, particularly during the late spring, summer, and early fall months. The other times of the year when there are a limited number of people, if any, who come to visit the areas under our control, they are closed.

Many of the shrines in Boston are under state and federal government agencies and many are under private historical committees. The few shrines that are under the control of the Parks and Recreation Department have our constant attention; and if the councillor finds that at any time we are not fulfilling our duties as we should, I would appreciate his calling it to my attention.

Very truly yours,
MARTIN F. WALSH, Commissioner.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Piemonte offered the following motion:

Moved, That this communication be remanded with the request that they review the contents for the purpose of making any corrections that may be necessary.

The motion was carried.

STUDY OF CONSTITUTIONALITY OF EXTENDING SECTION 221-d-3 TO DEVELOPERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

By an order adopted February 11, 1963, you requested that I ask the Corporation Counsel to study the constitutional problems which would be involved if legislation were enacted authorizing the establishment of limited dividend corporations with tax advantages and the power of eminent domain to provide, in areas which are not decadent, substandard or blighted, housing for persons displaced from urban renewal areas or as a result of governmental action.

I transmit herewith the Corporation Counsel's report to me on the subject.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 29, 1963.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to an order passed by the City Council on February 11, 1963, you have requested that I study the constitutional problems inherent in legislation which would authorize the establishment of limited dividend corporations with tax advantages and the power of eminent domain to provide, in areas which do not qualify as decadent, substandard or blighted open areas, housing for persons displaced from urban renewal areas or as a result of governmental action.

The distinction between a purpose which is public and therefore a proper object of tax concessions and the exercise of the power of eminent domain and one which is private and therefore an improper object thereof has been discussed at length in its application to various situations in a number of instances coming before the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, but no universal test has been established. "Each case must be decided with reference to the object sought to be accomplished and to the degree and manner in which that object affects the public welfare. Frequently an object presents a double aspect in that it may in some respects result in conferring a benefit upon the public and in other respects it may result in conferring a benefit upon or in paying money to private individuals. In such instances the cases tend to distinguish between those results which are primary and those which are secondary or incidental and to classify the object according to its primary consequences and effects." Allydorn Realty Corp. v. Holyoke Housing Authority, 304 Mass. 288, 292. In reply to a question from the House of Representatives of 1892, Justice James M. Barker, in a separate opinion which was later essentially adopted by the majority (Opinion of the Justices, 182 Mass. 605, 606-611), said: "If there is an emergency, local or general, which cannot be adequately met by ordinary private agency, it is within the constitutional power of the government to supply the needs of the people in this respect, either through the towns and cities, or through other agencies." 155 Mass. 598, 607.

The Massachusetts case most nearly apposite to the instant study appears to be McLean v. Boston, 327 Mass. 118, upholding the constitutionality of St. 1949, c. 191, under which dwellings in the path of an extension of rapid transit in East Boston were relocated to sites acquired by eminent domain. The Supreme Judicial Court said (pp. 121-122):

"The facts here warrant a finding that there was a local emergency which had not been met in any way by ordinary private agency. Because of a public improvement declared necessary by the Legislature, two hundred seven persons comprising fifty-six families were to find themselves homeless through no fault of theirs. We are of opinion that this situation justified action by the Legislature to remedy it. The statute permitted the expenditure of money raised by taxation for a public purpose and in consequence it is not unconstitutional. See Opinion of the Justices, 182 Mass. 605, 610, 611.

"We are fortified in our belief by relevant decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which said in United States v. Welch, 327 U.S. 546, at page 554, 'And when serious problems are created by its public projects, the Government is not barred from making a common sense adjustment in the interest of all the public.' Brown v. United States, 263 U.S. 78. . . . [Brown v. United States involved the relocation of a town to be flooded by the waters of a reservoir.]

It is my opinion, therefore, that there is no constitutional inhibition against legislation of the type above described; but that each project thereunder must be scrutinized to assure that it meets an exigency created by governmental action which is not being adequately met by private enterprise.

Respectfully,
ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Corporation Counsel.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Foley offered the following motion:

Moved, That copies of the opinion be forwarded to each of the Board members of the Redevelopment Authority and to the Development Administration, and that the attention of his Honor the Mayor is respectfully invited to the opinion toward the end that legislation for this purpose might be sponsored in the Great and General Court for the year 1964; and that the Corporation Counsel be requested to prepare a draft of such legislation for the use of the City Council or any member thereof before November 15, 1963.

The motion was carried.

APPROPRIATION OF $100,000 FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I submit herewith an order requesting the appropriation of $100,000 by transfer from available funds in the City Treasury together with a letter from the Commissioner of the Fire Department, explaining the reasons therefor.

I respectfully recommend adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Fire Department, April 29, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request that your Honor introduce an order into the City Council requesting the appropriation or transfer of an additional $100,000 from any available sources to the appropriation for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, Fire Department.

The foregoing additional appropriation is required in order that we may proceed with the construction of a new two-story fire station on Cambridge street, between Joy and South Russell streets, Boston.

Under date of July 2, 1962, the City Council passed an order, which was approved by your Honor on July 5, 1962, transferring the sum of $145,000 to the appropriation for Construction of Buildings and Acquisition of Land, Fire Department.

On September 5, 1962, I requested that your Honor introduce an order into the City Council asking for the transfer of $250,000 from the Sales of City Property, or any other available sources, to the appropriation for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment Thereof, Fire Department, inasmuch as the sum of $145,000 originally transferred was not sufficient to pay for the cost of the land, architect's fee, borings, and the construction of a new fire station.

On November 5, 1962, we opened general bids for the construction of this particular fire station; and, since the lowest bid was $345,000, all bids were rejected and the construction project was re-advertised. On April 23, 1963, new bids for the same project were opened in this office and the lowest eligible bid was in the amount of $325,000. It therefore appears that we cannot build a fire station at this location to adequately and efficiently serve our requirements for less than $325,000.

Up to the present time, we have expended the sum of $32,663.31 for land and building at 190-196 Cambridge street, and a parcel under the control of the Welfare Department of the City of Boston. However, no payment has been made in the case of the land and buildings at 200 Cambridge street and Auburn court, which settlement will evidently be made in the courts.

All new equipment and furnishings for the fire station will be paid from the amount allocated to the construction appropriation.

Respectfully yours,

BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT.

THOMAS J. GRIFFIN,
Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars be appropriated to the Fire Department for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, and to meet said appropriation the sum of one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars be, and hereby is, transferred from available funds in the City Treasury.

Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, Fire Department..... $100,000

APPROPRIATION FOR NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I submit herewith an appropriation order for $25,000 from "Sales of City Property" and a communication from the Traffic and Parking Commissioner explaining the reasons therefor.

I respectfully recommend adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor.

City of Boston,

Traffic and Parking Department,

April 9, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

The installation of new traffic signals is paid for out of a special appropriation entitled "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City." The funds in this appropriation have been replenished from time to time with the consent of the Mayor and the City Council by transfers from available sources. In recent years these transfers have been accomplished from moneys obtained from "Sales of City Property." The most recent allocation of funds to this appropriation was on July 25, 1961, in the amount of $50,000. At present this appropriation is depleted.

Apart from the installation of completely new signals at intersections, this department is continuously confronted with the necessity of installing additional traffic signal posts in connection with the reconstruction of streets and the redesign of intersections. Most of these latter installations are made by our own forces working week ends which involves the payment of overtime. Payments to the Boston Edison Company for necessary service connections and other related work are also required. All of the above has been paid from the appropriation "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City."

In order to provide sufficient funds for the necessary changes in our traffic signals as described above in addition to making provision for the installation of some completely new signals, I respectfully request that at least the sum of $25,000 be provided in the appropriation "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City."

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS F. CARTY,
Commissioner.

Ordered, That under the provisions of section 63 of chapter 44 of the General Laws, the sum of twenty-five thousand (25,000) dollars be, and the same hereby is, appropriated from the special account "Sales of City Property," to be expended under the direction of the Traffic and Parking Department, for the installation of automatic traffic control signals in various sections of the city.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

TRANSFER OF LAND ON LONG ISLAND TO POLICE COMMISSIONER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

Transmitted herewith are two communications pertaining to certain land on Long Island now forming part of the estate owned by the city on that island and held for the purposes of the Long Island Hospital. One is a notice that the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department as the board now having charge of the land has determined that the land is no longer needed for the purposes of the Long Island Hospital. The other is a letter from the Police Commissioner telling of the Police Department's urgent need of the land for a police training academy and related uses.

To enable the land to be used for the latter purposes, I recommend early adoption of the accompanying order transferring the care, custody, management and control of the land from the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department to the Police Commissioner for the purposes of a police training academy, drill school, target practice range, and related uses.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor.

City of Boston,
Hospital Department, April 29, 1963.

Garvin, Acting Division Engineer, under date of March 11, 1963, and more fully described in said vote, is no longer needed for the purposes of the Long Island Hospital.

Respectfully,
WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.,

in Charge of the Hospital Department.

City of Boston,
Hospital Department.

At a meeting of the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department of the City of Boston held at the Board's office at 818 Harrison Avenue, Boston, on Monday, April 29, 1963, it was Voted, That it be, and hereby is, determined by the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department of the City of Boston as the board having charge of the estate held by said city, within its territorial limits, on Long Island in Boston Harbor for the purposes of the Long Island Hospital that the hereinafter described portion of said estate is no longer needed for such purposes, to wit, that portion containing about thirty-one and 7-10 (31.7) acres shown on City of Boston Public Works Department Engineering Division Plan No. K-597, signed by Frederick L. Garvin, Acting Division Engineer, under date of March 11, 1963, and bounded and described as follows:

FULL COMPLEMENT OF PERSONNEL IN POLICE DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Police Commissioner concerning your resolution of April 22, 1963, with reference to bringing the Police Department to its full complement without further delay.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Police Department, May 3, 1963.
Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.
Dear Sir:

In reference to the attached Council resolution of Councillors Piemonte and Foley dated April 22, 1963, which reads: "Whereas, The crime wave of aggravated personal assaults in Boston continues unabated as witness the stabbing and death in Roxbury over the week end; now therefore be it

Resolved, That the Boston City Council, in meeting assembled, on this 22d day of April, 1963, urge the Police Commissioner to bring the Police Department to its full complement without further delay," I respectfully submit the following:

There is no crime wave of aggravated personal assaults in Boston. It is granted that such crime has increased but statistics will bear me out when I say that the percentage increase in Boston more than favorably compares with the national average.

However, a program is well under way in this department to bring the Boston Police Department to its full complement inasmuch as Deputy Superintendent Charles J. Deignan, Internal Affairs Division of the Bureau of Inspectional Services, is now in the process of investigating the first fifty candidates on the Civil Service list who seek appointment as police officers in the Boston Police Department. It is the department's plans to appoint about forty recruits in June of this year and another group later on in the year. With the increased training to be provided these recruits coupled with wide and diversified training being given to all personnel of the Boston Police Department it is our expectation that the department will have reached its full capacity in the near future.

Respectfully submitted,
EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Piemonte offered the following motion:

Moved, That the communication be remanded to the Police Commissioner with the request that the figures for Boston be compared with comparable cities, namely, cities with populations of 500,000 to 750,000, as contained in the release of the Federal Bureau of Investigation having been issued on March 4, 1963, and known as Table 3, and that this report be submitted to the Council within the next three weeks.

The motion was carried.

Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Commissioner of Parks and Recreation concerning your resolution of April 22, 1963, relative to steps being taken to provide that the historic shrines of our city be open every day throughout the year.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Mr. Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Dear Sir:

This will acknowledge receipt of your memo of April 24 to which you have attached an order filed by Councillor Piemonte in the City Council on Monday, April 22, 1963.

This particular order states that Copp's Hill Burying Ground was not open on April 19 and the order further requests that all historic shrines in the City of Boston be open every day throughout the year. It was my understanding that Copp's Hill Burying Ground was open on April 19; but it is possible that at the time that some persons visited there, the custodian was off the premises.

I do want the councillor to know that it is the custom of this department to have any shrine that is under the care and control of the Parks and Recreation Department open for visitors, particularly during the late spring, summer, and early fall months. The other times of the year when there are a limited number of people, if any, who come to visit the areas under our control, they are closed.

Many of the shrines in Boston are under state and federal government agencies and many are under private historical committees. The few shrines that are under the control of the Parks and Recreation Department have our constant attention; and if the councillor finds that at any time we are not fulfilling our duties as we should, I would appreciate his calling it to my attention.

Very truly yours,
MARTIN F. WALSH, Commissioner.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Piemonte offered the following motion:

Moved, That this communication be remanded with the request that they review the contents for the purpose of making any corrections that may be necessary.

The motion was carried.

STUDY OF CONSTITUTIONALITY OF EXTENDING SECTION 221-d-3 TO DEVELOPERS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

By an order adopted February 11, 1963, you requested that I ask the Corporation Counsel to study the constitutional problems which would be involved if legislation were enacted authorizing the establishment of limited dividend corporations with tax advantages and the power of eminent domain to provide, in areas which are not decadent, substandard or blighted, housing for persons displaced from urban renewal areas or as a result of governmental action.

I transmit herewith the Corporation Counsel's report to me on the subject.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Law Department, April 29, 1963.
Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

Pursuant to an order passed by the City Council on February 11, 1963, you have requested that I study the constitutional problems inherent in legislation which would authorize the establishment of limited dividend corporations with tax advantages and the power of eminent domain to provide, in areas which do not qualify as decadent, substandard or blighted open areas, housing for persons displaced from urban renewal areas or as a result of governmental action.

The distinction between a purpose which is public and therefore a proper object of tax concessions and the exercise of the power of eminent domain and one which is private and therefore an improper object thereof has been discussed at length in its application to various situations in a number of instances coming before the Supreme Judicial Court of Massachusetts, but no universal test has been established. "Each case must be decided with reference to the object sought to be accomplished and to the degree and manner in which that object affects the public welfare. Frequently an object presents a double aspect in that it may in some respects result in conferring a benefit upon the public and in other respects it may result in conferring a benefit upon or in paying money to private individuals. In such instances the cases tend to distinguish between those results which are primary and those which are secondary or incidental and to classify the object according to its primary consequences and effects." Allydenn Realty Corp. v. Holyoke Housing Authority, 304 Mass. 288, 292. In reply to a question from the House of Representatives of 1892, Justice James M. Barker, in a separate opinion which was later essentially adopted by the majority (Opinion of the Justices, 182 Mass. 605, 606-611), said: "If there is an emergency, local or general, which cannot be adequately met by ordinary private agency, it is within the constitutional power of the government to supply the needs of the people in this respect, either through the towns and cities, or through other agencies." 155 Mass. 598, 607.

The Massachusetts case most nearly apposite to the instant study appears to be McLean v. Boston, 327 Mass. 118, upholding the constitutionality of St. 1949, c. 191, under which dwellings in the path of an extension of rapid transit in East Boston were relocated to sites acquired by eminent domain. The Supreme Judicial Court said (pp. 121-122):

"The facts here warrant a finding that there was a local emergency which had not been met in any way by ordinary private agency. Because of a public improvement declared necessary by the Legislature, two hundred seven persons comprising fifty-six families were to find themselves homeless through no fault of theirs. We are of opinion that this situation justified action by the Legislature to remedy it. The statute permitted the expenditure of money raised by taxation for a public purpose and in consequence it is not unconstitutional. See Opinion of the Justices, 182 Mass. 605, 610, 611.

"We are fortified in our belief by relevant decisions of the Supreme Court of the United States which said in United States v. Welch, 327 U.S. 546, at page 554, 'And when serious problems are created by its public projects, the Government is not barred from making a common sense adjustment in the interest of all the public.' Brown v. United States, 263 U.S. 78, . . ." [Brown v. United States involved the relocation of a town to be flooded by the waters of a reservoir.]

It is my opinion, therefore, that there is no constitutional inhibition against legislation of the type above described; but that each project thereunder must be scrutinized to assure that it meets an exigency created by governmental action which is not being adequately met by private enterprise.

Respectfully,
ARTHUR G. COFFEY,
Corporation Counsel.

In connection with the foregoing message, Councillor Foley offered the following motion:

Moved, That copies of the opinion be forwarded to each of the Board members of the Redevelopment Authority and to the Development Administration, and that the attention of his Honor the Mayor is respectfully invited to this purpose toward the end that legislation for this purpose might be sponsored in the Great and General Court for the year 1964; and that the Corporation Counsel be requested to prepare a draft of such legislation for the use of the City Council or any member thereof before November 15, 1963.

The motion was carried.

APPROPRIATION OF $100,000 FOR FIRE DEPARTMENT.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I submit herewith an order requesting the appropriation of $100,000 by transfer from available funds in the City Treasury together with a letter from the Commissioner of the Fire Department, explaining the reasons therefor.

I respectfully recommend adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,

Fire Department, April 29, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

I respectfully request that your Honor introduce an order into the City Council requesting the appropriation or transfer of an additional $100,000 from any available sources to the appropriation for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, Fire Department.

The foregoing additional appropriation is required in order that we may proceed with the construction of a new two-story fire station on Cambridge street, between Joy and South Russell streets, Boston.

Under date of July 2, 1962, the City Council passed an order, which was approved by your Honor on July 5, 1962, transferring the sum of $145,000 to the appropriation for Construction of Buildings and Acquisition of Land, Fire Department.

On September 5, 1962, I requested that your Honor introduce an order into the City Council asking for the transfer of $250,000 from the Sales of City Property, or any other available sources, to the appropriation for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment Thereof, Fire Department, inasmuch as the sum of $145,000 originally transferred was not sufficient to pay for the cost of the land, architect's fee, borings, and the construction of a new fire station.

On November 5, 1962, we opened general bids for the construction of this particular fire station; and, since the lowest bid was $345,000, all bids were rejected and the construction project was re-advertised. On April 23, 1963, new bids for the same project were opened in this office and the lowest eligible bid was in the amount of $325,000. It therefore appears that we cannot build a fire station at this location to adequately and efficiently serve our requirements for less than $325,000.

Up to the present time, we have expended the sum of $32,663.31 for land and building at 190-196 Cambridge street, and a parcel under the control of the Welfare Department of the City of Boston. However, no payment has been made in the case of the land and buildings at 200 Cambridge street and Auburn court, which settlement will evidently be made in the courts.

All new equipment and furnishings for the fire station will be paid from the amount allocated to the construction appropriation.

Respectfully yours,

BOSTON FIRE DEPARTMENT,
THOMAS J. GRIFFIN,
Fire Commissioner.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars be appropriated to the Fire Department for Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, and to meet said appropriation the sum of one hundred thousand (100,000) dollars be, and hereby is, transferred from available funds in the City Treasury.

Construction and Reconstruction of Buildings and Original Equipment and Furnishings Thereof, Fire Department..... $100,000

APPROPRIATION FOR NEW TRAFFIC LIGHTS.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.

To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I submit herewith an appropriation order for $25,000 from "Sales of City Property" and a communication from the Traffic and Parking Commissioner explaining the reasons therefor.

I respectfully recommend adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor.

City of Boston,
Traffic and Parking Department,

April 9, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

The installation of new traffic signals is paid for out of a special appropriation entitled "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City." The funds in this appropriation have been replenished from time to time with the consent of the Mayor and the City Council by transfers from available sources. In recent years these transfers have been accomplished from moneys obtained from "Sales of City Property." The most recent allocation of funds to this appropriation was on July 25, 1961, in the amount of $50,000. At present this appropriation is depleted.

Apart from the installation of completely new signals at intersections, this department is continuously confronted with the necessity of installing additional traffic signal posts in connection with the reconstruction of streets and the redesign of intersections. Most of these latter installations are made by our own forces working week ends which involves the payment of overtime. Payments to the Boston Edison Company for necessary service connections and other related work are also required. All of the above has been paid from the appropriation "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City."

In order to provide sufficient funds for the necessary changes in our traffic signals as described above in addition to making provision for the installation of some completely new signals, I respectfully request that at least the sum of $25,000 be provided in the appropriation "Automatic Traffic Control Signals in Various Sections of the City."

Respectfully yours,

THOMAS F. CARTY,
Commissioner.

Ordered, That under the provisions of section 63 of chapter 44 of the General Laws, the sum of twenty-five thousand (25,000) dollars be, and the same hereby is, appropriated from the special account "Sales of City Property," to be expended under the direction of the Traffic and Parking Department, for the installation of automatic traffic control signals in various sections of the city.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

TRANSFER OF LAND ON LONG ISLAND TO POLICE COMMISSIONER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, April 29, 1963.

To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

Transmitted herewith are two communications pertaining to certain land on Long Island now forming part of the estate owned by the city on that island and held for the purposes of the Long Island Hospital. The other is a letter from the Police Commissioner telling of the Police Department's urgent need of the land for a police training academy and related uses.

To enable the land to be used for the latter purposes, I recommend early adoption of the accompanying order transferring the care, custody, management and control of the land from the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department to the Police Commissioner for the purposes of a police training academy, drill school, target practice range, and related uses.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor.

Voted, That the President of this Board be, and he hereby is, authorized and directed to give notice of the foregoing determination forthwith to the Mayor and City Council of the City of Boston.

Attest:

LOUIS J. GUARAGNA,
Acting Secretary.

City of Boston,
Police Department, April 29, 1963.
To the Honorable, the Mayor, and the City Council of the City of Boston.

Gentlemen:

Mayor Bans Controversy On "Old Ironsides" Pending Study of All Risks

SAFETY AND RETURN HERE PARAMOUNT

Mayor Collins—finding the issue of whether or not the USS "Constitution" should be loaned to New York for its coming World's Fair far too serious to be bandied about in controversial fashion—withheld judgment on the city's position pending an exhaustive examination of the facts.

The Mayor made it apparent that he was deeply concerned with two matters concerned with the proposed loan:—(1) the safety of "Old Ironsides" and her ability to make the trip and undergo display without damage; (2) a guarantee of her safe return to Boston within a reasonable time.

Said the Mayor:

"The proposal that the USS 'Constitution' visit the World's Fair at New York has given rise to legitimate concern. However, the best interests of our City, our State, and of this Historical Shrine will not be served by allowing concern to deteriorate into controversy.

"If there is any question as to the safety of the vessel or her return within a reasonable period of time, then, of course, she should not leave her Boston berth. An investigation is in progress to determine the answers to these questions and I urge a 'cease fire' in this growing dispute until we are armed with facts.

"It is also true that the 'Constitution' is a most important part of our 'Freedom Trail' and even her brief and temporary absence would be a hardship to Boston. But it is also true that this gallant frigate is part of the historical heritage of all Americans including the millions who will attend the World's Fair.

"And, finally, all who have been concerned with restoring to Massachusetts her rightful identity will agree that there is much to be said for having us represented before our sister states and the eyes of the world by old 'Ironsides.' I suggest that the pros and cons of this proposal should be explored calmly, factually, and in the spirit of moderation."

Dr. Trinchieri Honored

Mayor Collins joined with state and federal officials on Sunday, May 26, in a tribute to Dr. Alfred Trinchieri, Italian consul general for the New England area, who is being reassigned by his government to a post in France.

The diplomat was tendered a farewell dinner at the Harvard Club. It was sponsored by the Dante Alighieri Society of Massachusetts. Dr. Anthony A. Abruzzese was chairman of the dinner committee.

Mayor in Tribute to Those Who Paved Way to Better Life

In the annual Memorial Services at Mount Hope Cemetery, Sunday, May 26, Mayor John F. Collins paid tribute to those who have died in war and those loved parents who made sacrifice without limit to enable their children and their children's children to know a better world.

Here is the Mayor's address:

"We gather today in a profound sense of love and reverence.

"We gather to pay tribute to those who rest in the gentle ground around us—and to those who found final resting place elsewhere.

"We gather to join in saying—
'We have not forgotten.'

"Among us are mothers who wear a small Gold Star.

"For them Memorial Day is something more than a red date fixed on the calendar. For them—for years now—every day has been a day of remembrance—the remembrance of one who perished in the insatiable cauldron of war—for one who gave life itself in order that the greatness of his nation might be preserved—for someone who has been denied forever any earthly rewards for the supreme sacrifice.

"Among us today are many whose fathers and mothers and other loved ones rest under the green sod around us. The Creator in His Infinite Wisdom chose to call them to Him before He called us.

"None of these mothers and fathers knew great wealth in the manner in which the world is wont to measure wealth.

"They are the mothers and fathers who unselfishly asked for only one thing in this life—a better world—a better country—a better city for their children. Toward that end they shunned no sacrifice. Toward that end they dedicated their lives.

"Those who gave their lives in the defense of our country—those fathers and mothers who gave their parental years to their children—left us legacies, the size of which it is beyond the mind of man to measure.

"In true humility we must admit that the span of life granted man is far too short to pay the debt we owe.

"The delicate flowers we bring here today have an ineffable beauty no human could create. Yet, they are merely symbols—fragile and transient symbols of a love that transcends death.

"In their own way, however, they seek to give physical testimony to our own appreciation of an eternal debt—the debt we owe to those—who, by example and courage—unmistakably indicated to us the true path of life.

"Today we are wont to boast of the miracles of progress attained by scientists.

"Today we eye the outer reaches of the universe. Confidently we make plans for the exploration of planets millions of miles away.

"Today we have reason to forget the long—often perilous ocean journeys that brought most of our ancestors to this country. Cannot we say without fear of contradiction that today there's virtually no place in the world which man cannot reach between sundowns?

"However, it is but natural that we rejoice in the progress of today and in the promise we believe the future holds.

"We have reached high plateaus, indeed. Maybe, we are often tempted to look about us and accept the status quo of our country and our city with complacency. That was not the way of our parents and those who have gone before us. The day of such complacency was enjoyed by other great nations and other great cities. The swift decadence of the civilizations of Ancient Greece and Rome, our historians tell us, began in the days when they became satisfied with the eminence they supposed was theirs.

"In a comparatively few years we have gone far in this country. Indeed, within decades our own generations have achieved heights in science and learning that would have seemed impossible a few pages back in our history.

"Standing here in quiet contemplation today we know that the progress cannot really be claimed as the fruit of our own generations alone. They were made possible by those who have preceded us.

"It is well on such a day as this to examine the roots of man's progress.

"We will find they were well-nurtured by those who have gone before us. We will find they were given tender care by those who dedicated themselves to the future welfare of their children and their children's children. We will find those roots often were preserved by the blood of those who died in war.

"In paying honor to their memory, we honor ourselves.

"In recalling their work in our behalf—in recalling their sacrifices—we will find the very act or recollection and the humble devotion their memories inspire—offers acknowledgment of the great legacy they left to us.

"Because of them we are richer today. Because of them we may look with confidence to a better world for ourselves—and, perhaps, more importantly, a better world for our own children and our children's children.

"I thank you for the privilege of sharing with you these few minutes of reverent memory."

U. S. Selects BCH to Pioneer Program for Pregnant Cardiacs

By Pat Porter

On June 1, Boston City Hospital inaugurates a pilot program, believed the first in the nation, for the provision of home care for pregnant women suffering from heart disease.

The plan calls for a three-year care and study program of mothers-to-be suffering from cardiac disorders. It is made possible by an initial grant of $25,344 for the first year. Subsequent grants from the U. S. Public Health Service will follow.

The program which will be administered by Dr. Julius Abramson, cardiac consultant to the City Hospital obstetrics service. Receipt of the grant was announced by Dr. John F. Conlin, the hospital director, and Medical Deputy Superintendent Dr. Leon R. Lezer.

Where hospitalization is required for cardiacs during pregnancy, City Hospital has found the average stay to be 122 days, plus 14 days after delivery, all of which time the patient is separated from her family. Dr. Abramson believes that treating the pregnant cardiac in her own home environment would improve her emotional and psychiatric patterns of behavior, thus leading to "ultimate diminution of her cardiac complications."

Under this pilot study, the patient's needs will be met by a well-organized team set up by Dr. Abramson. Members will include a cardiac physician and an obstetrician who will examine the patient at home once a week, or more often if necessary, and a homemaker from the Family Service Association of Greater Boston, on duty seven days a week to care for the patient, do the housework and cooking, and supervise other children in the home.

HOMEMAKER TEAM

The patient will receive a thrice-weekly call from the Visiting Nurse Association, and a babysitter for the home when it is necessary for her to be checked at the hospital. On these visits, the patient will be accompanied by her homemaker, and transportation will be provided. The team will also include a clinical psychologist who will study the cardiac, both in her home and in the hospital environment.

As Cardiac Consultant to the Obstetrics Service, Dr. Abramson has been following cardiac pregnancies at City Hospital for many years and will evaluate his pilot program in relation to previous findings. He is a member of the faculty of Tufts University School of Medicine and represents Tufts in the Out-Patient Adult Cardiac Clinic. Assisting him in the new home care plan will be Dr. Elliott Bresnick, also a member of the Tufts Unit and Out-Patient Cardiac Clinic.

"Our experiences with pregnant cardiac patients," says Dr. Abramson, "have been most illuminating from the emotional and psychiatric points of view. It is well known that the cardiac patient grows up with fears, anxieties, and emotional instability because of her heart disease. When this patient becomes pregnant, her apprehensions and fears are greatly intensified. We feel that a better understanding of this patient's home life, her relationships with her husband and children, her relatives, and others may lead to a more intelligent approach by all concerned with her problem. With this added knowledge, we believe that we shall have a more cooperative patient and ultimate diminution of her cardiac complications."

SCRUPULOUS CARE

In conclusion, Dr. Abramson states, "The program of care of pregnant cardiac patients at the Boston City Hospital has been eminently successful. A large measure of our success can be attributed to the scrupulous physical care which these women have received, often involving long stays in the hospital because of congestive heart failure. However, in those instances in which the patient has been hospitalized, the financial and emotional cost to the patient and her family and the financial cost to the community often have been great.

"In view of this, we feel that a home care program should be initiated. Utilizing our previous experiences as a control, we plan to study the many emotional and financial problems involved. This can best be done in a home care program. It is expected that the various services which we plan to employ in our study will keep the family together and make for a better physical and emotional climate for the patient, her husband and her children."

If successful, Dr. Abramson envisions the establishment of a pattern which could be followed by other major hospitals and health agencies through the nation.

Publisher Kern Hails New Boston Progress

The sharp contrast—physically, psychologically, and economically—between the Boston of today and the Boston of 10, 15, and 20 years ago was emphasized by Harold G. Kern, publisher of the Record American-Sunday Advertiser, in an address before 73 top New York advertising officials who visited here recently.

Bidding the visitors welcome to the New Boston, Mr. Kern declared:

"In Boston, the physical, economic, and even psychological changes are, proportionately, fully as meaningful but they are far more clearly recognizable, their effects are reflected more rapidly, the opportunities they reveal are more directly translatable into advantage. By the same token, a newspaper in a city like Boston enjoys a much more intimate involvement with the life and affairs of its community.

"Change does not necessarily mean progress, but you seldom have progress WITHOUT change. If only we could apply the 'flash-back' technique of the movies to the ride you took today; if you could see the Boston of only 20 or 15 or even 10 years ago from the same perspective, you would be struck by the sharpness of the contrast."

Memorial Service for Dr. Ritvo

Memorial services for Dr. Max Ritvo, late director of radiology at Boston City Hospital, were held May 26 at the Associated Synagogues, Tremont street, Boston.

Dr. Ritvo was an outstanding authority on the use of X-ray and a pioneer in the development of the Associated Synagogues and the Jewish Chaplaincy Authority. Rabbi Herman H. Rubenovitz, president of the Massachusetts Board of Rabbis, delivered the eulogy at Sunday's services. Messages were also presented by Harry Kraft and Jacob Rabinovitz. Chairman of the service committee was Joe Greenbaum.

Post-Holiday Skeleton Forces Directive

The following communication was sent to all department heads by Henry A. Scagnoli, Director of Administrative Services, on May 24:

Due to the fact that Memorial Day this year falls on Thursday, May 30, department heads, at their discretion, may declare a skeleton force on the day immediately following. It is to be clearly understood, however, that all vital facilities should be manned in order that the general public will in no way be inconvenienced.

This notice is being sent out early to you to facilitate your planning and in order to allow the employees who will enjoy a long weekend, enough time to make adequate plans.

Memorial Drive Underpasses Planned

Initial approval was granted this week by the MDC for a $5 million Memorial Drive project which is designed to speed motorists out of Boston during peak traffic hours.

Three underpasses, each costing $1 million, will be built at River street, Western avenue, and Boylston street. These junctions are now controlled by traffic lights.

Fallout Protection for 12,000 Set Up by B.H.A.

BY HELEN POPKAVICH

Approximately 350 shelter areas located in 104 of the buildings under the management of the Boston Housing Authority have been approved by the Corps of Army Engineers, it was announced by Chairman Edward D. Hassan of the Authority.

The BHA Civil Defense Public Shelter Program will provide protection against fallout for 12,234 people.

All shelter areas have been stocked with emergency food and medical supplies. Foodstuffs consist of crackers and chocolate concentrate. Among the other items provided by the federal government are medical and sanitary kits, polyethylene lined water drums, and special equipment for radiation detection.

In order to expedite the distribution of supplies and equipment, all material was picked up at the Charlestown Navy Yard and the South Boston Naval Annex by Boston Housing Authority personnel with automotive equipment working in cooperation with the City of Boston Civil Defense Director.

The sizable cargos involved transportation of 2,523 cartons of crackers, 2,470 drums designed to hold 17½ gallons of water each, 167 cartons of polyethylene liners for the drums, and other items.

Shelter areas, all clearly designated, are located in nine buildings in the Charlestown development, ten in Orchard Park, eight in South End, eight in Heath street, one in East Boston, two in Franklin Hill, four in Whittier street, six in Mission Hill Extension, four in Columbia Point, one in Mary Ellen McCormack Houses, twelve in Old Colony, ten at Broadway, three at Camden street, five at Commonwealth, six in Faneuil, three in Orient Heights, and twelve at Franklin Field.

Mayor Bids World's Art Lovers to '63 Fete

Hailing this year's Boston Art Festival as the most promising ever, Mayor Collins this week extended an invitation to art lovers everywhere to attend the Boston Art Festival on Public Garden, June 20 through July 14.

Said the Mayor:

"I am most pleased to note that some 1,700 paintings by New England artists have been submitted for the consideration of the jury which will decide the 130 entries which will be placed on display at the 1963 Boston Art Festival.

"Certainly, such a heavy entry list emphatically underscores our conviction that the 1963 Festival—the twelfth in the series—carries the promise of becoming the most interesting, indeed, the finest.

"Our Art Festival at the Public Garden is young in years. Yet, it has swiftly commanded a maturity and distinction which attracts attention far beyond our metropolitan borders. Today, it stands ready to go forward hand-in-hand with the New Boston. Today it offers incontrovertible evidence that the deep cultural roots of our beloved city will be most carefully nurtured in the great years just ahead of us.

"I am proud of the privilege to extend to art lovers everywhere an invitation to visit Boston and particularly its Art Festival at Public Garden June 20 through July 14. I know they will find such a visit will be tremendously rewarding."

existing gravel walks, replacement of defective concrete block pavement, construction of new block pavement, reconstruction of slopes and lawn areas adjacent to the walks, removal of defective park benches, erection of new park benches, and other incidental work.

The perimeter walk around Jamaica Pond is approximately 7,700 feet long and it varies in width from 8 to 10 feet. From practically the beginning of Jamaica Pond, the perimeter walk has been over a gravel surface and for years there has been talk of the replacement of this walk.

The Mayor said that this new walk is of major importance and one that has had his interest for several years—long before he had the honor of being Mayor of the City of Boston.

The construction of this new walk and the general improvements are certain to attract hundreds of new visitors to the Jamaica Pond area. The walk when completed will enable people to circle the pond in a daily or weekly "constitutional" with more than the usual pleasure that one gets at this fine area within the Boston Park System.

OLD IRONSIDES

(Written with reference to the proposed breaking up of the famous U. S. frigate Constitution.)

Ay, Tear her tattered ensign down!

Long has it waved on high

And many an eye has danced to see

That banner in the sky;

Beneath it rung the battle-shout,

And burst the cannon's roar:

The meteor of the ocean air

Shall weep the clouds no more!

Her deck, once red with heroes' blood,

Where knelt the vanquished foe,

When winds were hurrying o'er the flood

And waves were white below,

No more shall feel the victor's tread,

Or know the conquered knee:

The harpies of the shore shall pluck

The eagle of the sea!

O better that her shattered hulk

Should sink beneath the wave!

Her thunders shook the mighty deep,

And there should be her grave:

Nail to the mast her holy flag.

Set every threadbare sail,

And give her to the god of storms,

The lightning and the gale!

Welfare Costs Rose During Month of April

Figures compiled for the month of April revealed an upward trend in the number of cases processed and expenses incurred by the Welfare Department. With 1,326 applications approved, 348 rejected or withdrawn, and 1,262 cases closed, a net increase of 64 cases has resulted. The total expenditures were $3,885,813 which provided public assistance to 28,360 cases for an average of $136.72. Two thirds was paid to the clients and the balance rendered to vendors primarily for medical services, Director William F. Lally of the Welfare Department reports.

Outside Taxis Banned from Business Here

Protection for Boston taxicab drivers is contained in a bill signed recently by Governor Peabody prohibiting taxi operators and other drivers not licensed by the Boston Police Commissioner from doing business in Boston.

Beacon Hill Designated National Historic Spot

Boston's Beacon Hill has been officially designated a national historic landmark.

Presentation to Mayor Collins of a certificate of shrine status was made recently by Regional Director Edwin Small of the U. S. Interior Department's National Parks service, at exercises at the Northeastern University Pharmacy Building on Mt. Vernon street.

Clerk Paul L. Carty of the City of Boston Employees Credit Union wishes to call the attention of city employees to the new location of the Credit Union's office at City Hall. The office remains on the third floor but at the western side of the building, near the self-service elevator stop.

Its number is now 34. In these larger, more modern quarters, furnished with new updated equipment, the staff will be better able to facilitate the services and programs provided to the members of the Credit Union.

"Big Mamie" Wins Reprieve, But ???

The USS Massachusetts, "Big Mamie," the World War II battleship born down in Fore River and equipped with a massive "KO" punch has been granted a reprieve almost on the eve of her banishment to the scrap heap.

Congressman Torbert MacDonald won the Navy Department's consent to a stop order on the scrapping of the ship on which so many sons of Boston and Massachusetts served during her days of glory.

The possibility that she'll wind up back in Boston as an historical shrine remains a deep question. The Navy estimates it would cost $200,000 just to get her ready for public showing. On top of that, says the Navy, it would cost about as much more every year for her upkeep.

VII. HIGH COMMENDATIONS.

At 7.09 P.M., May 2, 1963, the department responded to an alarm from Box 1794 for a fire in a tenement house at 404 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury. Upon arrival of the apparatus at the scene, the members were notified that children were trapped in a rear apartment on the second floor.

Fire Lieutenants Leo J. Fama of Engine Company 21 (detailed to Engine Company 24) and Warren A. Hardy of Ladder Company 23 and Fire Fighter Henry W. Young of Engine Company 21 immediately proceeded to the second floor groping their way through large volumes of heavy black smoke, entered the apartment where they located three children trapped in a bedroom. Each member picked up a child and removed them to the street. These rescues were performed under very difficult conditions and before ventilation had been effected or water applied to the fire.

Because of the fact that Lieutenants Fama and Hardy and Fire Fighter Young accomplished the rescue work at great risk to themselves and without regard for their own safety, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend them highly and their cases are referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

Mayor's Tax Cut Draws Instant Attention of Nation "How Did He Do It?" Queries Chicago, Detroit, Memphis

When the two major news services out of Boston put a "cupla paragraphs" on the wire on the morning of May 28, the editors immediately turned their attention to the development of the "cupla paragraphs" on a big local basis.

Such a story wouldn't hold much interest beyond New England, they assured themselves.

Within minutes the "cupla paragraphs" intended for "Oh, yeah," interest on a national basis had the incoming wires jumping.

"Give us more!"

"How'd he do it?"

"Need more right away on Boston tax story!"

"Give us plenty! At once! Boston tax rate."

"Can we get Mayor's own story — How'd he do it?"

The queries originated in such faraway points as Chicago, Detroit, and Memphis.

"Can you imagine," said Frank Murphy, Associated Press veteran.

"You never really know," said Henry Minott of the United Press International.

Every newspaperman who has cut his eyeteeth on the edge of a Boston city desk knows by now that local taxes are a big news item in Boston. Yet, an hour after the news of the Mayor's announcement that Boston's tax rate was going down $3.80 this year the old-timers on the desk came to know just about every city in the United States is pretty conscious of tax rates these days and when a city the size of Boston, which was bobbing along in the heavy doldrums of despair only a few years back, comes up with a cut they want to know about it.

And it wasn't necessary to look for chain reaction from cities like Chicago, Detroit, and Memphis. The impact was felt throughout New England and particularly Massachusetts itself for in the Bay State the first 21 cities to announce their rates for '63 had all of them announcing an increase. Indeed the average jump since 1959 was showing a whopping increase of $10.30.

REALISTIC RATE

On top of his announcement of a fourth straight tax decrease since he became Mayor in 1960, Mayor Collins was able to announce further that "next year, if the healthy economic climate continues, the tax rate will be further reduced."

The Mayor pointed out: "The reduction was achieved despite a steady decline in total assessed valuations—despite steady increases in school costs and state assessments—and despite numerous increases in compensation and fringe benefits made available to our valued city employees.

"However, rent-payers and others affected by the tax rate can be assured that the city is in a sound financial condition. Its credit is constantly improving.

"The city not only has reduced its debt substantially but has converted a cash deficit of $10.3 million on January 1, 1960, to an available cash surplus of $6.1 million on January 1, 1963, a net improvement of more than $16 million in the three-year period I have been in office."

NEXT YEAR, TOO!

The Mayor concluded: "In the absence of presently unforeseen obstacles, there is good reason to believe that we in Boston have effectively reversed the upward trend in the tax rate which other cities and towns still are experiencing."

The reaction of editors in Chicago, Detroit, and Memphis was sharply reflected here.

Pointed out, General James McCormack, Jr., president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, "Boston is truly an All-America City. It is one of the few major cities in the United States which has been successful in reducing its tax rate over the past four years. In addition, when compared to the spiraling tax rate in suburban communities around Boston, this achievement on the part of the Mayor and Council gains considerable further importance and recognition."

Mayor Pays High Tribute to City Hospital Volunteers

Mayor Collins paid high tribute to the volunteer workers of Boston City Hospital as they gathered at the Vose House on the evening of May 28 for the observance of Recognition Night. They were guests of the Friends of City Hospital and the hospital's board of trustees.

In a telegram to Mrs. Jean Wright, Deputy Superintendent for volunteer services, the Mayor said, "Please extend to your wonderful group of volunteers my gratitude and sincere appreciation for their hours of great service in behalf of the patients of Boston City Hospital."

Dr. John F. Conlin, Superintendent, presented pins to 48 men and women who have given more than 100 hours of volunteer service during the past year. Tax Rate . . .

some of the costs of local government to the state, such as welfare and education, are still necessary if the city's drive toward greater economic stability is to be realized."

Edward Wilson, assistant commissioner of corporations and taxation for the state, declared the tax reduction "in every sense realistic and one which augurs well for the future of the city."

President Milton H. Shaw of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board hailed the improved image of the New Boston. "Mayor Collins," he asserted, "is to be congratulated upon being able to reduce Boston's tax rate four times in a row. This unprecedented accomplishment is encouraging to businessmen as well as to all citizens. It will help stimulate commercial and industrial expansion."

The average taxpayer's response. That was easy to figure out.

Take the owner of a small home valued at $5,000. It will mean a savings of $19 to him. Take the owner of a house assessed at $7,500. He will pay $28.50 less this year than he did in 1962.

Perhaps, there's nothing at all strange about the excitement those first "cupla paragraphs" stirred among editors in Chicago, Detroit, and Memphis, the other day.

6-Man Team Studies Library Addition

A special six-man committee has been convened to recommend a list of architects capable of designing an addition to Boston's Central Library Building.

Named to the committee are Douglas Haskell, editor of Architectural Forum; Bartlett H. Hayes, Jr., director of Addison Gallery of American Art, Phillips Academy; August Hecksher, New York City Art Commissioner; Martin Meyer-son, acting dean of the Graduate School of Design at Harvard; G. Holmes Perkins, chairman of the Philadelphia City Planning Commission; and Christopher Tunnard, Professor of City Planning at Yale.

Box Score on City's Tax Rate for 9 Years

In 1950 Boston's tax rate was $63. In 1959 it broke the $100 barrier reaching the mark of $101.20. From '55 to '59 the year-by-year climb was ever toward new highs. With the advent of Mayor Collins' administration the climb has been checked and the trend reversed.

Here's the box score since 1955:

1956—$78.70 UP $8.90
1957—$86.00 UP $7.30
1958—$93.00 UP $7.00
1959—$101.20 UP $8.20
1960—$100.70 DOWN $0.50
1961—$100.60 DOWN $0.10
1962—$99.80 DOWN $0.80
1963—$96.00 DOWN $3.80

In the period from 1950 to 1959 the tax rate went up steadily a total of $38.20. In the four-year period from 1960 to the present it has steadily gone down a total of $5.20.

Cleopatra to Assist Field Day on June 25

First showing of "Cleopatra" in New England will be at the Music Hall on June 25.

This pre-premiere will benefit the Mayor's Charity Field Day Fund.

The 20th Century-Fox film stars Elizabeth Taylor in the title role, Richard Burton as Anthony and Rex Harrison as Julius Caesar. It was made at a reputed cost of $40 million.

MDC Gets Legal OK For Towing Violators

The Legislature has passed a law making it legal for MDC police to tow illegally parked automobiles. Previously these officers had the right to remove cars which impeded snow removal but other violators could have tested their cases in court and possibly have won since no statute appeared to cover.

HUB VISITORS—Robbie and Kerry Whitaker of Cincinnati, 1963 Muscular Dystrophy National Poster Children, were greeted in their recent visit to Boston by Boston Muscular Dystrophy Associations Chairmen Fire Commissioner Thomas Griffin (right) and Lt. George Graney, representing Boston Fire Fighters Local No. 718. Robbie and Kerry represent the tens of thousands of muscular dystrophy children who are searching for a cause and a cure for muscular dystrophy. Boston's annual appeal will be in October.

Costello Looks Ahead To Big '63 Conferama

Lawrence W. Costello of the Administrative Services Department, never one to sit on past performances, is already beating the drum for the eighth annual "Conferama," now tentatively dated for November 21-22, probably at its old site in the Public Library Lecture Hall.

Costello, co-ordinator for the Conferama, in a somewhat lengthy missive "To Conferees" urges an expression of views to help in determining the theme and type of program that will be featured this year.

"Ould Widow Bing" Busy Gal in Her Day

They claimed a record of some kind out in Dorchester back in 1705, according to the intensely interesting "Early Dorchester" series written by the late Lawrence F. Berry now being published in the sprightly Dorchester Beacon.

Seems that "Ould Widow Wiate Bing," died on February 6 that year at the age of 94. She had devoted most of her life to the practice of a midwife. An old record dug by Mr. Berry claimed that in her career "shee was insurmintall (sic) for the bringin (sic) into the world" more than one thousand, one hundred children.

Tufts Alumni Honors BCH's Dr. Moloney

Dr. William C. Moloney, head of the Clinical and Hematology Laboratories at Boston City Hospital and one of the nation's top nuclear researchers, has been named a life member of the Tufts University's Alumni Council.

He will represent the Tufts School of Medicine on the Alumni Council, the executive board of the 25,000-member Tufts Alumni Association.

Dr. Moloney graduated from Tufts Medical with the class of 1932. He was presented an honorary doctorate in science by Holy Cross College in 1961.

He was formerly deputy director of research for the Atomic Bomb Casualty Commission at Hiroshima, Japan, 1952-54. He is a member of the board of directors, American Cancer Society. His many other memberships include trusteeship of the Boston Medical Library; diplomate, Board of Internal Medicine; fellow, International Society of Hematology and of the American College of Physicians.

CHARMING OFFICERS—Recently commissioned as ensigns in the Nursing Corps of the U. S. Navy were these two graduates of the Boston City Hospital School of Nursing, Ensigns Patricia Grant (left) of Roslindale, and Carol Strand of Dorchester. Miss Grant is a 1960 graduate of BCH, Miss Strand is a member of the 1961 class.

BCH Aide Knows His Diamond Statistics

Hal Kaese of the Boston Globe has notebooks, original score cards, and an encyclopedic memory in the broad field of American sports. Yet, this premier sports page favorite has a rival who never sat in the press box or enjoyed Tom Yawkey's hospitality in the confines of the diamond experts' rum-pus room.

Rival is talented Harold Paretchan, long-time employee of the inhalation therapy service at Boston City Hospital. He has an awesome fund of statistics, long-forgotten facts, trivia and memorabilia on the national pastime which could fill volumes. Further, he can put his finger right on the statistic you want, whether it concerns "Old Hoss" Radburne or the year that the Red Sox spring training trip included a stay at the Tufts University (then Tufts College) lacrosse field.

Don Goss, 11, Shares Another Big Experience With Mayor

Don Goss, who is only 11, has shared one top life experience with Mayor John Collins. When the Mayor's car swings over the streets of Dorchester in the big Dorchester Day parade, June 8, Don will share laurels and place of honor right beside his Honor.

He's a pretty remarkable boy.

When he completes his studies at the Patrick O'Hearn School a few days hence his report card will be liberally studded with "A's." When schools reopen in the fall, Don will be a freshman at Boston Latin School. He passed his exams with flying colors.

It was 'way back in 1955 that Don shared his first big life experience with the Mayor. That was the last year of polio epidemics. That was the year a man named Dr. Jonas E. Salk came up with Medical Science's answer to the scourge called poliomyelitis—just a few months too late to prevent, Don and the Mayor and the Mayor's three children from being felled by the disease.

Don was only 4. He didn't meet the Mayor, then. He and the Mayor and others across the nation—little boys and girls like, Donald—healthy men and women like John F. Collins—were too busy battling for life itself in the days which followed.

The other night Donald and the Mayor met.

The occasion was a pre-Dorchester Day banquet meeting. They brought Donald up to meet the Mayor. Donald, it was explained, was the top prize winner of the essay contest for school children based on the theme, "Dorchester of the Past."

His Honor and the youngster found they had lots to talk about.

It all wound up with an invitation from the Mayor to Donald.

"Tell you what," said the Mayor, "I'd like to have you ride right beside me in the big parade (the big Dorchester Day parade—what else?)."

"I'd love to," responded the manly boy.

That's how Donald has won his place of honor in the Dorchester procession.

He's the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald J. Goss, Sr., of St. Jude terrace, Dorchester. He has a sister, Kathleen, 9, a pupil at the Mary Hemenway School, and a brother, Christopher David, who is 3½ years old.

During his long recuperation from the polio attack he prepared himself for his accumulation of "A's" and his entrance to Latin School by study at home. Until last year he was tutored at home by teachers of the Boston public school system. "One of the most apt pupils, I ever had," said one of his teachers.

His mother, Marjorie, and his sister, Kathleen, are extremely proud of the Mayor's invitation. "All our family has been greatly honored," said Mrs. Goss.

Other winners of the essay contest were:

Marsha H. Zack, 16, 53 Woodbole avenue, Dorchester, Jeremiah E. Burke High Sophomore, who wrote on "The Dorchester of the Future," and Mary Ann Walker, 74 Sudan street, Dorchester, eighth grader at the William E. Russell Junior High, whose subject was, "Dorchester of the Present."

All will be honored by the Mayor at City Hall when they are awarded their prizes.

Anthony's Studio

HE'LL RIDE WITH MAYOR — Donald Goss, eleven, stricken with polio in 1955 in the same epidemic which felled Mayor Collins and three of the Mayor's four children, will share another lifetime experience with the Mayor in the big Dorchester parade — this time a most pleasant one. Essay winner Donald, shown with his mother, Marjorie, will ride beside the Mayor in the parade — at his Honor's invitation.

Dorchester's Spirit Wins Mayor's Praise

Mayor Collins lauded Dorchester residents for displaying "the same spirit, pride, determination, and purpose" as the settlers who first landed and developed the area.

The Mayor addressing more than 250 persons at a Victory road armory, said he hoped those qualities "will now inspire you to seize the opportunity to refurbish our own community and pass along this spirit to future generations."

The dinner was the opening event in a series being held to commemorate the 333d anniversary of the founding of Dorchester.

The Mayor pointed out that Dorchester "is the largest residential section of Boston, with one-third of the city's population," and said that "her nearly 200,000 citizens themselves would comprise a fairly large city."

He said Dorchester "can be said to have been one of the foremost factors in the establishment of the democratic process and the principles of religious, economic and social freedoms upon which the American way of life is based."

Francis A. O'Reilly

Francis A. O'Reilly, 68, retired first grade detective of the Boston Police Department, died at his home at 83 Newburg street, Roslindale. He served for many years at police headquarters and at the Fields Corner Station. His son, Patrolman Francis O'Reilly serves at the Milk Street Station.

Besides his son he leaves his wife, Mrs. Elizabeth (Rowe) O'Reilly, two daughters, Mrs. Mary Griffiths, of West Roxbury, and Mrs. Claire Curran, of Hyde Park. Also two sisters, Sister Ita, now serving in the Holy Land, and Mrs. Margaret McNair, of Hyde Park, and four brothers, William, Joseph and Raymond, of Boston, and Louis, of Chicago, survive.

He was a Navy veteran of World War I. He retired from the Police Department in 1961.

Northeast Rejection Might Cut 2500 Jobs

Pointing out that denial of permanent certification of the Atlantic Coast routes of the Northeast Airlines would wipe out jobs of some 2,500 of the airline's employees, including 1,500 in Boston, Chairman Earl P. Stevenson of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce Board urged favorable action.

He forwarded a resolution of the Chamber's directorship to the Civil Aeronautics Board in behalf of Northeast. The resolution pointed out that one of Aeronautics Board examiners had recommended Northeast's request; underscored the loss of jobs in event of a turndown; urged the need of a third carrier on the Boston-New York-Florida and other coastal runs; praised Northeast's satisfactory service.

10 Boards Classified "Special Employees"

The City Council has taken action classifying members of the following boards as "special municipal employees" under terms of the Conflict of Interest Law:

Trustees of the Boston Public Library; trustees of the Boston City Hospital; Overseers of the Welfare Department; Board of Commissioners of School Buildings; trustees of the George Robert White Fund; members of the Art Commission; members of the Beacon Hill Architectural Commission; Board of Appeal of the Building Department; Board of Examiners of the Building Department; members of the Retirement Board.

Also classified as "special municipal employees" are certain temporary employees of the Election Department.

CONGRATULATIONS! — Dr. John F. Conlin, left, expressed the deep appreciation of the hospital's board of trustees and its staff for the work of the hospital volunteers recently honored at Recognition Night. The hospital head is facing Mrs. Martin Walsh, wife of Boston's Park Commissioner, who was awarded a pin for her great services, Mrs. Jean W. Blake, head of the volunteer services, and Joseph P. Lally, Jr., who gave up most of his vacation season at the beach last year to give long hours of voluntary service at the hospital.

"Ironsidess" and "Big Mamie," Too, for Us?

While final decision on the USS "Constitution's" loan to the New York World's Fair remained in the balance this week, interesting conjectures were given rise by speculation that maybe Boston, after all, might also wind up with the USS "Massachusetts" as a historical showpiece.

"Big Mamie," with the tremendous victory sock of World War II, and "Old Ironsides," which could land some mighty punches back in the bare-knuckle days of 1812, might become twin parts of the Victory Trail, it was said.

"Big Mamie," which won a last-minute reprieve from the scrap heap, rode calmly at anchor with other mothballers at Norfolk, Virginia, at week's end. "Old Ironsides" did the same in Charlestown.

Meanwhile experts studied all the "ifs," "ands," and "buts" of their immediate future.

Modernization Job For Pier 3

Modernization of half-century-old Pier 3 of East Boston has been agreed upon by the Massachusetts Port Authority and the New York Central Railroad and the United States Lines. Pier 3 is adjacent to the $6 million Pier 1, constructed in 1954. The latter has been the center of operations for the United States Lines which carries a high percentage of the port's general cargoes.

However, Pier 3 is now required for the United States Lines' Challenge Class freighters which are 565 feet long.

State Level Taxes Climb and Climb

Reporting an "in depth study," the New York Times News Service notes a steady state-level rise in taxation and tax income.

A study of state government finances published by the Census Bureau, writes Benjamin A. Franklin, shows that the revenue of state governments increased 8.7 percent between 1961 and 1962 from $34.6 billion to $37.6 billion.

In the 1960-1961 legislative year, seven states added new taxes and 25 others raised rates or broadened the tax rate, for an increased annual yield estimated at $1 billion. General sales taxes continued to be the source of greatest revenue, providing $5.1 billion or nearly one quarter of total state tax income, even though this kind of tax is not collected in 13 states (including Massachusetts).

Education continued to account both for the largest portion of state spending and for the largest percentage increase, year to year. For education in 1962 the state spent—exclusive of proportionately larger expenditures by local jurisdictions—a total of 10.7 billion or 10 percent more than in 1961.

3 British Ships Here Anyone for Cricket?

Three ships of Her Majesty's Royal Navy come to Boston this week for a visit which will extend to June 11. The ships—HMS "Tenby," "Torquay," and "Wizard"—are members of the Dartmouth training squadron.

They will moor in the Naval Shipyard's South Boston Annex. On Sunday, June 9, from 2.30 P.M. to 5.30 P.M., the vessels will be open to the public.

While in port her sport teams would like to meet local teams for soccer, rugby, cricket, and even for a bit of sailing.

A marker placed in memory of Confederate Civil War dead buried in Massachusetts was dedicated on May 24 at Fort Warren in Boston Harbor by the Boston Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy.

The unveiling and dedication was part of the Sixth National Assembly of the United States Civil War Centennial Commission. Funds for the marker came from North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, and Mississippi. The donations were made by friends of the Commission.

Ernest Henderson, III, Heads Sheraton Chain

Ernest Henderson, III, was elected president of the Sheraton Corporation's 85-hotel system recently. He is son of the cofounder of the corporation and has been a director of the company for 10 years.

A graduate of Harvard College and Harvard Business School, he makes his home in Wellesley Hills.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court outlawed slavery in this state finding basis for its decision in the State Bill of Rights which proclaims all men "are born free and equal." That was in 1783.

WELFARE COSTS FOR APRIL

Following is a summary of the Welfare Department for April:

Figures compiled for the month of April, 1963, reveal an upward trend in the number of cases processed and expenses incurred by the department. With 1,326 applications approved, 348 rejected or withdrawn, and 1,262 cases closed, a net increase of 64 cases has resulted. The total expenditures were $3,885,813 which provided public assistance to 28,360 cases for an average of $136.72. Two thirds was paid to the clients and the balance rendered to vendors primarily for medical services.

Old Age Assistance: This category was not a factor in the over-all caseload increase noted above. Although an outlay of $1,070,581 was made in behalf of 11,628 clients for an average expenditure of $91.96, the fact that 156 approvals were offset by 216 closings, resulted in a net decrease of 60 cases.

Medical Assistance for Aged: Of the 5,779 clients found eligible for this category, 1,005 were able to meet the contingencies of daily living from personal resources. The remaining 4,774 incurred medical expenses which were underwritten in the amount of $860,519. In addition $20,507 was provided for the personal care of clients in hospitals and nursing homes.

Aid to Dependent Children: This category was a factor in the over-all caseload increase, although minimal; 360 closings were counter-balanced by 369 approvals. Unemployment of the wage earner as an eligibility factor was the predominant reason for approvals. The 7,100 cases serviced accounted for an expenditure of $1,310,249, for an average grant of $184.40.

Disability Assistance: Failure of nearly one third of new applicants to meet medical eligibility requirements was the predominant factor in 69 cases being rejected in this category. With 119 approvals and 102 closings, adjusted figures show that 3,179 clients received assistance. The total cost was $471,969, averaging $148.21 per person.

General Relief: There were no substantial changes noted during the month although the percentage of turnover was more than in other categories. Of the 433 applications serviced, 392 were approved and 41 rejected. Return to employment was a major factor in closing 393 cases. An average expenditure of $75.01 on behalf of 1,979 clients resulted in a total expenditure of $151,988, exclusive of medical services provided by the Boston City Hospital.

Personnel Order No. 145.

The resignation of Patrolman Frederick J. Gaffney, Planning Division, having been presented, is hereby accepted to take effect Monday, May 27, 1963, at 7.45 o'clock A.M.

May 24.

Personnel Order No. 146.

Patrolman Paul J. Donahue, District 18, is hereby commended for meritorious police duty and granted three days' additional vacation.

At about 4 A.M., Tuesday, February 5, 1963, Patrolman Donahue, while off duty and at home, investigated a noise from a variety store at 174 Dorchester avenue, where he found a group of youths looting the store. All fled, pursued by the officer who was fired at three times during the chase. Patrolman Donahue captured one of the culprits and subsequently two more were arrested. They were convicted in court of this and other burglaries in the community.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and devotion to duty displayed by Patrolman Donahue, whose immediate action resulted in the apprehension of a dangerous gang who were responsible for the commission of a number of felonies in the South Boston district.

May 24.

Personnel Order No. 147.

Patrolman Nicholas J. Driscoll, District 16, is hereby commended for meritorious police duty and granted three days' additional vacation.

About 11 P.M., Sunday, April 28, 1963, a man forced his way into an apartment in the Back Bay district at the point of a gun and forced three young women occupants to disrobe. After binding them with strips of bed linen, he sexually assaulted one of the girls and robbed them of a sum of money. A description of the offender was immediately broadcast and Patrolman Driscoll reported that he had observed a man who closely resembled the wanted man in the vicinity of a Back Bay hotel earlier that evening.

As a result of this information, a Fitchburg man was arrested and identified as the perpetrator of this vicious crime.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the alertness and keen observation displayed by Patrolman Driscoll whose action was the primary factor in the solving of this crime.

May 24.

Personnel Order No. 148.

Sergeants George V. Scanlon, Michael J. Keightley and Patrolmen William A.

Keough and Russell P. Childers, District 4, are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each is granted three days' additional vacation.

At about 12.10 P.M., Saturday, April 27, 1963, Patrolmen Keough and Childers observed a known bank robber acting in a suspicious manner. He joined a man and woman in a car in a parking lot on Harrison avenue. When questioned, all three appeared nervous and evasive and gave false identity. Both men were arrested on suspicion of armed robbery of a local bank on April 10, 1963. All three were transported in the rental vehicle to the station.

Sergeants Scanlon and Keightley joined in the search of the car and hidden money was found in the sum of $428, knowledge of which was denied by the occupants. Further investigation disclosed two apartments where stolen property might be concealed and search warrants were obtained resulting in the finding of $5,095 in various denominations. Present in one of the apartments was a known convicted bank robber who was evasive and refused to answer questions. He was arrested for suspicion of robbery.

After establishing identity of two of the suspects, it was determined that these men could have been involved in the robbery of the Bristol County Trust Company Bank Annex, Taunton, Mass., on April 24, 1963. The Federal Bureau of Investigation was notified of the seizure of the money and the serial numbers proved some of the bills found in the apartment were the same as those taken in the bank robbery in Taunton.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the keen observation displayed by Patrolmen Keough and Childers in recognizing a known criminal. These officers, with Sergeants Scanlon and Keightley, by their refusal to accept evasive answers and their persistent investigation, displayed superior judgment resulting in the recovery of stolen bank money and the apprehension of three men with records of bank robberies.

N.Y. "Times" Gives Million Readers Tips for Boston-on-the-Move Visit

Boston as the gateway to New England entertains many tourists every year. This summer it looks as though all previous records will be broken and that a large number of the visitors will be stopping off for several days rather than playing the role of just "passing through."

There's every indication that our new rating in the All-America class and the sound achievements of the past four years have had a far more telling effect than some of the lurid, sensational, and, too often low-belt publicity to which the city and state has been subjected recently.

Here's an article which appeared in the New York "Times" Sunday, June 2. It was written by John H. Fenton, the "Times" outstanding veteran, who has been responsible for giving "Times" 1.4 million readers a true and accurate picture of Boston and New England for many years.

BOSTON — Visitors to Massachusetts this summer should be prepared to see giant earth-moving machines roaring across the green countryside like prehistoric beasts. They are part of a physical and moral reawakening in the old Bay State that is calculated to change everything but the historic image of the Commonwealth.

The earth-movers are busy implementing the Federal Interstate Highway System, particularly just east of mid-state, where Route 495 is carving a new express highway around Boston to take some of the burden off State Route 128.

New "Inner" City

Here in Boston bulldozers, wrecking cranes, and construction equipment are continuing a rebuilding program, also largely with government funds, that is creating a whole new inner city that will rub elbows with historic shrines.

But for all the bustle to keep up with the municipal Joneses in newer sections of the country, there still remain enough quiet hide-aways between Cape Cod and the Berkshire Hills to provide vacation relaxation for the family which is seeking it.

The burgeoning highways, still backboned from the south by the Connecticut Turnpike and the Wilbur Cross Highway and from the west by the Massachusetts Turnpike continue to be the best means of reaching this Commonwealth for the family committed to private wheels.

But most major airlines also fly into Boston; the New Haven and the Boston & Albany Railroads retain some semblance of service, and Greyhound and Trailways continue to increase creature comforts by bus. Hiring a car, once in Massachusetts, or using local bus lines in major cities, keeps the tourist without his own transportation mobile.

The days of bargain housing and inexpensive meals have largely faded into history. But it is still possible for the thrifty family to picnic along the roadside in the afternoon, get a hearty dinner at night for about $4 apiece and bed down in a guest house for another $3 each.

Bargains Rare

The American tendency to keep on the go has militated against the old custom of offering room and board at attractive rates. But oc-asionally one can find weekly prices of $55 a person, with the rates for children half that.

This year, the best way to see Boston is probably to park the car and either go by foot or by Metropolitan Transit Authority streetcars and buses. Sightseeing bus tours are available, however, for wider ranging. Taxicab riding in Boston can be expensive, as the flag trips up to 40 cents to start and flicks up rapidly at 10 cents a click.

In the Back Bay area, just west of Copley square, work on the 52-story Prudential Center, a privately financed project of the Prudential Insurance Company of America, is giving Boston a new skyline. Its construction, and an extension of the turnpike into downtown, are necessarily creating a traffic problem.

Farther downtown, in Scollay square, the construction of a massive group of federal buildings, state offices and a new City Hall creates another problem. However, it is still possible to bypass the area by following the Freedom Trail, a marked pedestrian tour that begins at the present State House and goes on to Faneuil Hall, the Old State House and the Old North Church.—J.H.F.

Hotel Men to Discuss Rehabilitation Plans

A discussion of downtown rehabilitation plans is on the agenda of the regular monthly meeting of the City of Boston Hotel Association to be held at the Sheraton Plaza Hotel, June 18. President Paul E. Landry will preside.

Dr. McDermott, Noted Surgeon, to Head Two BCH Surgical Services

Dr. William V. McDermott, Jr., 46, surgeon, who has won widespread attention for his work in the field of diseases of the liver, will become director of the Fifth (Harvard) Surgical Service and the Sears Laboratory for Surgical Research at Boston City Hospital on July 1.

In addition to the two City Hospital posts he will also become professor of surgery at Harvard Medical School on the same date. His appointments were simultaneously announced by President William H. Ellis, Jr., of the BCH board of trustees, and Dr. George P. Berry, dean of the faculty of medicine at Harvard.

A close and fruitful relationship has existed between the Harvard Medical School and the Boston City Hospital since the latter first opened in 1864 as the first municipally-owned hospital in the United States. Two other distinguished Harvard Services are in existence at the hospital—the Harvard Medical Service and the Thorndike Memorial Laboratory directed by Dr. William B. Castle, George C. Minot, Professor of Medicine at Harvard, and the Harvard Neurological Service which is under the direction of Dr. Derek E. Denny-Brown, Professor of Neurology.

As Director of the Harvard Surgical Service, Dr. McDermott will be responsible for an 84-bed unit that annually averages 1,650 admissions and 4,400 surgical operations. Soon to be completed as an adjunct to the present facilities is a new six-bed "intensive care" unit. Four fully qualified surgical residents complete their training on the Harvard Surgical Service each year. The Service also offers an excellent intern training program.

The Sears Laboratory for Surgical Research, soon to occupy new quarters now under construction at the Boston City Hospital, has a broad-based research program. Among the investigations currently under way are studies of the activity of pancreatic hormones, developmental work on a new pump for intra-arterial infusions for cancer chemotherapy, development of a new pump oxygenator for open heart surgery, investigations into the problem of stone formations in the bile duct, studies of problems concerned with the preservation and transplantation of the mammalian heart, research into the processes linked to wound healing and into factors concerned with control of hemorrhage, and studies of methods by which to halt the spread of cancer through the blood stream.

Thomas P. McDavitt

Thomas P. McDavitt, 83, died recently at Carney Hospital. He was a retired courthouse commissioner and for many years well-known in Boston political circles. He made his home at 782 East Fourth street, South Boston.

Born in South Boston, he was a former first assistant clerk of the Suffolk Superior Criminal Court, secretary to the late District Attorney William J. Foley, and a former State Representative.

He leaves his wife, Mrs. Abbie (Brown) McDavitt; two daughters, Miss Mary B. McDavitt of South Boston and Mrs. Betty B. Stapleton of Quincy; and a son, Thomas B. McDavitt of Dorchester, assistant chief of the State Inheritance Tax Bureau. He also leaves a brother, George A. McDavitt of Dorchester.

Dr. McDermott is a native of Salem (March 9, 1917). He attended Phillips Exeter Academy, then entered Harvard where he received the A.B. degree in 1938 and the M.D. degree in 1942. Following a surgical internship at the Massachusetts General Hospital, he spent the years 1943-46 on active duty with the Medical Corps of the United States Army, attaining the rank of Major.

For 27 months he was in the European Theater of Operations where he earned the ETO Ribbon with five battle stars. For his distinguished service he received the Bronze Star. He returned to the Massachusetts General Hospital in 1946 as Assistant Resident Surgeon; then, for a year, studied at Yale, as a Research Fellow of the National Institutes of Health, under Dr. C. N. H. Long, Sterling Professor of Physiology.

He returned to Boston in 1950 as Resident Surgeon at the Massachusetts General Hospital and Teaching Fellow in Surgery at the Harvard Medical School.

H. C. Haizlip Named to ABCD Staff Post

Appointment of Harold C. Haizlip to the staff of Action for Boston Community Development as a program specialist in the field of education was announced June 12 by Dean Charles I. Schottland of Brandeis University, ABCD president.

Haizlip, who is completing his work for a doctoral degree at the Harvard Graduate School of Education, is research consultant to Teaching Systems Corporation, Cambridge. He has been a teacher in Wellesley High School and administrative principal and assistant to the director of the Harvard-Newton Summer School. He is a graduate of Amherst College.

Haizlip, who lives at 11 Everett street, Cambridge, will take part this summer in a work conference on curriculum and teaching in depressed urban areas at Teachers College, Columbia University.

50 Years in Same Shop, That's Printing Department's Danny Cadigan

Bright and early on Monday morning, June 16, 1913, a kid went to work for the City of Boston Printing Department. He had a pretty good background. Born in South Boston he had spent most of his early life in Charlestown.

Like all kids in those days, he was a bit worried that first morning. He quickly got the idea that there was an awful lot to learn in the printing business. Many times in those first few days he looked over the aproned old-timers at the stones, watched them eject a mouthful of tobacco and hit a cuspidor 10 feet away with unerring accuracy, and then turn back to the galleys.

It was their language that really got him. It was a professional patois the like of which he never heard in South Boston or Charlestown.

He wondered if he'd ever make it.

On Sunday, June 16, 1963, Daniel L. (everybody calls him "Danny") Cadigan will sit down to Sunday dinner with his wife Mathilda in their home at 14 Champney street, Brighton. He'll have to be pardoned if he'll take out time to wonder how 50 years could go so fast.

He Made It

Yep, Danny made the printing business with a bang. He's still at it. He made all the steps on the ladder all the way up to his present rating of working foreman. And he's still where he started in the shop of the City of Boston's Printing Department.

He brought a lot of assets with him back on June 16, 1913. He had a lot of things going for him. He was willing to listen. He was willing to learn. He was willing to work. ("Never ducked a job in his life," remarked a co-worker the other day.)

On top of that his smile came easily and often. It still does. Talents like that can carry a guy a long way. That's why Danny Cadigan's first 50 years have skidded by so fast.

Tunnel Wall Repairs Now Under Way

Callahan Tunnel is down to a single lane tube during off-peak traffic hours to enable workmen to replace missing and broken wall tiles and to construct new down drains. First to receive the attention of the workers was the south wall from the Boston end to East Boston. The same procedure will follow in the Sumner Tunnel later. Completion date is set for August 18.

Danny's not exactly a "joiner." But he really prizes one organizational membership more than a whole billfold filled with membership cards. He's a member of the Old Charlestown Schoolboys' Association.

That's Danny

That's an outfit more exclusive than the Tennis and Racket Club in the latter's palmiest days. First qualification to join the Schoolboys' organization is that you went to school in Charlestown. Second is that you attended that school before 1910. Without those qualifications you can't buy your way in. Every year, of course, membership dwindles. Not by choice but by the attrition of death. Yet, its spirit grows brighter every year.

That's Danny.

He has seen a lot of lead melted down in his day. He has seen his share of pied type. He's helped to beat the deadline in many a race against the clock—even when copy was lousy and the guys at the machines cursed softly as they studied impossible handwriting and turned it into perfect type.

Danny made it. Fifty years in the same shop attest to that.

We Tried, Dad, But There Were No Clues and BCH Has So Many Patients

(Following is a letter written to a patient who was at the Boston City Hospital on or about June 4 or 5 and who may be still at the hospital.)

"Dear Dad or Grampy—This is to tell you that three pretty cards arrived at the hospital for you the other day. They were very nice cards. They had little poems and written messages for you. We had to open them up because there was nothing on the outside of the envelopes to indicate for whom they were intended.

"They just said—'Boston City Hospital, Harrison Avenue, Boston, Mass.' There was no clue which could lead us to your real name. We tried very hard to deliver them. We asked lots of the nurses if they had, perchance, a patient who mentioned little children in Peabody or Lynn. Two of the cards bore Peabody postmarks and one was from Lynn. But that try at a private solution didn't work out.

"One of the cards read—'Happy Birthday, Grampy.' It was signed Deb, Chris, and Cindy. The verse was very pretty. It was mailed in Peabody and postmarked 11:30 A.M., June 4. I'll bet they probably mailed it on their way to school that morning. Don't you think so?

"There was another note with exactly the same sort of postmark. It read 'Happy Birthday, Dad.' It was signed Larry and Marie. The card had pretty flowers, too, and a pretty verse.

"The very next day a card came for you from Lynn. It said, 'Hope you're feeling better.' It was signed, Larry, Marie, and Kids. Again the verse was very nice.

"We're writing this in hope someone might come up with the answer so that we can forward the cards to you. If you're still a patient in the hospital we hope you are feeling fine. If you've been discharged we hope your convalescence is swift.

"Maybe, by now you've been reunited with Larry and Marie and Deb and Chris and Cindy. If they ask you about the cards tell them we tried hard to find you but just couldn't."

Mrs. Collins Hails Rabbinical School Aid

Mrs. Mary Collins, wife of Mayor Collins, tendered the city's greetings at the Ninth Donor Luncheon of the Women's Group of the Boston Rabbinical Seminary of Dorchester at the Chateau Garod, Brookline. Proceeds of the affair, attended by 150 women, will go to the fund being raised to provide a new home for the school, badly damaged by fire last winter.

"Fortune" Sees Boom In Private Building

Fortune magazine which prides itself in keeping an expert finger on the nation's economic pulse, in an article published, of course, before the announcement of this year's tax slash, says it cannot find any reason why the Hub shouldn't have developed a building boom long ago.

The article emphasizes Boston's long-standing potential as a northeastern regional headquarters for national and international firms and its proximity to such educational institutions as Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

While scientific companies characteristically put their executive offices adjacent to research and manufacturing facilities, the article found that up to now science-oriented companies have overlooked Boston.

Then the article finds glowing promise for the future in this direction.

"There have been several reasons for Boston's failure to get office buildings," the article reads, "but the main one seems to be that it never had the good government that other large cities had. Builders in Boston were always obliged to worry that minor city officials might raise real-estate assessments or tax charges arbitrarily.

"The insurance companies made it plain that they did not regard building in Boston as an attractive investment.

"It is only in the last two years that city administration has been able to persuade builders that things have changed; the change is symbolized dramatically by the Prudential Towers recently topped out in Back Bay. Several other privately sponsored buildings are now in the works, and a major new government center will rise in Scollay square, which has been completely razed. Building costs are still high; at least $7 a square foot will be required in most new space. But Boston's boom may finally be on."

Pre-Job Training for 1,400 "Pru" Workers

When the Prudential Insurance Company opens its new international headquarters in the Back Bay its great working force—largely Boston residents—won't be stepping into brand new offices wondering what the duties will be and where to start learning.

Senior Vice President Thomas Allsopp announced the other day that a two-year program for the hiring and training of 1,000 prospective employees is already under way.

A first group of nearly 40 girls, all recent high school graduates, will go to Newark, New Jersey, the company's present home office, for three months training. They will live at Bloomfield College, in nearby Bloomfield. They will return to Boston in the fall to work in the temporary regional home office at 142 Berkeley street, near Police Headquarters in the Back Bay.

When the Prudential staff is completed in 1965 an estimated 1,400 to 1,500 employees will pump more than $8 million into the Boston economy annually. Nine out of ten will be residents of Boston or the metropolitan.

Gotham Accused of Theft of Pops Idea

Marjorie Mills, Herald columnist, who keeps a sharp eye on such things, got mildly irked the other day. She was suspicious that New York was trying to steal Boston's Pops Concert idea, named them "Promenades" and used the Lincoln Center Philharmonic for a back-ground.

Marj, however, got a kick out of the fact that a Bostonian, Beverly Sills (Mrs. Peter Greenough), kind of stole the show "getting ecstatic reviews from all the critics and even accolades from Kostelanetz," as soloist. Guess folks will have to get used to the idea that the New Boston is in the export market—not alone in the field of commerce but fresh concepts as well.

School Sisters of N. D. Greeted by Mayor

Noting the great contribution of the School Sisters of Notre Dame to the field of education in Boston and nearby communities, Mayor Collins greeted Sisters of the order and a committee planning for the big dinner and social of alumnae, relatives and friends of the Sisters.

The function will be held at Blinstrub's Village, Sunday, June 16, at 6 P.M. Topping the entertainment features will be Mike Gaylord's Orchestra and the latest TV sensation, Leslie Uggams, whose work with the Mitch Miller TV program has won national acclaim.

Proceeds will go to Mother Mary Paschal and the Building Fund of the Wilton Motherhouse, sponsored by the Massachusetts Chapter of the Perpetual Help Guild.

The School Sisters of Notre Dame operated the Mission Grammar School and Mission High for Girls in Roxbury, St. Peter's Grammar School and High School in Cambridge, and Immaculate Conception and Girls Catholic High School in Malden.

This year's dinner-social will be the fourth. "I'm sure it will be the finest," said Mayor Collins the other day.

"Best" Arts Festival To Open Thursday

The 1963 Boston Arts Festival, hailed even before it opens as the most promising in the 12 years of its existence, will get under way on Thursday, June 20, at the Public Garden. With a sterling entry list of exhibits and one of the most widespread preshow manifestations of interest not alone in Boston but on a New England-wide basis, this year's festival is expected to be a record-breaker in audience appeal.

Although only 12 years old, the festival today has become a Boston institution rivaling in attention the popular Esplanade Concerts.

Mayor Collins has issued an invitation to all art lovers—amateur and professional, dabblers and the "just curious"—to come to the Garden. The festival, Dr. George Richardson, its president, notes has many new features and special programs this year.

It will conclude, July 14.

More Than Books Make True Library

The true wealth of any library, of course, is contained in its books. However, books alone cannot be the real measure of the total resources of the nation's top libraries, of which the Boston Public Library is one. BPL has plenty of books—more than 2,200,000. It can list among other assets some outstanding statistics.

For instance it has:

Periodicals	2,500	current titles
Newspapers	200	current titles
Manuscript letters and documents	75,000
Recordings	16,000
Films	1,300
Patents	39,000	volumes
Original prints and drawings	29,000
Maps	41,000	items
Pictures	260,000
Microfilms	14,600

3rd Washington Park "220 Mortgage" OK'd

The rehabilitation phase of the urban renewal program in Roxbury gained impetus with the recent announcement that the third FHA-insured "220 Mortgage" has been granted in Washington Park.

The FHA "220" home improvement loan is for approximately $30,000. It represents the third "220 Mortgage" approval in the Washington Park project, and the fourth such mortgage granted in any urban renewal area in Boston.

The mortgage was granted to Lester Clemente for a six-unit apartment house at 94 Hutchings street. The owner, who lives at 51 Hutchings street, is representative of many residents of the area who intend to rehabilitate their properties under special provisions of the federal housing laws for urban renewal areas.

The FHA "220 Mortgage" loan is intended specifically to encourage home modernization within urban renewal areas. It is granted at conventional interest rates by local lending institutions and is insured 100 percent by the Federal Housing Authority.

The improvement loan on the Hutchings Street property has been granted by the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank. The bank is a member of the Boston Banks Urban Renewal Group, a group of 24 savings institutions who have pledged that an initial $20 million will be available for rehabilitation purposes in neighborhoods such as Washington Park.

Vice-Admiral Wallace M. Beakley, deputy commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet and chief of staff and aide to the commander-in-chief of the Atlantic Fleet in Norfolk, Virginia, is to become commandant of the First Naval District. Late this summer he will replace Rear Admiral Arthur H. Taylor. Command post for the First District is located in Boston.

Park Dept. Green Thumb Wins Praise

Park Commissioner Martin Walsh and his workers are getting plenty of praise for the early summer appearance of Irving W. Adams Park in Roslindale square. Floral arrangements in the park are being constantly changed and made free of litter. "A salute to Commissioner Walsh and his men," reads a front page box in the Parkway Transcript, "for bringing a little beauty into this often drab world."

Mrs. Ellis Elected

Mrs. William H. Ellis, Jr., wife of the president of the Boston City Hospital board of trustees, was recently elected treasurer of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women for 1963-1965.

TURNABOUT—Once a year the U.S.S. Constitution goes to sea with no hullabaloo. Not really to sea, but the naval veteran leaves her dock and is turned about to even up the punishment from the sun and elements on her non-dockside flank. For those tough-looking tugs it's a delicate but smoothly carried out maneuver.

Here's Answer to Museum Plaques

Those gilded plaques on the outside of the Countway Building of the Boston Museum of Science puzzle you? There are five of them, extremely intricate if you examine them closely, and each measures some 6 by 10 feet.

They are the work of Theodore C. Barbarossa, noted Boston sculptor, and their emplacement completed four years work, including two trips to the Italian foundry where they were cast in aluminum.

Significant of the branches of science covered by the museum they signify, from top to bottom:

Astronomy: shows planet, stars, satellites, the sun, all objects of outer space.

Energy: shows the neutrons and protons of the atomic nucleus electrons in orbit, symbolic electrical discharges; exemplification of the nuclear, electrical and other basic forces of energy.

Industry: applied science, shows gears, chemistry flasks, combustion engines, all used in chemistry and mechanics.

Man: features faces representative of all ages and races.

Nature: detailed plaque shows a sky of clouds precipitating rain to fill the ocean (in which a fish swims), softening the earth (with snake hibernating), nurturing trees and foliage in which a bird nestles and under whose branches a deer rests.

Bookings Under Way for New Auditorium

Plans have been launched to hold the fortieth annual New England Hotel and Restaurant Show at Boston's new War Memorial Auditorium in 1965.

The entire first floor of the auditorium, covering 87,964 square feet, will be occupied by the Hotel and Restaurant Show in 1965. Sections of the main hall will be separated from the exhibition area for use as meeting rooms and for the Culinary Arts Salon.

The floor will be completely air-conditioned, and will contain built-in facilities for special water, gas, and electric lines, as well as an over-all sound system.

The big hotel and restaurant show is only one of the big meetings now being scheduled for the auditorium which is attracting the attention of convention planners throughout the country.

Mrs. Lynch is the former Maureen McCarthy of Natick.

Firefighters Ask No Referendum Action

Legislative Agent Gerald F. Cahill of the Boston Firefighters Local 718, AFL-CIO, asked the Cities Committee of the Legislature to report without recommendation a bill which would have authorized Boston voters to hold a referendum on a $800 pay hike for Boston firemen.

Cahill joined with Attorney Louis Nathanson, representing Mayor Collins, in pointing out that the Boston firemen had been granted a $400 increase already this year and the negotiations are pending for more money since the bill was filed.

has been prepared so that an accurate system of locating and recording abandoned or derelict motor vehicles may be followed. The use of the form will commence at 7.45 o'clock A.M., Thursday, June 6, 1963, and it will be used to report such vehicles to the Public Works Department.

It shall be the responsibility of each officer assigned to street duty to discover and report any such vehicles which appear to have been abandoned in his district.

When an officer has reason to believe that a motor vehicle which bears evidence of registration or other means of identifying the owner thereof, has been abandoned, he shall make a preliminary investigation to determine if the vehicle has actually been abandoned. He shall check with the Registry of Motor Vehicles and with people in the immediate neighborhood, to ascertain the location of the owner. When an owner is located and refuses to remove such vehicle, court action will be initiated for a violation of section 109, chapter 29, Revised Ordinances of 1961. All such vehicles shall be checked against the stolen car list.

When a vehicle is abandoned upon private property, and it is not possible to ascertain or locate the owner of such vehicle, the officer shall locate the owner of the land or his agent, when possible, and determine whether or not such land owner or his agent consented to the storage of said vehicle on his land. If such consent was given, the responsibility for removal of such vehicle or vehicles lies with the land owner, and a determination shall be made as to whether or not there is a violation of section 109, chapter 29, Revised Ordinances of 1961.

In cases where the land owner is not responsible for the presence of derelict vehicles on his property, the investigating officer shall, whenever possible, obtain from the land owner or his agent, written consent for such removal. In cases of vehicles having a registered owner and being removed in accordance with the provisions of chapter 351, of the Acts of 1961, a written consent shall be obtained in every instance, but the provisions of chapter 351 of the Acts of 1961 shall not be applied in the removal of derelict vehicles.

The new form shall be fully completed and submitted to the office of the Police Commissioner for each vehicle. Derelict vehicles will not be referred to the Public Works Department until this form has been submitted. This form is not to be used in connection with the recovery of stolen automobiles. This form is not to be numbered by district personnel.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the award of contracts, without advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT.

Purchasing Division.

REFLECTIVE AND NONREFLECTIVE STREET SIGNS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Invitation to bid on proposals for furnishing reflective and nonreflective street signs to the Traffic and Parking Department was advertised in the City Record. Subsequently, bids received were publicly opened and read in this office on April 24, 1963.

The lower bidder on Items 1 and 2 was Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company. However, their bid was irregular due to the fact that both copies of their bid were filed in the Purchasing Division. Permission is therefore requested to reject the bids received on said Items 1 and 2, to dispense with further advertising, and to award a contract, without public advertisement, to Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company at the prices submitted on Items 1 and 2 of their bid. Authority is requested to award a contract for Items 3 and 4 to the lower bidder, Sam Stone, doing business as Sam Stone Signs.

Approximate total amounts of contracts will be:

Sam Stone, doing business as Sam Stone Signs, $7,168, less 2 per cent discount, time of payment; Minnesota Mining & Manufacturing Company, $3,299.40, net, 30 days.

Respectfully yours,

MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

PARKING METER REPAIR PARTS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Traffic Commission has submitted an estimate of their requirements for parking meter repair parts and also the necessary materials required for the operation of the parking meters. These estimates are for the period from May 15, 1963, to December 31, 1963, inclusive.

Authority is requested to dispense with publicly advertising for prices and award contracts, without public advertisement, to the following-named companies and at the amounts designated:

Michaels Art Bronze Company, P. O. Box 668, Covington, Kentucky, total amount of contract not to exceed $35,000, net, prices are f.o.b. Covington, Kentucky.

M. H. Rhodes, Inc., 30 Bartholomew avenue, Hartford, Connecticut, total amount of contract not to exceed $15,000, net.

The above-named companies are both manufacturers. In view of this fact, it is my opinion that the best interests of the city will be served by awarding the above contracts as requested.

Respectfully yours,

MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

AUDITING DEPARTMENT.

SERVICE MAINTENANCE AND TABULATING EQUIPMENT

DEAR SIR:

I respectfully request your approval of the award of a contract, without advertising, to the Univac Division of the Sperry Rand Corporation, 631 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, Mass., for service maintenance on tabulating equipment owned by the City of Boston for the period from April 1, 1963, to March 31, 1964, the total amount not to exceed $8,991.16.

This service is most essential in order to keep the seventeen pieces of tabulating equipment in the best operating condition possible so that there will be no delays in the preparation of payrolls and the appropriation accounting work which is performed by these machines; and since the Univac Division of the Sperry Rand Corporation is the manufacturer of the equipment, I believe that it will be in the best interest of the city to award the contract to this firm without public advertising.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN T. LEONARD,
Temporary City Auditor.

DEAR SIR:

I respectfully request your approval of the award, without advertising, of a contract to the Univac Division of the Sperry Rand Corporation, 631 Commonwealth avenue, Boston, for the rental and servicing of tabulating equipment for the following periods:

From April 1, 1963, to June 30, 1963:

- 1 Univac 60 2347.
- 1 Summary Card Punch.
- 1 Alpha Tabulator.

From April 1, 1963, to March 31, 1964:

- 2 Card-O-Matic Punches.
- 1 Numeric Collator.
- 1 Electronic Sorter.

From July 1, 1963, to March 31, 1964:

- 1 Step 90 Solid State Computer.

The total cost of the above equipment will not exceed $41,645.

The rental and servicing of this equipment is required in order to perform efficiently the operations of the Tabulating Division of this department. The equipment owned by this department has been manufactured by the Univac Division of the Sperry Rand Corporation and the rental of this equipment from the same manufacturer without publicly advertising would serve the best interests of the city.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN T. LEONARD,
Temporary City Auditor.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

ARCHITECTURAL AND ENGINEERING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

We respectfully request your permission to dispense with public advertising, and to award a contract to Eastern Engineering Company, 116 Newbury street, Boston, Mass., for complete architectural and engineering services for proposed additional floor to Mallory Building, Boston City Hospital.

The estimated construction cost for the work pending preparation of preliminary plans and specifications is $450,000, and it is proposed that the architect be paid a fee equal to 11 per cent of the actual construction cost, all as will be provided in the contract to be executed.

Because of the professional nature of the services required, the trustees are of the opinion that there would be nothing gained by publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully yours,
BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT,
By WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.,
President.

MAYOR'S OFFICE.

FIREWORKS DISPLAYS

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Commencing in the year 1960 and continuing during successive years up to and including 1962, the Interstate Fireworks Manufacturing and Display Company, Inc., have provided the City of Boston Fourth of July Fireworks Displays at a total cost not to exceed $6,000, which in each instance were spectacular, awe-inspiring and were enjoyed to the utmost by all who attended each of them.

In the light of the satisfactory experience which the City of Boston has enjoyed with the performance of Interstate Fireworks Manufacturing and Display Company, Inc., during these past several years, it is my purpose, subject to the approval of your Honor, to dispense with advertising and once again enter into a written contract with this contractor to set up and fire off separate fireworks displays on July 4, 1963, at each one of the following locations:

- Columbus Park, South Boston.
- Franklin Field, Dorchester.
- Smith Field, Brighton.
- East Boston Stadium, East Boston.
- Jamaica Pond, Jamaica Plain.

The cost of the aforementioned fireworks displays will not exceed the sum of $6,000.

As is well known, not many firms are actively engaged in the business of conducting pyrotechnic undertakings. Under these circumstances and since Interstate Fireworks Manufacturing and Display Company, Inc., has for so long proven to be efficient, dependable, and capable of conducting fireworks displays which are both effective and safe, and as this firm is willing to repeat its fireworks presentations again in 1963 at no increase in cost to the City of Boston, it is my firm conviction that a public solicitation for proposals in the City Record for these services would not be in the best interests of the City of Boston.

Respectfully yours,
JOHN H. O'NEILL, JR.,
Administrative Assistant.

AMENDMENT TO BOSTON BUILDING CODE.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 6, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I am in receipt of a communication from the Building Commissioner in which he states that the technological improvements in the construction and use of dead and live loads requires amendment of the Building Code.

It is intended that the Building Code is to be amended by striking out Part 23 and inserting in place thereof the proposed Part 23 attached hereto.

Under this code, no change can be made except by recommendation of the Building Commissioner and the approval of the City Council. Therefore, I submit herewith the recommendation of the Building Commissioner for an amendment to the Building Code and respectfully recommend its adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Building Department, May 6, 1963.
Honorable John F. Collins, and the Honorable City Council.
Gentlemen:

The Building Code Advisory Committee is presently in the process of revising certain sections of the Building Code of the City of Boston.

After numerous discussions and investigation of dead and live loads by the Advisory Committee, in conjunction with the Building Commissioner, it is the unanimous opinion of the Committee and the Commissioner that Part 23 of the present Building Code should be stricken and that a new Part 23 be inserted in its place.

The new revision is for the purpose of having the Building Code, as it pertains to dead and live loads in connection with the construction of buildings and other structures in the City of Boston, conform with the more recent and best engineering practices known to the Committee at this time.

Accordingly, acting under the power vested in me by St. 1938, c. 479, s. 105A, as inserted by St. 1939, c. 217, s. 1, I recommend that the Building Code be amended by striking out Part 23, and inserting in place thereof a new Part 23.

A copy of the proposed ordinance is attached.

Respectfully,
ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

City of Boston.

In the Year Nineteen Hundred and Sixty-three.
An Ordinance Further Regulating Dead and Live Loads in the City of Boston.

Be it ordained by the City Council of Boston, as follows:

Chapter 479 of the Acts of 1938 is hereby amended by striking out Part 23, as amended by Chapter 8 of the Ordinances of 1943 and Chapter 2 of the Ordinances of 1955, and inserting in place thereof the following:

PART 23.

LIVE AND DEAD LOADS

Sections:

- 2301—Design for Loads
- 2302—Dead and Live Loads
- 2303—Weights of Materials
- 2304—Loads from Partitions
- 2305—Live Loads on Floors
- 2306—Special Concentrations
- 2307—Partial Loadings
- 2308—Impact
- 2309—Lateral and Uplift Forces
- 2310—Reduction of Live Loads
- 2311—Roof Loads
- 2312—Wind Loads
- 2313—Load Tests of Structure

Section 2301—Design for Loads

All buildings and other structures and parts thereof shall be designed to support the loads and to withstand the forces to which they are to be subjected during construction as well as after completion. The design shall allow for dead and live loads including wind and snow loads as required in this part without exceeding the allowable stresses prescribed for supporting members elsewhere in this code.

Section 2302—Dead and Live Loads

(a) The dead loads acting upon a building or structure shall include all the forces due to weight of walls, permanent partitions, floors, roofs, framing and all other permanent stationary construction and fixed service equipment entering into and becoming part of the structure.

(b) The live loads acting upon a building or structure shall include all loads other than dead loads.

Section 2303—Weights of Materials

(a) The actual weights of the constituent parts of a structure and of materials to be supported shall be used in calculation of loads. The materials listed in the following table shall be taken to weigh not less than there indicated:

Section 2304—Loads from Partitions

(a) In structures in which permanent partitions occur their weight shall be counted as affecting the design of all supporting structural members, including columns and foundations, as part of the dead load; and in those portions of office buildings in which the prescribed live load does not exceed fifty pounds per square foot, allowance for partition weight shall always be made, whether or not partitions are shown on plans.

(b) If a layout of partitions is included in the building plans, the weights of the partitions and their locations shall be determined in accordance therewith, or such layout shall be used to determine an equivalent load per square foot of floor to be applied uniformly as a super-imposed dead load for purposes of design. But the allowance for partition weight in portions of buildings given to office occupancy, when expressed in pounds per square foot of floor, shall in no case be less than a minimum of two pounds for each foot of story height for each square foot of floor.

(c) In estimating loading from actual weights of partitions it may be assumed that the partition occupies a space one foot wide, and a deduction may be made of the live load displaced on this width.

(d) Arch action of partitions shall not be assumed to relieve the supporting members.

Section 2305—Live Loads on Floors

The live loads taken on floors for purposes of design shall be the greatest loads that will probably be produced by the intended occupancies, but the following distributed live loads shall be taken as the minimum for the occupancies named.

For occupancies not listed, the design engineer shall submit the proposed design live load to the Commissioner for approval. All plans filed for permit shall include a list or notation of the live loads used in design. In buildings, structures or portions thereof used for industrial, mercantile or storage occupancies the live load for which each floor or part of a floor is designed and approved shall be conspicuously posted in that part of the story to which it applies. See also Section 114.

* See Section 2304.

Section 2306—Special Concentrations

In the design of floors and structural systems, consideration shall be given to the effects of known or probable concentrations of load to which they may be subjected; and in structures designed for the occupancies listed herein, floors shall be made capable of carrying the prescribed distributed loads or the following minimum concentrations, whichever may result in the greater stresses. Unless otherwise noted the following concentrated loads indicated, in pounds shall be taken to occupy a space two and one-half feet square, and so placed as to produce maximum stresses in the members affected:

- (1) For office floors including corridors, theatre stages, gridirons and fly galleries and corridors serving them..... 2,000 lbs.
- (2) For portions of garages subject to:
Class A—loading..... 20,000 lbs.
Class B—loading..... 10,000 lbs.
- (3) For sidewalks..... 12,000 lbs.
- (4) For driveways, and for trucking spaces within the limits of a structure..... 20,000 lbs.
- (5) For structural supports of ceilings under accessible spaces, and for trap doors and skylights..... 200 lbs.
- (6) That portion of hangars subject to concentrated loads shall be designed to accommodate the heaviest vehicle housed therein.

(7) For elevator machine room grating (on an area of four square inches).....	300 lbs.
(8) For stair treads (on an area of four square inches).....	300 lbs.
(9) For exposed metal light floor plate construction (on an area of one square inch).....	200 lbs.

Section 2307—Partial Loadings

(a) The effect of a partial live load on a structure—taking into account its construction, connections, and rigidity—which will produce maximum stress in any member, shall be provided for in the design, as well as the full live load.

(b) The partial loading shall also conform to the design requirements of other sections of this code.

(c) For snow and wind load requirements, see Sections 2311 and 2312.

Section 2308—Impact

(a) The live loads prescribed herein include a sufficient allowance to cover the effects of ordinary impact.

(b) For structures carrying live loads which induce unusual vibration or impact forces, the live load shall be increased sufficiently to provide for same. For machinery and other vibratory loads care shall be taken to avoid near resonant conditions.

(c) The increase shall be:

For supports of elevators....	100 per cent
For traveling crane support girders and their connections	25 per cent
For supports of light machinery, shaft or motor driven, not less than.....	20 per cent
For supports of reciprocating machinery or power driven units, not less than.....	50 per cent
For hangers supporting floors and balconies.....	33 per cent

(d) The lateral force on crane runways to provide for the effect of moving crane trolleys shall, if not otherwise specified, be 20 per cent of the sum of the weights of the lifted load and of the crane trolley (but exclusive of other parts of the crane), applied at the top of rail, one half on each side of the runway; and shall be considered as acting in either direction normal to the runway rail.

(e) The longitudinal force shall, if not otherwise specified, be taken as 10 per cent of the maximum wheel loads of the crane applied at the top of rail.

Section 2309—Lateral and Uplift Forces

(a) In the design of basement walls and similar approximately vertical structures below grade, the forces due to lateral pressure of adjacent soil shall be calculated. Due allowance shall be made for possible surcharge from fixed or moving loads. When a portion or the whole of the adjacent soil is below a free water surface, calculations shall be based on the weight of the soil as diminished by buoyancy. Plus full hydrostatic pressure.

(b) In the design of structures below ground grade, the upward pressure of water, if any, in the supporting soil, shall be taken as the full hydrostatic pressure applied over the entire area.

(c) Balcony and stairway railings, exterior and interior, shall be designed to resist a horizontal thrust of twenty pounds per linear foot applied at the top of the rail.

Section 2310—Reduction of Live Loads

(a) Roof Live Loads—No reduction shall be made in the roof live load. No reduction shall be made in wind loads.

(b) Live Loads 100 Pounds Per Square Foot or Less—For uniformly distributed live loads of 100 pounds or less per square foot, the design live load on any member (except one-way slabs) supporting 150 square feet or more may be reduced at the rate of 0.06 per cent per square foot of area supported by the member, except that no reduction shall be made for areas to be occupied as places of public assembly. The reduction shall exceed neither R as determined by the following formula, nor 50 per cent:

R = reduction in per cent

D = dead load per square foot of area supported by the member

L = design live load per square foot of area supported by the member.

(c) Live Loads Exceeding 100 Pounds Per Square Foot—For live loads exceeding 100 pounds per square foot, no reduction shall be made, except that the design live loads on columns may be reduced by one half the percentage specified in (b).

Section 2311—Roof and Snow Loads

(a) Flat roofs, and roofs having a rise of two inches or less per foot of run shall be designed to support a vertical snow load of thirty pounds per square foot of horizontal projection. Roofs used as roof gardens, or for other such purposes shall be designed as floors to support the load prescribed for corresponding occupancies.

(b) Roofs having a rise of more than two and less than twelve inches per foot of run shall be designed for a vertical snow load of (34-2r) pounds per square foot of horizontal projection in which r is the rise in inches per foot of run.

(c) Roofs having a rise of twelve inches or more per foot of run shall be designed for a vertical snow load of ten pounds per square foot of horizontal projection.

(d) Roof structures or portions thereof shall be designed for stresses produced by partial snow loading whenever such stresses exceed those produced by full snow loading. In such cases the partial snow load per square foot shall be taken as two thirds of the load required by paragraph a, b, or c of this section.

(e) All roofs shall be designed for the wind loads specified in Section 2312 in addition to the live loads presented in this section. Two thirds of the wind load required by Section 2312 shall be combined with two thirds of the snow load required by paragraph a, b, c, or d of this section, whenever such a combination produces higher stresses than those existing with wind or snow load acting separately.

Section 2312—Wind Loads

(a) All structures shall be designed to resist wind forces applied to both walls and roofs without exceeding the stresses allowed elsewhere in this code.

(b) The design wind pressure P in pounds per square foot shall vary with the height above the average ground elevation adjacent to the base of the structure in accordance with the following table: For a sloping roof the heights of the structure shall be measured to the average height of the roof.

Height in Feet	P in lbs. Per Sq. Foot
0 to less than 25	20
25 to less than 50	25
50 to less than 100	30
100 to less than 150	35
150 to less than 400	45
400 to less than 700	55
700 to less than 1,500	65

(c) Wind pressure on the elements of a structure shall not be less than the following values:

Total horizontal pressure on the walls of rectangular buildings (combining the effect of pressure on the windward wall and suction on the leeward wall).....	1.0 P
Total horizontal pressure acting simultaneously on each of any two perpendicular walls of a rectangular building (combining the effect of pressure on the windward walls and suction on the leeward walls).....	.7 P
Pressure in or out on an exterior wall.....	1.0 P
Total suction on the entire surface of all roofs.....	1.2 P
Pressure normal to windward surface only of roofs with slopes equal to or greater than 30 degrees (to be combined with zero pressure on leeward slope).....	.9 P
Uplift on eaves, cornices or other local projections, and fastenings of roof coverings.....	1.5 P
Total pressure on gross area of signs with less than 25 per cent openings.....	1.2 P
Total pressure on net area of signs with more than 25 per cent openings.....	1.6 P
Total pressure on projected area of round chimneys or tanks.....	.7 P

(d) As an alternative to the provisions of Section 2312 (c) and with the approval of the Building Commissioner, wind force on a building may be based on shape coefficients obtained from wind tunnel tests of models or by other approved methods. Such shape coefficients shall include the full effect of openings in wall or roof surfaces. In such cases the velocity pressure "q" to be used at any height shall be taken as .77 P where P is given by the table in paragraph 2312 (b).

(e) The overturning moment due to wind pressure shall not exceed 66⅔ per cent of the moment of stability due to the dead load only, unless the building or structure is securely anchored to the foundation to resist this force.

Section 2313—Load Tests of Structures

(a) The Commissioner may order tests under load or other tests of any portion of a structure (whenever the Commissioner doubts the adequacy of a structure to serve the purpose for which it was intended). Such tests shall not be required to be made on any concrete or masonry construction until it is at least sixty days old.

(b) In such tests, the member or portion of the structure under test shall be subject to a total load, including its own weight, which shall equal the total dead load plus twice the live load for which it is required to be designed. This load shall be left in position for a period of twenty-four hours before removal. The structure, if a floor or portion thereof, shall be considered to have passed the test if within twenty-four hours after the removal of the load such floor or roof recovers three quarters of the maximum deflection under the test load. If the member or portion of the structure shows evident failure or fails to meet the recovery requirement, it shall be rebuilt or may be modified as is necessary to make the structure adequate for the rated capacity, except that, where lawful, and where the structure is undamaged, a lower rating may be established.

SECTION 2. Anything in s. 3 of c. 1 of the Revised Ordinances of 1961 to the contrary notwithstanding, this ordinance shall be passed by the action of the City Council in passing the same.

Referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

APPROPRIATION FOR SCHOOL PURPOSES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 13, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

On April 1, 1963, the School Committee requested funds for all school purposes totaling in the aggregate, $43,372,786.13 or $4,984,533.13 greater than appropriated in 1962.

After careful review of the proposed school budget for 1963, the School Committee was notified on April 10, 1963, that the appropriations for land and buildings, alterations and repairs, and general school purposes together, should not exceed $40,800,000 which would be $2,572,636.74 more than actual expenditures in 1962.

In that communication I noted that it historically has been the function of the School Committee to determine how funds appropriated for school purposes were expended and that I had no desire to infringe upon the School Committee's prerogative in this respect. I did, however, feel that suggested reductions, recommended by the Supervisor of Budgets, which guided me in my decision, be made available to the Committee. This was done within the same communication.

I have taken into account that in the past three years school budgets have risen annually an average of $1,588,697 for a total of $4,766,091. With a total appropriation for all school purposes in 1963 of $40,800,000 this appropriation will be $7,177,838 above that made four years ago or an increase of more than 21.3 per cent. It is my firm belief that this is the limit beyond which the city and its taxpayers cannot go in the current year.

Under the appropriation limit provided by law, the School Committee has appropriated, in the three categories mentioned above, $25,038,449.94. I am therefore submitting herewith, under the provisions of chapter 224 of the Acts of 1936, as amended by chapter 117 of the Acts of 1949, an order for general school purposes of $15,763,550.06.

Expedient approval of this additional appropriation by your Honorable Body will permit early declaration of the tax rate with savings on interest payments for borrowing and the early flow of tax revenues into the City Treasury.

I submit herewith an order providing for the additional appropriation and respectfully recommend its adoption by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Ordered, That the sum of money specified herein be, and hereby is, appropriated for school purposes in addition to appropriations previously voted by the School Committee; said sum to be raised by taxation on the polls and estates in the City of Boston; and that all orders heretofore or hereafter passed by the City Council relating to appropriations, taxes, and the interest thereon, apply to the appropriations and taxes herein provided for - $15,763,550.06.

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

HEIGHT RESTRICTIONS ON COMMON- WEALTH AVENUE.

The Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Art Commission,
30 Ipswich Street, Boston,

May 7, 1963.

To Members of the Boston City Council.

Re: Control of Architectural Character of Commonwealth Avenue and Back Bay.

This Commission was informed by Boston City Clerk J. Dunlea that your Council adopted a resolution on April 15 asking the Art Commission of the Commonwealth and other interested groups for advice regarding suggested measures or ordinances for adoption by the city on the above subject.

At a stated meeting of the Art Commission on May 7, 1963, at which all the members were present, it was unanimously voted that the Art Commission recommends that the City Council vote to establish a Study Committee under chapter 40C, General Laws, as established by chapter 372, Acts of 1960, for the purpose of studying Commonwealth Avenue and the Back Bay area in general as a Historic District and with the hope that such a district may be established as provided in the General Laws.

Yours sincerely,

JOSEPH A. COLETTI, Chairman,
Commonwealth of Massachusetts,
Art Commission.

Charles W. Eliot,
Landscape Architect, Planning Consultant,
25 Reservoir Street, Cambridge,

May 8, 1963.

The City Council, City of Boston.

Gentlemen:

In response to your "invitation" for "suggested measures or ordinances" to further the preservation of "the Commonwealth Avenue section of Boston," members of the Massachusetts Art Commission, the President of the Neighborhood Association of the Back Bay, and I have met to discuss how we might best reply.

The action of the Massachusetts Art Commission, of which you have been informed, was taken at that meeting and I am in full accord with its recommendation that the City Council consider the early establishment of a Historic District Study Committee under the authority of the Historic Districts Act, chapter 40C, of the General Laws, chapter 372, Acts of 1960. The several steps involved in establishing a Historic District are set for in detail, with draft votes and forms of ordinances, in the enclosed memorandum on "Establishment of Historic Districts" issued by the Massachusetts Department of Commerce, July, 1960.

As I stated in my testimony at the hearing on April 9, the establishment of a Historic District for the Commonwealth Avenue section need not and should not impose all of the restrictions on the details of building design which the law (chapter 40C) allows or which have been found useful on Beacon Hill. The determination of what is "incongruous" and therefore prohibited is wisely left to the Historic District Commission.

Furthermore, it should be understood that establishment of a Historic District is not the whole answer to the problems which have arisen in the Commonwealth Avenue and Back Bay areas. The resolution of the conflicting and overlapping regulations under the Zoning Act and under section 11 of chapter 45 of the General Laws (which gave the Park Commissioners authority to establish building lines and a 70-foot height limit on Commonwealth Avenue) appears to require further legislation by the General Court. The reports of the Committee for Commonwealth Avenue and of the Massachusetts Art Commission should be helpful in developing the details of the needed legislation.

It seems to me that it would be most appropriate for the planning agency of the city—The Boston Redevelopment Agency—to make recommendations, after suitable studies by its staff or by consultants, as to the combination of actions which would most effectively continue the characteristic features and values of Commonwealth Avenue and the Back Bay in the larger setting of the whole city and of Greater Boston.

Respectfully submitted,

CHARLES W. ELIOT.

(Copy of chapter 40C of the General Laws as established by chapter 372 of the Acts of 1960 referred to in the foregoing communication is annexed hereto.)

The foregoing communications were referred to the Committee on Ordinances.

PERSONAL INTEREST OF PUBLIC OFFICIALS IN URBAN RENEWAL AREAS.

The following was received:

Boston Redevelopment Authority,
Hon. Peter F. Hines,
Boston City Council.
Dear Councillor Hines:

The regulations of the Housing and Home Finance Agency regarding the personal interests of City Council members in urban renewal project areas and project activities may be found in the Urban Renewal Manual, and in the various federal aid contracts by which we receive loans and grants for the carrying out of all projects.

Urban Renewal Manual, Section 13-3, requires:

"The identification of property in which any member of the LPA governing body or of the governing body of the locality or any of the officials or employees of such bodies having a responsible function in connection with the urban renewal program has, or is believed to have, a direct or indirect personal interest. . ."

All federal aid contracts contain similar provisions. A typical provision is found in Section 404(B) of the Early Land Acquisition Contract, which reads as follows:

"The Local Public Agency will adopt and enforce measures appropriate to assure that no member of the governing body of the locality in which the Urban Renewal Area is situated, and no other public official of such locality, who exercises any functions or responsibilities in the review or approval of the carrying out of the early land acquisition activities assisted under this contract shall, prior to the completion of such activities, voluntarily acquire any personal interest, direct or indirect, in any property included in the Urban Renewal Area, or in any contract or proposed contract in connection with the carrying out of such activities."

I trust this information will be helpful to you. Please let me know if you have any further questions.

Sincerely,
JOHN P. MCMORROW,
Director of Administrative Management.

Mayor's Field Day Tickets Keys to Happiness for Oft-Forgotten Folk

He's nearly 90. He can't read the newspapers anymore. Spends most of his time in his room, though every Sunday he manages the two blocks to church. Often he fingered the little radio set on the table near the window. It had been silent for weeks. It went dead the day Roman Mejias broke up a 15-inning game with a belt off the left field wall.

He just heard Curt Gowdy's happy yelp as the ball started for the wall. He didn't know the Red Sox won until he requested his kindly landlady to ask one of the neighbors the next day.

He hasn't missed a single Red Sox inning for the last couple of weeks. Even those night games (he just makes up the sleep the next day).

Your help — if you made sure of getting a Mayor's Field Day ticket last year — made possible the tiny radio that now stands on the table by the window. Sometimes he touches it with the tips of his fingers — tenderly, lovingly.

He's grateful.

Today $1 isn't much. It doesn't buy nearly as much as it did in the old days. It goes much quicker and its flight doesn't leave much trace in the manner of food or clothes or entertainment.

Yet, match enough of them together and they can do wonders, like taking the desolate loneliness out of the life of an old man whose only pleasure in life is a few hours of baseball listening.

This year the Mayor's Field Day will have an ally in "Cleopatra," the film which may prove itself the greatest of all time as well as the most expensive in the making. The preview showing by Ben Sachs at the Music Hall will be a big help but if the demands for the charitable work made possible by the Mayor's Field Day fund are to be fully met your help is greatly needed.

This year's Field Day promises to be one of the greatest ever, with a sterling program of stage, screen, and TV stars.

Make certain you get your ticket! Make certain that you will be helping in the special needs of someone who would be without assistance, without you!

And REMEMBER! If you are one of those who consistently tells yourself — "I never win anything" — don't forget there's always a FIRST TIME.

Read over that great list of prizes! This may be your time.

The Field Day is scheduled for 6.30 p.m., July 1. The site is Fenway Park. In event of rain the show will be put on July 2.

Dr. Pusey Hails City Hospital Patient Care—Medical Men

President Nathan M. Pusey paid a glowing tribute to Boston City Hospital and the Harvard Medical School in his address to the Harvard Alumni Association at the organization's annual meeting during commencement week.

He directed attention of his listeners to the "quickenings pace of scientific investigation now being carried on at the school and in its affiliated hospitals, with consequent improvement in the practice of medicine and of patient care." He said, "It defies description."

The famed Harvard educator paid a special tribute to the Harvard Medical School's historic association with Boston City Hospital.

"The record of Harvard medicine at City Hospital is a most impressive one," said Dr. Pusey. "Dean (George Packer) Berry tells me that he believes that this hospital's medical department has produced more professors, associate professors, and assistant professors of medicine than any other."

Dr. Pusey said that about one quarter of all those of professional rank teaching medicine in this country today owe at least part of their training to Harvard or one of its affiliated hospitals.

"At a recent alumni day at the Medical School," he said, "it was observed that fully half the graduates of the reunion classes were doing some teaching or research."

"It is a striking fact," he added, "that 22 of the 87 present deans of medical schools in the United States are Harvard-trained."

Room Tax Bill Gets Legislative Turndown

A bill which would have imposed a 3 per cent tax on Massachusetts hotel and motel rooms was defeated for a second and final time by the Legislature recently, killing the measure for this year.

Opponents of the bill claimed the tax would cost the state more in revenue than it would as a cash-producer for a mental health program.

Old State Prison Site Possible Space Center

The site of now leveled old State Prison and the adjacent area of the B & M freight land in Charlestown—adding up to some 200 acres—got into the picture recently as a possible site for the vast electronics research complex proposed by NASA.

Mayor Collins has directed the attention of Franklyn W. Phillips, northeastern regional representative for NASA, the latter told the mid-year meeting of the New England Council at West Harwich.

To a lesser but still extraordinary degree, the site would place the complex within easy distance of Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology than the Brighton traffic exchange site which the Mayor still urges. This site, on the Boston extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike, won widespread enthusiasm when Mayor Collins first offered it.

The complex would cost about $50 million. Final decision on the site, sought by many regions of the country, is not expected until late August or early September.

JUNE CALM—Nothing is more rare than a perfect day in June and when such a day comes to Boston's Long Island its perfection is enhanced by peace and quiet. Here Old Glory, usually caressed by stray harbor breezes, rests quietly on Flag Day, in front of the beautiful Long Island Hospital's Catholic Chapel.

Joseph L. Pierce

Joseph L. Pierce, 61, of 64 Old Middlesex road, Belmont, first assistant clerk of the Boston Municipal Court and a member of the bar, died recently. He was a member of the Massachusetts Bar Association, Our Lady of Mercy Church Holy Name Society and the Catholic Alumni Sodality of Boston.

He leaves two sons, Joseph L., Jr., of Marshfield, and Lieut. Richard J., U.S.N., of Plymouth, and a sister, Mrs. Frederick S. O'Brien, of Cambridge.

City Hospital, Medical Center Plan Top Radiology Services

In the first step toward the establishment of one of the nation's top radiology centers, Boston City Hospital announced appointment of Dr. Jerome Shapiro, 39, of New Rochelle, New York, as head of its X-ray services.

With the cooperation of B.U. Medical Center, which includes the Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals, Dr. Shapiro as BCH radiology director, will head one of the most modern and best equipped X-ray services.

Announcement of his appointment was made in a joint statement by President William H. Ellis, Jr., of the City Hospital Board of Trustees, and Lewis H. Rohrbaugh, of the B.U. Medical Center.

Dr. Shapiro will assume his new duties on July 15.

In addition to his post as head of the BCH service he will also become professor of radiology at B.U. Medical Center.

Fort Point Properties Change Ownerships

The Boston Wharf Corporation recently sold 100 industrial buildings on Congress street and Summer street, in the Fort Point Channel section near South Station, to the Boston Wharf Company, a Massachusetts real estate trust.

Involved is real estate assessed at about $7.8 million. More than 400 tenants occupy the buildings. President Sydney A. Vineberg of Montreal is president of the Boston Wharf Company and Harold A. Rudnick of Boston, treasurer.

No plans are presently contemplated for changes in existing buildings, a company spokesman said, but it is planned to develop additional areas.

The Boston Wharf Corporation came into being before the mid-19th Century. Originally it was engaged chiefly in shipping and storing sugar and molasses for the New England liquor trade. For many years its activities have been limited almost entirely to real estate.

Dr. John F. Conlin, BCH director, has outlined plans which called for the expenditure of a million dollars for the installation of new equipment and for the progressive expansion of professional and related personnel services in radiology over a five-year period. Equipment purchases will include apparatus for cobalt treatment and multimillion volt treatment.

Dr. Shapiro, is now associated with the radiology department, New York University College of Medicine, and attending physician of the Division of Diagnostic Radiology at Montefiore Hospital, New York.

He succeeds Dr. Max Ritvo who died March 29, 1962. His appointment followed a long search carried on by a committee of highly qualified medical men from the City Hospital staff, B.U. Medical School, and Massachusetts Memorial Hospitals.

He is a native of Cleveland and father of four children. He prepared for Yale School of Medicine where he obtained his M.D. degree at Western Reserve University.

DR. JEROME SHAPIRO—To head greatly expanded Radiological Department centered at Boston City Hospital.

Students Like Work As Hospital Volunteers

President William H. Ellis, Jr., of the City Hospital Board of Trustees, extended an invitation to high schoolers and other young men and women, seeking rewarding experience during the summer months to inquire about the possibility of volunteer work at City Hospital.

"Many young people during the summer find themselves working at jobs which are completely unrelated to work and careers they plan for their post-education careers," he pointed out recently. "For vast numbers paid employment is necessary during the summer in order that they may complete their education.

"I am sure that numbers of these as well as those who have only part-time employment or none at all, would find many of the volunteer services at City Hospital rewarding. That is especially true for those who hope some day to become associated with the field of medicine, as doctors, technicians, nurses, pharmacists, etc.

"Mrs. Jean W. Blake, who heads the City Hospital volunteer program, has been particularly successful in finding work for young people that is not only interesting but of value to their future careers. She can be contacted at KENmore 6-8600.

"Last year 6,600 men and women gave a total of 595,000 hours of volunteer services to 33 Greater Boston hospitals. A large percentage were high school and college undergrads."

Heavy Fine Levied For Yard of Junk

A Roxbury man was fined $500 in Municipal Court on June 3 for using a yard to store junk illegally in a local business zone on Oakburn avenue, Roxbury. Most of the junk was discarded refrigerators. The defendant allegedly operated the yard. The owner of the property was found in default when he failed to answer a summons for allegedly allowing the yard to be used illicitly.

Wasn't Titanic Rage Just Progress March

It's a scene of desolation in the old office of Dr. John F. Conlin, head of City Hospital, these days. Workmen are readying the Administration Building for two new floors and a general cellar-to-attic overhaul. Walls of Dr. Conlin's old office are ripped and torn. Plaster and debris cover the old immaculate floor.

An old acquaintance, one of Boston's top thoracic surgeons, unaware that Dr. Conlin was now ensconced in a temporary office, made his way to the old office. He looked about him. He surveyed the empty ruin.

"For a pretty mild-mannered man," he told himself, "Dr. Conlin surely must have blown his top today."

Town Officers Hear Mayor at Chatham

Mayor Collins was key speaker at the annual summer meeting of the Massachusetts Town Clerks Association at Chatham, June 20. Representatives of more than 300 town clerks' offices of the state attended the three-day meeting of the organization at Chatham Bars Inn.

Courthouse Gets Quiet Back, Work Goes On

Major trials progressed in the criminal side of Suffolk Superior Court starting June 13 with no competition from the busy acoustic production of pile drivers and jack hammers engaged in the construction of the Government Center project in nearby Scollay square.

An amicable agreement was reached by all concerned after Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro sought a period of quiet from 9 A.M. to 3 P.M.

New workers' schedule for those engaged in noise-producing endeavors was switched to 3 P.M. to 11 P.M. The change will cost the Government Center Commission an additional $30,000 in building expense because of necessary night differentials.

BUILDING DEPARTMENT. HOUSES CONDEMNED

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The following houses have been condemned by me as being in an unsafe and dangerous condition. Notices have been sent to the owners, but they have taken no steps to abate the dangerous condition. These buildings are a menace to the neighborhood. The locations follow: 63, 67 Elm street, Ward 2; 11 Hancock street, Ward 2.

Accordingly, in conformity with the provisions of chapter 479, Acts of 1938 as amended, particularly section 116d thereof, I have asked and have received your Honor's permission to enter these various premises and to raze the structures.

Bidders were requested to submit an aggregate bid for the entire lot of houses, but to break down their bids to show the charge against each separate address. This breakdown is necessary for later departmental use in billing demolition costs incurred against the individual property owner of each house.

We have solicited invitation bids, award to be made to the lowest qualified bidder, and have received the following:

Central.—63 Elm street, $1,995; 67 Elm street, $1,495; 11 Hancock street, $995; total $4,485.

E. Polcari & Son has submitted the lowest aggregate bid. This company is thoroughly familiar with this work, it carries all necessary insurance and it has done satisfactory work for this department in the past.

Bids for the demolition of individual houses were not requested because it would be a practical physical impossibility for several different wreckers to conduct efficient wrecking operations simultaneously in individual houses. Under such conditions, there would be much mutual interference, and each wrecker would be exposed to severe hazards not under his control, by the operations of adjacent wreckers. I also believe that the aggregate cost of individual bids would be much higher than the cost of one bid for the lot, and that handling the houses as one unit results in lower administrative costs to the city than would result from handling the houses as separate bids and contracts. Unit handling results, however, in this case, in a contract price $2,000 or over the statutory limitation upon awards that can be made without advertising, unless your Honor approves the transaction.

Accordingly, the general public safety so requiring, I ask your Honor's approval for the awarding, without advertising, as required in the city charter of a contract in the sum of $2,820 to the E. Polcari & Son.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT E. YORK,
Building Commissioner.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

ENGINEERING SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

I respectfully request your permission to award a contract, without publicly advertising for bids, to John Milo Associates, consulting engineers, 1318 Beacon street, Brookline, Mass., for engineering services in planning for the installation of a high pressure fire tube boiler with all auxiliaries at Long Island Hospital. The estimated cost of the proposed work is $35,000.

The architect will be paid a fee equal to 9.25 percent of the actual cost. This fee has been authorized by the Law Department.

In view of the professional nature of the services involved, it is felt that nothing would be gained by publicly advertising for bids.

Respectfully,

WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR., Chairman,
Board of Trustees of the Hospital Department.

POLICE DEPARTMENT.

RADIO COMMUNICATIONS EQUIPMENT

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

On March 9, 1963, by an advertisement published in the City Record proposals were solicited for furnishing radio communications equipment and services to the Police Department. The bids filed and which were publicly opened and read on Thursday, April 18, 1963, are as follows:

Radio Corporation of America, Meadow Lands, Pennsylvania, $168,775.

Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., 4501 West Augusta Boulevard, Chicago 51, Illinois, $178,500.

Following a careful and lengthy consideration of the subject bids by the undersigned and members of my staff, coupled with my receipt of a written reply from the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc., dated May 22, 1963, under the hand of the Director of its Field Service Division, who, at my request had likewise analyzed these bids, it is my purpose, subject to the written approval of your Honor, to award the contract for furnishing the radio equipment and services to the Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., the lowest bidder meeting the specifications, in the sum of one hundred seventy-eight thousand, five hundred dollars ($178,500).

As your Honor will recollect, on December 5, 1962, the Field Service Division of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc., filed with the Mayor of Boston and with its Police Commissioner a copy of a report concerning its study of the Boston Police Department. Included in that report—a detailed recitation of what would constitute a proper and efficient communications system to be employed by this department in carrying out its radio communications function and which also would fully comply with the latest applicable regulations of the Federal Communications Commission, the operative date of same being November 1, 1963.

Thereafter, at my direction, Police Department personnel drafted the specifications, advertised as aforesaid, prescribing radio communication equipment adequate to fulfill this department's communication system requirements as described in the above-mentioned report. In line with the latter, the said specifications, as advertised, stipulated that in the mobile transceivers all receivers shall be completely transistorized.

The illustrated material submitted with the bid from the Motorola Communications and Electronics Company disclosed that the receiver contained in its mobile transceiver was completely transistorized. However, the brochure which accompanied the bid filed by Radio Corporation of America revealed that the receiver incorporated in its mobile transceivers, as offered, utilized a multiple of tubes and was, therefore, only partially transistorized. It may be noted that this vital difference between the said receivers which the respective bidders proposed to furnish was confirmed by visual inspection.

The advantage to be gained by this department through the use of transistors, as fully as possible, as components of radio communication equipment are well established in both technical characteristics and power requirements. Indeed this circumstance, as much as any other, induced the Field Service Division of the aforementioned association to recommend that the subject equipment be as fully transistorized as possible. In addition, it is my considered opinion, based upon the experience of this department, with the considerable expense involved in effecting tube replacement on radio communication equipment that it would not be in the best interests of the City of Boston to award the contract to a bidder whose equipment, as offered, is not as fully transistorized as possible. Furthermore, as aforesaid, only Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., proposes to furnish mobile transceivers encompassing receivers which are completely transistorized.

In summary then, it may be stated that Motorola Communications and Electronics, Inc., alone offered radio communications equipment which meet the specifications and, in my opinion, its acquisition will constitute a prudent purchase, over the long term, for the City of Boston and its Police Department.

Finally, may I say that the action I propose to take in the award of the present contract is in harmony with the pertinent observations contained in the aforesaid letter to me dated May 22, 1963, from the International Association of Chiefs of Police, Inc., a copy of which is enclosed herewith.

Respectfully submitted,

EDMUND L. McNAMARA,
Police Commissioner.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT.

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

As you know, this year we are undertaking the most extensive highway reconstruction program in the city's history, notwithstanding the fact that our engineering organization is seriously short of men. In the past three years, we have supplemented our own materials testing with the services of a private testing laboratory. This year because of the expanded program we must have additional assistance. Besides plant and laboratory materials testing, we require continuous professional engineering field inspection and supervision of the placing of various materials of construction.

The services required by our department comprise both professional and subprofessional work and, in my opinion, the best subprofessional work requires constant professional supervision. Public bids may be solicited for subprofessional services but it is not customary to select professional engineering assistance by public bidding.

After most careful consideration, I have selected the firm of Thompson & Lichtner Company, 8 Alton place, Brookline, to perform this work. Thompson & Lichtner under the direction of Myles N. Clair not only operates a complete testing laboratory but maintains an excellent staff of professional engineers capable of furnishing complete materials engineering services to this department.

Accordingly, your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and to award a contract, at this time, to the Thompson & Lichtner Company, 8 Alton place, Brookline, in the amount of $25,000 for this work. It has been agreed that the engineering services will be paid for on the basis of a schedule of hourly rates which will be set forth in the proposed contract and will include Social Security, Unemployment Compensation, Insurance, Payroll Costs, Overhead, and Profit. It is understood and agreed that the total fee will be based on the services rendered at the agreed hourly rates with the total fee not to exceed $25,000.

Respectfully,

JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, May 20, 1963.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HINES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Most merciful and gracious God we earnestly beseech Thee that the hearts of men and nations may be inspired to accept the great gift of life as a sacred trust, a divine opportunity, and a capacity for noble endeavor and for service. Our only purpose for living is to externally manifest Thy glory. It matters not how long we live, nor how long we serve, but how well we have fulfilled our vocation in whatever field of endeavor.

Twenty-five years ago this day I became an ambassador of Thine, O God, to bring the peace, the blessing, the saving grace to all. It has been and still it is the greatest human adventure on earth—to minister in Thy name, to help others to goodness, to truth, to righteousness, and peace. Bless us all this day in the name of Christ Who is the way, the truth, and the life.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

CITY OF BOSTON

Proceedings of City Council

Monday, May 27, 1963.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 P.M., President HINES in the chair, and all the members present.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

As we enter this new week of duty we pray to Thee, Almighty and Heavenly Father. For Thou art the inspiration as well as the answer to all our prayers. May the hearts and the minds of these public servants—elected by a sovereign people and committed by their solemn oath to the service of the people—be the sanctuaries of Thy light and Thy love. May they walk the stony path of public service without fear for Thine is the strength which sustains them, the wisdom which guides them, the grace which redeems them. No hope is too high nor too holy, no challenge too great, no burden too heavy to bear, if they walk with God. Thy benediction be upon them, and upon the people of the city. Abide with us O Lord, now and always.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

INSTALLATION OF FLOODLIGHTS AT GIBSON PLAYGROUND, DORCHESTER.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, May 27, 1963.

To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith communication from the Commissioner of Parks and Recreation concerning your resolution of May 20, 1963, with reference to the installation of floodlights at Gibson Playground, Dorchester.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Parks and Recreation Department,
May 24, 1963.

Mr. Albert Kramer,
Administrative Assistant, Mayor's Office.

Dear Sir:
I acknowledge herewith receipt of your memo dated May 22 to which you have attached an order filed by Councillor Hines concerning the installation of floodlights at Gibson Playground, Town Field, Dorchester.

For several years this department has given much study to the installation of permanent floodlights in playgrounds throughout the city, and our survey indicates that the cost of construction and the maintenance of these installations would be prohibitive. If the city were to consider erecting permanent lights in one section of the city, then naturally further requests would be received from other areas of the city. One installation would mean fifteen or twenty other installations.

Because of the limited use of the floodlights—confined to certain sporting events at infrequent periods—the maintenance and the vandalism problem in the other periods of the year would be a most serious one. It is rather easy for surrounding town areas with only one major playground in the entire town to keep constant police supervision over a flood-lighted area, but the situation in Boston is very different with approximately one hundred and twenty-five playgrounds to maintain.

The suggestion of Councillor Hines is a most worthy one; but it would appear to me that if the city is to embark upon such a major project, then a study should be made as to the location throughout the city for floodlight facilities—provided funds had been appropriated for a major improvement of this character.

I am very happy to learn, through Councillor Hines, of the interest of the other members of the City Council, in this suggested improvement. I wish to assure the members of the Council that the installation of permanent floodlights on playgrounds and on other park areas has been high on our list of possible improvements for many years. When plans are perfected and appropriations are made, we will be most happy to give this project our serious consideration.

Very truly yours,
MARTIN F. WALSH, Commissioner.

The report of the Committee was accepted.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE ON THE MESSAGE AND RESOLUTION CONCERNING APPLICATION FOR SURVEY AND PLANNING FOR THE SOUTH COVE URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT.

"Urban Renewal was not created because of the needs of the city, but because of the needs of the citizen. I suspect that if you went about the country asking various people what Urban Renewal is all about, you would get a lot of different answers. You would be told that Urban Renewal is intended to save downtown business, or to clear up traffic congestion, or to restore worn-out areas to the tax rolls, or to create the City Beautiful, or to get rid of unsightly slum buildings. All of these things are worth-while dividends of an Urban Renewal Program. But none of them are the things that initially impelled the nation to launch first the slum clearance and urban redevelopment program, and later to broaden it into Urban Renewal. This program came into being because of people. It took account not just of the economic costs, but even more of social cost of decaying neighborhoods and urban communities. This is what most of us used to talk about when Urban Renewal was starting. You don't hear much of that kind of talk any more, and I think that's disturbing. As we get more and more involved in the demanding and complicated undertakings that Urban Renewal entails, we seem to have lost time for the people whose hopes we are trying to fulfill."

So said the former Housing Administrator of the HFA, Albert E. Cole.

I am sure that these observations describe accurately the present status of Urban Renewal and Redevelopment in Boston up to the present time.

One of the requisites is that we must be satisfied that there is sufficient relocation housing. It is true that the matter before us is merely on the plan, but as practical persons and rational people, it is fair to state the approval of the plan will result in an exodus of the people and of the businesses in the area, that once committing ourselves to it, it will be very difficult to retrench.

A study of the financial records of the Boston Redevelopment Authority, as scattered as they may be, but sufficient can be found in the transcripts of hearings held by the City Council, which indicate that the Boston Redevelopment Authority has little or no regard for the geographical limits in which money was appropriated for studies. It would appear, therefore, if this area had the urgency they would try to give it at this time, part of the millions of dollars that have been spent for planning and studies would have been put to the use of preparing studies and plans in this area.

Attached to the report of the Chairman of the Executive Committee will be found a memorandum of agreement. It will purport to bear the signatures of a representative of the Chinese community. A transcript of the record will show that the signature was affixed there but under the belief that this was an enforceable contract. I am very much concerned with the purpose for which this program was instituted, namely, people. In this area, in addition to the usual problem of families of low and average income, there is the added factor that a good many of the families and people who live in the area are closely associated with the Chinese community, which is in the immediate vicinity, their places of businesses and private employment.

Even of greater impact is the fact that in this area is an old institution, the Boston Industrial Home. The Boston Industrial Home has serviced Boston for a number of years, and goes about carrying on its work with little or no budget, and what does the work consist of? It consists of providing lodging for single men, mainly for the so-called homeless men. The question may be asked, is it a flophouse, or is it a home given to those who find comfort therein, the warmth and comfort that is expected of the American family life? The answer is Yes. This can be attested to by the fact that the churches of all denominations send to this home for care and for a night's lodging those who apply to them. Further attestation is the fact that the City of Boston itself last year sent up for lodging some 15,000 persons. The total number of lodging for last year was 80,000 nights of lodging. They have 50 men who are permanent residents, permanent in that they are retired, living only on Social Security checks, with checks so small that it would be impossible for them to find lodging elsewhere. The price that is charged for a night's lodging is 75 cents per night.

Up to four years ago the City of Boston maintained a Wayfarers' Lodge. It cost the city, the city's taxpayers, $2.85 per night per lodging. The city has closed its Wayfarers' Lodge and puts up its charges in this Boston Industrial Home for 75 cents, thus effecting quite a savings for the taxpayers of Boston, and also providing for these men a place where they might find sanitary conditions and a home for the night.

Up to this point there has been no suggestion of an alternate, no suggestion for a place for these homeless men.

How then can I say it is in the interest of the program to encourage in any way any action which already adds more confusion to the program of destruction that has been carried on in Boston thus far? Lest the casual reader might question the seriousness of the last statement, let me call attention to the fact that we in Boston have displaced by the Boston Redevelopment Authority program over 7,000 families; in addition to that, for the Turnpike Authority, for the Redevelopment Authority is not responsible, has displaced 1,600 more, and during all this time, not one brick has as yet been laid to provide housing for the economic group which was displaced.

One of our papers, the Boston "Traveler," ran a series written by one of their very able columnists, Alice Burke, and I suggest that it be referred to. On Tuesday, May 14, the Boston "Herald" carried an editorial. The title is Realism on Low-Rent Housing. The fourth paragraph reads as follows:

"A report on Boston's Urban Renewal Program, published by the Boston 'Traveler' last month showed that about 60 per cent of the families to be displaced by early landtaking in the Castle square and Washington Park, Roxbury, projects could not afford the prospective rents in new, privately built relocation housing planned by the Boston Redevelopment Authority. The 'Traveler's' analysis questioned whether most of the 5,200 families to be dislocated by Boston Urban Renewal could pay the going rents in decent private housing and pointed out the objection to building new, big housing developments in a city where 50,000 people—nearly 15 per cent of the population—already live in public housing."

This is but a part of the story of the destruction of property values and of home values that the Boston Redevelopment Authority has brought about in Boston thus far.

Who are we subsidizing? Who was this program intended for? If it was as I read it intended for the people, certainly that is not the picture in Boston. In the Charles River Park where people of low- and middle-income families were located, where they had their roots, and where they were displaced by lush apartments, this apartment building on which the government has authorized a $14 million loan and, therefore, attesting that the value of the building must be at least $14 million, is for tax purposes, at least at the present time, assessed at only $500,000, and this fall will assess it for $1,250,000 or about 8 per cent of the mortgage value.

It is clear, then, that the program in Boston thus far is to subsidize not the poor, not the middle-income, not to provide public housing. How can you provide better housing by displacing people in an area where there are not housing renting at the same economic level to take care of them? What the administration is doing and has done in Boston is to subsidize a few favored developers, to take away from the low- and middle-income and to create black, dark areas out of gray areas. The natural result of the program, or any program carried on in that fashion is this: People displaced from a location where the rent is one which they can afford to pay and for which level there is a shortage in the city, pool their efforts with some other family, double up, and move into an area in homes which were intended for single families, with facilities for but one family thus lowering the standard of that section. In time the section, then gray, becomes a blighted area.

It is my hope, my desire, my prayer that this report might be heeded by the federal authorities, that they might take another look at Boston's redevelopment program, that they might help the administration in the time they have left to do the job which was intended.

Another illustration of the deception in this program is the so-called Government Center. The papers last week, Boston papers published news stories as to a proposed building, 10 State street, as a part of the project. The Urban Renewal Director, according to the press, stated that there had been no plan drawn, that he had no agreement with Cabot, Cabot & Forbes with regards to this site, yet the April issue of "Business Week" carries a story, in which they quote Cabot, Cabot & Forbes as saying that they are erecting a building on this site, that they have it half tenanted and the Merchants National Bank is going to occupy a major portion of it. Certainly, here is a direct contradiction. By what ingenuity can big business and bankers and redevelopers commit themselves to what will happen a month or two in advance of the date, and certainly, months ahead before the project itself is presented to the Boston City Council?

GABRIEL F. PIEMONTE,

Placed on file.

MINORITY REPORT OF COUNCILLOR WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR., ON THE MESSAGE AND RESOLUTION CONCERNING APPLICATION FOR SURVEY AND PLANNING FOR THE SOUTH COVE URBAN RENEWAL PROJECT.

Coun. FOLEY—This is an excellent project. It was an excellent project in 1957 and it is an excellent project now. The problem has always been the same and the Development Administrator has managed to convert a situation of mild confusion into one of utter chaos as a result of his ministrations over the past six or seven months.

The opportunity in this project lies in the presence of the New England Medical Center and the possibility of obtaining for the project so-called 112 credits derived from this project area and from the New York Streets project area. That opportunity was always there. The Development Administrator did not create it, and, as I said before, the opportunity has been there at least since 1957. It is now 1963, and we are barely starting.

The real problem here has always been the Chinese community. The Chinese community is a thrifty, industrious, and law-abiding one, and is a most desirable community within the City of Boston. In 1957, it was suggested in a most casual way that the Chinese community would probably, at least the residential part thereof, be razed, and that somehow or other, the Chinese community could rehouse itself by the use of the limited dividend law. The Council at that time perceived such an approach was unwarrantable, and the project lay dormant and not acted upon. As a result of the Whitney Street Project particularly, which is the first limited dividend project in this state, and peripherally the Prudential Project, the limited dividend law has with the combination of 221-d-3 now developed promise which may to some degree serve the needs of this community.

2. The Development Administrator has in dealing with this project made so many mistakes and errors that if his performance here were to be adjudged a creditable one, one would have to conclude that the antics of the Three Stooges on television demonstrates the drilled precision of the Wehrmacht at Fort Eben-Emael.

The Development Administrator is clearly a superb public relations man. He has a further service to offer the City of Boston. He serves splendidly as a Washington influence peddler. As an administrator, he is totally inept.

I shall now take a look at some of the mistakes this astonishing man has made in connection with this specific project. Some of them will strain the credibility of the reader.

3. On December 19, 1962, the Committee on Urban Redevelopment, Rehabilitation and Renewal, held a hearing at which the Boston Redevelopment Authority staff set forth the project and represented that the Chinese Merchants Association was in favor of the project, and further that a certain gentleman of Chinese ancestry was president of the Merchants Association and was in favor of this project. It turned out, of course, that the staff and the Development Administrator had identified the wrong Chinese gentleman as the president of the Chinese Merchants Association. Mr. Robert Lee, the actual President of the Merchants Association, later appeared and recorded himself against the project.

4. There was then a report in the Boston "Traveler," a long article by one Alice Burke on the subject of Urban Renewal in Boston, in which it was reported the Development Administrator had accepted a report on this subject from a gentleman named Levy, a paid consultant, in which an error of $1 million was to be found. The error concerned the amount of the so-called 112 credits available in this general area against the city's share of project costs. The Development Administrator seemed totally unperturbed about the $1 million error. Apparently $1 million is a sum too trivial for his attention. He explained that his staff had realized that there was a $1 million error but had immediately applied its superb professional abilities to the problem and had discovered credits available which would more than make up the $1 million error.

He explained that going back five years from the governing body's resolution for planning survey and capital grant, and going back seven years from the governing body's action authorizing the execution of the New York Streets project area, an additional sum of almost $2 million in credits had been discovered. Where these credits were before they looked was not explained or why they had not been discovered before was not explained, but, nevertheless, this was represented to us. Of course, discovering such credits, if, in fact, the credits were discovered at all, depended very directly and immediately on two most important dates, namely, the date when the governing body (the City Council) of the City of Boston authorized a planning and survey resolution for the New York Streets project area, and the date that the governing body (Boston City Council) authorized execution of the New York Streets project area. That these two dates were key, crucial and vital dates is inescapable. To my amazement, the Development Administrator was three years in error on the date of project execution authorization by the Council and two years in error on the date of the planning and survey resolution by the Council before the New York Streets project area was made. You will pardon me if under these weird circumstances, I somehow or other doubt that these mysterious credits involving millions of dollars were, in fact, so discovered.

5. On April 4, the Committee on Urban Redevelopment, Rehabilitation and Renewal held a hearing to determine whether in the interval between December and April 4 the Chinese Merchants Association, which had as noted before through its president, Mr. Robert

Lee, at the December 19 hearing, registered opposition to the project, had now come around to the point where it looked favorably upon the project. At that hearing the Development Administrator made in the most flowery language all sorts of commitments to the Chinese community. He said that he would put these commitments in the form of an agreement. He stated:

"Mr. LOGUE—I for one think we can reduce this to a satisfactory form of writing so that they and we can have a treaty of friendship and understanding, whatever you want to call it. I think it can be done." Then he was asked: "When do you think you might be prepared to prepare such a writing?"

Mr. LOGUE—With cooperation, and I emphasize we have it from them and I hope they feel as Dr. Chin has indicated; since December we have been able to talk together. While I would say it is a reasonably short time, I would hope certainly within the end of the month; in fact, I think we should set some kind of time for ourselves, and for them to try to reach such an agreement. I think we can." This is on April 4.

On Monday, April 8, the Development Administrator tried to strong-arm this planning and survey resolution through the City Council in a demonstration of bare-knuckle power politics which, thanks to the good sense of this Body, failed. No written agreement. No treaty. Nothing. Just high-pressure, cynical power politics, and it failed, to the glory of this Body. The Development Administrator then did absolutely nothing.

On April 22 I offered a resolution which was adopted by the Body in which the Executive Committee was directed to hold a hearing to determine whether, in fact, this treaty of friendship and understanding, and so forth, and so forth, had in fact been negotiated and reduced to writing with the Chinese community. Remembering now the Chinese Merchants Association was to this point generally unfavorable to the project, I tell you now that Logue's first draft of the so-called treaty of friendship and understanding and memorandum of cooperation, however described, arrived at the office of the Chinese Merchants Association Friday, April 26, 1963. Logue did not even start talking to these people along the lines of the April 4 representation until April 26, 1963.

On May 1, the Executive Committee held a hearing at which both Logue and the Chinese community agreed that further time was necessary in reaching final form for the agreement.

An examination of this agreement by anyone who is fair-minded will reveal that the date upon it is May 24, 1963, and the first statement in the memorandum is:

"This memorandum of understanding executed this 24th day of May, 1963,—"

I suggest to you, in the light of that, that any reference anywhere in any newspapers to the effect that this Body has in any way delayed this matter is grossly unfair, and I suggest to you further that the Development Administrator's representation that this Body has in any way stalled this matter is a downright misrepresentation.

In his airy promises of April 4, 1963, the Development Administrator went elaborately into the possibility of the Chinese community making an agreement with the BRA which would parallel the so-called CCBD, the Committee for the Central Business District agreement. It was represented at the last meeting of the Executive Committee that this, in fact, had been done. It has not been done. Nothing even approaching such a paralleling of the CCBD agreement has been done here. The memorandum of understanding is a pitifully inadequate document.

The Chinese community is located about two thirds in the South Cove project area and about one third in the Central Business District project area. The economic head of the Chinese community is in the Central Business District project area. The residential part is to a large extent in the South Cove project area. The so-called memorandum of understanding is limited in its terms, as stated in the second part thereof, Page 3,

"This agreement relates to the area bounded as follows:—"

It relates to no land anywhere in the world except a pitiful 4.6 acres out of the 86-acre South Cove project area. Of these 4.6 acres, it developed at the hearing that probably over two of those acres would remain as they are. It appears that the agreement relates to but two acres in the whole world, and it is proposed to house or to accommodate somewhere near 2,000 people on those two acres.

Ironically enough, the Redevelopment Authority was able at the hearing to offer us only the wildest estimates as to how many persons of Chinese ancestry we are talking about.

It is my impression that the Development Administrator has made a cynical evaluation of the political power of the Chinese community, found that it is slight, and has decided to treat it with no consideration whatever.

It is my strong impression based on these hearings and others that the Development Administrator is badly overdrawn at the bank on this project, that he has been spending planning and survey funds without authorization of the governing body (the City Council), and that he desperately needs this resolution to balance the books temporarily.

You will pardon me if I read with skepticism Page 4 of the memorandum of cooperation, where it says:

"New low-cost housing. The project will provide for the construction of new low-cost housing for the Chinese community and will not include provision for high-income housing in the area of the Chinese community. It is planned that new housing will be constructed on a step-by-step basis so as to preclude dislocation of the Chinese families within the area and to insure relocation of families within the Chinese community. In the development of new housing absolute preference and priority will be given to developers provided by or otherwise acceptable to the Chinese Association.

"It is understood that new housing can be of several types, or a mixture of types, which may include the following:

"(a) Section 221-d-3, privately sponsored, with 3½ per cent interest. Rents under this program are currently estimated at $75 to $105 per month including heat for from one- to four-bedroom apartments.

"(b) If desired, public housing for families or for the elderly. Rents are equal generally to about 25 per cent of income and vary according to family size.

"(c) Housing units can be made available through rehabilitation with provision for long-term guaranteed mortgages. In this connection, it is expected that the Authority will assist rehabilitation efforts in every way possible and will make available financial and technical assistance for rehabilitation or conversion of existing housing.

"Adequate parking space will be provided in the plan for this area."

Mr. President, you will pardon me if I doubt that private 221-d-3 housing, public housing for low-income families and for the elderly, rehabilitated units, and adequate parking space for about 2,000 people can be provided in about 2½ acres. I don't expect the Redevelopment Administrator to repeat the miracle of the loaves and the fishes, I expect, however, that he will not promise to do so well knowing he cannot.

Mayor Calls for All-Out Efforts to Break Racial Barriers

Following is Mayor John F. Collins' radio address on Civil Rights:

Good Evening, My Fellow Citizens: The people of Boston are people of good will, and I think that the record proves that. The people of Boston are good neighbors, and I think that the record proves that. The people of Boston have mutual understanding, and they have faith in each other, and I believe that the record both past and future will prove that.

In addressing you tonight on the important, but delicate subject, of interracial relations in our Boston community, I feel a sense of great responsibility to state as a matter of my profound, personal conviction, that there is no challenge which Boston has not met, or cannot meet once we have harnessed the vast resources of our mutual good will, understanding and good faith.

These are not times for platitudes or lectures, or for contrived delay; they are rather times for thoughtful and cooperative action, for steady and realistic progress in the solution of the problems before us.

But each of us, male or female, young or old, Catholic, Protestant or Jew, white or nonwhite, must share and bear the responsibility for meaningful and fruitful participation in the solution of these or any other problems, which affect the entire community, the entire state, or, as in this case, the entire nation.

In the eyes of God, all of His children are equal. Divinity knows no discrimination. The same is true of the foundation principles of our American heritage as incorporated in and exemplified by our federal and our state constitutions. We all agree with these principles. But as in the case of the Flag, it is not enough merely to pledge allegiance thereto, it is our duty to protect and defend, and to implement these principles, so that all supposedly free Americans, whatever their origin or their status, may, in fact, enjoy the dignities of free citizenship which it is their unquestioned right to claim.

It is my proud privilege to be able to say as a citizen of Massachusetts, and as Mayor of Boston and as a citizen of Boston, that neither my state, nor my city has ever been content to merely give lip service to these principles, but has, on the other hand, been in the forefront of every great endeavor to eliminate social or economic injustice.

Every student of American history knows that. Everyone who knows that history will acknowledge the battles for freedom in which Boston's citizens have engaged have not been battles on behalf of a single sect, a single faith, or single ethnic group, but on POLICE FRIENDSHIP ATHLETIC LEAGUE — Mayor John F. Collins announces opening of a summer recreation program for boys from seven to seventeen living in the Washington Park, Roxbury, area.

The program, being operated jointly by the Police Department, Redevelopment Authority, and the Park Department, gets under way June 26 with the opening of six basketball courts and two softball fields in the area.

Problem Calls for Action Now, Not Oratory or Delay behalf of every man, woman, or child, no matter who or what he might be.

Barriers Exist

In many parts of the country, though in varying degrees, the Negro citizen has been or is the victim of social and economic discrimination. Some of this discrimination is active, some of it is passive; some is intentional and some is, doubtless, circumstantial. But none of it is acceptable and all of it must be eradicated.

Our common efforts must be directed to the eradication of such problems throughout the nation.

Boston ranks high among the cities of the nation in this endeavor, but, unfortunately, is not entirely free of such problems.

Nevertheless, I have had too many discussions with representatives of the Negro citizens of Boston, not to know that they have either experienced or observed the actual results of various barriers however raised.

Problem Is Economic

Principally, these have occurred in the fields of education, housing and employment. You and they are entitled to know what the City of Boston has done and what it intends to do about these matters.

At the outset may I express my own belief, based on my personal study of the matter, problem is an economic one, that once we succeed in obtaining equal job opportunities for Negro men and women, we will have made tremendous natural and logical strides in other directions as well.

It is my intention to attack this problem by initiating discussions with the Boston leaders of industry and labor to the end that the economic status of the Negro citizen of Boston may be improved. Now some 10 days ago, President Kennedy, in recognition of conditions existing throughout the nation, recommended to the U.S. Conference of Mayors a five-point program for adoption by municipalities for the purpose of improving race relations.

I believe it is worthy of note, and even of reassurance, that before the President spoke, Boston and the Commonwealth of Massachusetts had already implemented each of the five recommendations made by the President.

For example, the President's first recommendation was that every city should establish a biracial human relations committee in order to identify community tensions, to improve cooperations and communication between races and to stimulate progressive steps on the part of all citizens.

In this respect there had already been appointed, for a number of years, a biracial human relations committee, consisting of the Committee for Civic Unity, comprised of leading educators, businessmen, professional men, and representatives of minority groups.

Definite Recommendations

I am now expanding this committee by adding a number of outstanding citizens, whose identities will be publicly announced immediately after this broadcast. It will be the expanded activist function of this committee to consult with all interested parties and groups and to advise the Mayor on our over-all program of assuring equality of opportunity for all Bostonians without reference to race, religion, or national origin.

It is my expectation that this committee will submit definite recommendations for specific courses of action so that Boston will continue to be among the leaders in this field.

The President's second recommendation was that every local government should make sure that its own ordinances are in accordance with constitutional law in the field of discrimination.

Here again, Boston can take satisfaction in the fact that its local ordinances permit no such discrimination.

In fact, all city contracts contain provisions prohibiting discrimination in the employment of labor for whatever cause, and it is a well-known fact that there is no discrimination in our Boston restaurants, hotels, and places of amusement.

The President's third recommendation was that every local government should follow nondiscriminatory practices in the employment and promotion of municipal workers. In this respect, everyone familiar with the workings of City Hall, knows that there is no such discrimination, either in fact or in spirit. There are numerous Negro employees on the city payroll subject to the same Civil Service protection and promotional opportunities available to all other employees.

Indeed, in my own office, the secretary in charge of interviewing job applicants is, himself, a Negro, and moreover, the first Negro appointee to the five-man Boston Housing Authority, was confirmed during my administration, and the first Negro election commissioner appointed.

The President's fourth recommendation was that every local government should enact equal opportunity ordinances to spell out the civil rights of all its local citizens; ordinances relative to equal employment opportunities, housing opportunities and equal access to public accommodations. As already indicated above, Boston and every Massachusetts city and town operates under the statutes of this Commonwealth, including the Fair Employment Practices Act, which has been a part of our system of government for more than a decade.

President Kennedy's final recommendation was that the mayor of each city undertake a special campaign in his community to decrease unemployment among the unskilled of all races by reducing school dropouts and other similar measures.

I am very, very glad to be able to say that it is in this field that we have been most active for a long period of time and successful to a very considerable degree.

Three years ago I sponsored the formation of the Youth Educational Assistance Fund, a private charitable trust, known as Y.E.A., which offers opportunities for vocational and apprenticeship scholarships to deserving young persons who have dropped out of school. Under this program school dropouts are tested, counseled and financed in their vocational training and as of June 1, more than 125 young persons had received assistance of this kind and the program has been relatively so successful that it is now being studied by several other cities with similar problems.

Moreover, the city and the Mayor, have participated directly and frequently in the activities of the Action for Boston Community Development, known as A.B.C.D., which has been supported, in large part, by the Ford Foundation.

The primary goal of this important social study agency has been to prepare demonstration programs in all fields related to social problems as well as to evaluating various programs in the fields of education, recreation, housing and the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

On the Move

The A.B.C.D. organization has just completed the drafting of two large projects in the field of education and job training of youth in Roxbury, the South End, Charlestown, and North Dorchester. If, as we expect, these projects are approved by the Ford Foundation, and by the U. S. Department of Labor, then these projects will be implemented this summer as planned.

Just two days ago, I announced the commencement of a summer recreation program for boys living in the Washington Park area of Roxbury, to be coached and directed by a staff headed by those great and popular stars of the Boston Celtics, Sam Jones and Tom Sanders, and Eugene Lee of the Boston Police Department.

This program for boys between 7 and 17 will have the use of six basketball courts and two softball fields being prepared by the Boston Park Department and the Boston

Hero Roxbury Officer Wins Hearst Award

Patrolman John C. Collins of the Roxbury Crossing Station has been awarded the Record American-Sunday Advertiser "Policeman-of-the Month" distinction for April. His superiors and members of the police planning board selected him for the award which carries a check for $100, plus an engraved citation signed by Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara and Harold G. Kern, publisher of the local Hearst papers.

Collins, while on a "Relief-Day" in company with his brother, Patrolman Jeremiah of the Fields Corner Station, witnessed an 11-year-old Dorchester boy fall from a pier into the South Boston lagoon. The officer dove after him and succeeded in reaching him as an undercurrent carried him away from the pier.

The hero officer suffered a leg injury while affecting the rescue and was later treated at City Hospital.

Redevelopment Authority. This is just the first of a number of similar programs planned for the entire city.

This particular program was planned by an advisory committee headed by Judge Elwood McKenney of the Roxbury District Court.

You also are quite aware of the fact that for many months our urban renewal program has concentrated on a very, very substantial program of rehabilitation and new construction in the Washington Park area, which has been given a first priority and it is the result of very, very careful planning by the Mayor and the Redevelopment Authority with the people of the Washington Park area, itself.

Included also in the new police expanded training program will be a 13-hour course on human relations, directed by leading university experts in this field, and, I might add, that the interracial committee is expected to avail itself of the facilities of our great universities in this area.

The city's basic policy of working with people means working with all the people and, as a matter of fact, in the field of public housing only yesterday the Boston Housing Authority took a very forward and a very progressive step. I think we could point out that Boston's progress in both public and private housing, although not yet satisfactory, far outstrips that of suburban communities which surround us.

Setting Pace

Boston's citizens are resolving their problems and we hope that suburbia will keep pace.

To summarize the city's position, both past, present and future, it is a policy of recognizing the facts as they exist, and dealing with those facts in an intelligent, forthright and progressive manner, relying at all times on the good will, the intelligence, and the responsibility of all individuals or groups concerned.

Handicaps of Education, Housing, Work Must Go

A word now about the recent negotiations between the School Committee and the representatives of our Negro citizens. As Mayor, I kept myself fully informed of the negotiations at all times. I deliberately refrained from making any utterances on this subject while the negotiations were going on, not for the technical reason alone that this was under the jurisdiction of the School Committee, but also because I did not desire to interfere with the negotiations which are being conducted in good faith.

These are times and these are circumstances which call for good sense, for responsibility on the part of all of us, rather than oratory, and with the cooperation of all citizens of good will, in a responsible manner we will resolve our problems as we have in the past, and will continue to be in the vanguard of progressive action throughout America.

Dr. Finland Advanced

Dr. Maxwell Finland, international authority on clinical and scientific problems posed by infectious diseases, will become director of the Thorndike Memorial at Boston City Hospital and George Richards Minot professor of medicine in the Faculty of Medicine at Harvard Medical School, July 1.

All-America Fare by Sox, Golfers, Festival

The National Open Golf championships, the Red Sox-Yankees series, and Boston's Arts Festival combined to make Boston an All-America City with plenty of appeal last week end. Local restaurants, clubs, hotels, motels, and stores all shared in the enthusiasm aroused—particularly when receipts were counted.

The Red Sox and Yanks drew well over 100,000 for their four-game series; the nation's top golfers drew tremendous galleries and Boston's Arts Festival got away to its biggest start ever when it came to the attraction of visitors.

POLICE

June 14.

Personnel Order No. 155.

Detective Francis E. Kilday and Patrolman James B. O'Leary of District 16 are hereby commended for meritorious police duty and each is granted two days' additional vacation.

At about 5:50 p.m., December 28, 1962, one Robert K. Allen, 48 years, of 310 Beacon street, Boston, while walking across Commonwealth avenue at Exeter street, was struck and thrown to the street by an automobile, registration and make unknown, the operator of which left the scene without making known his identity.

Robert K. Allen was removed to the Massachusetts General Hospital in an ambulance of District 16 where on examination, he was found to be suffering from a fracture of the skull, contusions and abrasions of the body and compound fractures of both legs. His name was placed on the danger list and he was confined in the hospital for a period of two months. He has lost about 70 percent of his hearing, is still under the care of a physician, and will never fully recover from the injuries he sustained as the result of this accident.

Detective Kilday and Patrolman O'Leary, who are assigned to automobile accident investigations, immediately commenced an investigation of this accident and, working in conjunction with Inspector Scanzani of the Registry of Motor Vehicles, obtained information from a citizen that the offending motorist was operating a vehicle which was identified as a 1950 blue-colored Ford convertible, Mass. Reg. plates 64266-, last digit unknown.

Through their persevering efforts in checking registrations, questioning a number of people and viewing and eliminating many vehicles, which continued for approximately three months, the officers obtained information that a 1951, blue-colored Ford convertible, Mass. Reg. 646-266, was registered to one Anthony Manfra, 1262 Commonwealth avenue, Allston. Further investigation disclosed that Mr. Manfra had sold this vehicle on December 21, 1962, to Donald H. Priestly, 18 years, of 327 Cypress street, and Robert J. Pasztor, 18 years, 122 Kent street, both of Brookline.

The officers questioned these young men on several different days and Pasztor finally admitted he was the operator of the vehicle that struck and injured Mr. Allen. The vehicle was located in Middleboro, Mass., where Pasztor had taken it to avoid detection.

Pasztor was arraigned in Boston Municipal Court on several counts of violations of the Automobile Laws and later pleading guilty to all such complaints in the Suffolk Superior Court on May 22, 1963, he was given two years in the House of Correction, sentence suspended, placed on probation for three years, and fined $100.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the outstanding example of the persevering and intelligent investigation conducted by these officers in this case, as well as the many hours they gave beyond their regular tours of duty to locate the person responsible for the serious injuries sustained by the victim. This type of devotion to duty reflects credit not only on the officers concerned but on every member of the department as well.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the subbid on any subtrade if it determines that such subbid does not represent the subbid of a person competent to perform the work as specified or that only three such subbids were received and that the prices are not reasonable for acceptance without further competition in accordance with section 44D, chapter

149 of the General Laws, as amended.

Nine City Buildings Getting Spruce-Up Treatments This Summer

Mayor John F. Collins has announced a schedule for major alterations, repairs, and painting work designed to enhance the value, appearance, and capacity of nine municipal buildings to serve the public more efficiently.

All of the buildings are under the control of the Real Property Department's Buildings' Division. A total of $370,000 has been earmarked for the extensive spruce-up. Work on three of the structures has been completed in the first phase of the program. Completion of schedule for the remaining six will be achieved during the first weeks of summer.

Listed for the attention of the Buildings' Division have been City Hall Annex, South Boston Municipal Building, Hyde Park Municipal Building, M. J. Tobin Municipal Building, West Roxbury Courthouse, Columbia Road Building, Curtis Hall, J. J. Williams Building, and the Roslindale Municipal Building.

Assistant Real Property Commissioner Albert F. Donnelly reported that in the first phase of the program, repairs and extensive maintenance work had been completed at the Hyde Park Municipal Building at a cost of $60,000; $30,000 had been spent at City Hall Annex and $15,000 at the M. J. Tobin Municipal Building.

Here's a thumbnail sketch of the work which will be carried out at six remaining important structures:

"Newsweek" Calls Tax Cut Hottest News Break Since April 18, 1775

Word that Boston's Mayor Collins had slashed his city's tax rate for the fourth successive year was hailed by Newsweek, major national weekly, as the "hottest news flash" out of the Hub since the night of April 18, 1775, when lanterns were hung in the tower of Old North Church.

In its publication of June 24, Newsweek, reviewing this year's slash and the three preceding it, told of the impact on "City Halls across the nation."

Mayor Collins' achievement this year—Newsweek noted—came at the very time when major cities across the nation were wrestling with the problems of "Devising Bigger Budgets and New Taxes."

Newsweek called attention to the fact that when Mayor Collins was elected he faced a tax rate which had spiraled to $101.20, highest real estate impost in the nation—one that had jumped an average of $7.80 a year for five consecutive years.

The article also pointed out that Boston shared with aging cities across the nation the phenomena of climbing taxes and declining income. Unlike many other cities, it was further pointed out, Boston was without income from a municipal sales tax or a tax on earnings.

Four years ago, said Newsweek, Boston was $10 million in the red. "This January," said the weekly, "after three years of tax cuts, the city had a surplus of $6,150,000."

The article called attention to the city's huge renewal program. It emphasized that in January despite the tremendous clearance program necessary, "The wrecker . . . had nearly finished (the clearance job) and new, taxable buildings were beginning to go up." How did it come about Newsweek asked itself and then proceeded to answer. Here is part of the article:

"Well, as Mayor John Frederick Collins would be the first to concede, it wasn't easy. Boston has the same kind of troubles as any other aging city. While the costs of aging city services have soared, the taxable property has dwindled. And unlike some cities, Boston has no sales tax on real estate.

"Four years ago, when Democrat Collins, a 43-year-old lawyer, took the oath of office in a wheel chair he has used since a polio attack in 1955, the city was $10 million in the hole. The wrecker's iron ball was poised to raze millions of dollars worth of taxable buildings to clear the way for an extension of the Massachusetts Turnpike and a Government Center Plaza in Scollay square. Untaxed colleges and hospitals were devouring even more land. For five consecutive years, at an average of $7.80 a clip, the tax rate had risen to $101.20 per $1,000 of property valuation—the highest in the land."

Separate Spiral: "When I became mayor," Collins said last week, "I really did want to prove that this old city of ours was capable of efficient, effective local government, and that it could prevent a spiraling tax rate from actually ending the existence of Boston as a separate government."

Collins went about the tax-cutting job by tightening the budgets of twelve city departments, saving $8 million a year by eliminating unnecessary jobs as employees retired. In public works alone, with more efficient street cleaning and snow removal equipment he saved $2 million a year.

The Massachusetts Legislature helped last year by authorizing Boston to collect the rent on tax-delinquent property. Tardy taxpayers hastened to pay up. Collins also nipped tax-exempt institutions with a sewer-service charge that brings in $3 million a year.

"This January, after three years of tax cuts, the city had a surplus of $6,150,000. The wrecker, what's more, had finished and new taxable buildings were beginning to go up."

Newsweek didn't add but made it explicitly clear that the same boom from the tax reductions was shared by all other home owners and rent payers, too.

Pat and Mickey Share Spike Troubles on Same-Day Basis

This is a story about Pat and Mickey. And spikes.

They've never met but somehow their stars got crossed while running on a collision course a couple of nights before last Memorial Day. After that they found themselves sharing dates for a whole month even though the closest they ever got together was some 300 miles.

Until that fateful pre-Memorial Day night Pat had never heard of Mickey and it was vice versa with Mickey. Mickey hasn't yet heard of Pat. Only thing Pat knows about Mickey is what she's read in the papers.

The dates they kept were in hospitals and doctors' offices.

Pat's a secretary at City Hospital. Mickey is a hitsmith employed by the New York American League Baseball Company, commonly known as the Yankees.

On that night in May, little Pat Donovan was attending a party of the Girls' Boston City Hospital Bowling League. She copped one of the prizes. The girls were really enjoying themselves for nearly all of them had prize awards coming their way. Once one of the popular lady keggers was getting a deserved hand.

Everybody clapped and cheered. Some jumped up and down. One of the enthusiastic jumpers was wearing those stiletto-spiked heels. When she came down the spike of one shoe landed on Pat's instep. That was the end of the evening for Pat. They took her to the hospital.

Mickey Mantle was working at his trade out in Chicago. While patrolling the vast reaches of center field in Comiskey Park he peered into the bank of lights on the grandstand roof and saw that one of Al Lopez' boys had propelled a horrendous drive in his direction.

With larceny in his heart Mickey started for the fence. When he got there he made like climbing the barrier. Somehow his spikes got caught. He landed at the base of the wall. They carried him off the field on a stretcher.

For the next month the life lines for Pat and Mickey ran parallel courses.

They made an X ray of Mickey's foot. "Metatarsal Fracture," read the X ray. They made an X ray of Pat's foot. "Metatarsal Fracture," the X ray here in Boston echoed.

At City Hospital they wrapped Pat's foot and lower leg in an unyielding cast. In New York they did the same thing for Mickey.

It came down to June 27. That was a big day for Pat. That was the day they took her cast off. It was a big day for Mickey, too. That's the day they relieved him of his cast.

For 30 days their stars and life lines were showing no affinity for moonlight and roses. They were too mixed up with spikes, metatarsal bones, X rays and plaster casts.

It's all over now. Save for Mickey. He's gone home to give the metatarsal area of his foot a rest before pulling on his spiked shoes and pin-striped working clothes to help add another pennant to the Yankees' collection.

Pat? She was back with her notebook, pothooks, files, and typewriter almost from the time they fitted her to that cast. She's a very good little bowler. She's a very efficient little secretary. She doesn't even know what position Mickey plays. But if he had a metatarsal fracture, "I'm sorry for him," she says. "It's a bit of a nuisance."

THEY LEARNED ABOUT SPIKES—Pat Donovan, petite Boston City Hospital secretary, and Mickey Mantle, who has them running for the tape measure when he really connects, each broke a foot at the same time—due to spikes. Pat (Miss Patricia) was spiked by one of those stiletto heels. Mickey's own cleats betrayed him when he tried to take an extra base hit from an enemy slugger. (Miss Donovan photo by Pat Pergola)

NEW CITY HALL AND PLAZA—Here's the architect's conception of how City Hall and its plaza will appear from a point near old Scollay square.

Gov't. Center Plans Backed by Chamber

Vice-President Thomas M. Hennessy of the New England Telephone & Telegraph Company, in his capacity as vice-president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce, appeared before the Urban Renewal Committee of the City Council June 27 to apprise the Council of the Chamber's support of the formal re-use plan for the Government Center Project.

His statement was as follows:

The Board of Directors of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce on June 24 voted its unanimous endorsement and support of the formal and final re-use plan for the Government Center Project as submitted and approved by the Boston Redevelopment Authority and the Mayor of Boston.

The Chamber has had a long and deep interest in the concept of a Government Center in the Scollay-Haymarket-Bowdoin Square area since its inception in the early 1950's. We have throughout the years given our strong support to the necessary legislation which brought about the State Office Building complex, the new City Hall, and the authority to acquire the project area land prior to a formal re-use plan.

It is our overall contention that the formal re-use plan under consideration today has held fast to the concept of providing a setting for a complex of government buildings that would be worthy of a great tradition and symbolic of an unlimited future. This is a project in which the entire City of Boston may take unrelenting pride.

The Chamber is also aware that the Government Center Project will also bring many other notable benefits to the city. Increased tourism and other public uses of such important national shrines as the Old State House and Faneuil Hall-Quincy Market should naturally result in the construction of this governmental complex.

Entire Field Topped By Tom McGrimley

With a majority which ran more than 300 votes over the combined total of seven other avowed candidates plus all "write-ins." Attorney Thomas J. McGrimley was elected to a second term on the State-Boston Retirement Board at the recent election.

McGrimley, a resident of Roslindale, polled 4,807 votes. The rest of the field received 4,501. John Cassell of Boston City Hospital, a "write-in" candidate, proved a surprise by polling 566 votes and placing fourth.

Other votes were as follows: Charles F. Donovan, Public Works, 1,120; Robert P. Carroll, School Department, 851; Albert G. Sullivan, Hospital Department, 471; Saul A. Cohen, Housing Authority, 432; Philip F. McLaughlin, Jr., Public Welfare, 366; Philip W. Flattich, Library Department, 287. Other "write-ins" accounted for 172 votes.

The board administers the retirement fund of all city and Suffolk County employees. It consists of McGrimley, sole elected member, former City Clerk Walter J. Malloy, appointee of the Mayor, and City Auditor John T. Leonard.

Additional shopping and business traffic will give a major economic boost to the city's retail area centered on Washington and Tremont streets. Finally, Boston's prestige as a thriving financial and commercial center will be greatly revitalized by the Government Center.

It is apparent in the visual aspects of the formal re-use plan that from a physical standpoint the project will represent the highest standards of urban design and architectural quality. This has been made possible by the cooperation of the many public agencies involved and what we consider to be a group of distinguished and extremely talented architects.

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce strongly recommends your favorable report on the formal re-use plan of the Government Center Project.

Traffic Institute Hails Boston's '62 Advance

The Institute of Traffic Engineers recently presented to the city a Certificate of Recognition for maintaining a high level of performance in traffic engineering for the year 1962.

In the Annual Inventory of Traffic Activities submitted to the National Safety Council by over 1,200 cities and towns throughout the country, Boston was chosen for the award after the reports were appraised and judged by a group of the nation's top traffic engineers.

Mayor John F. Collins extended his congratulations to Traffic Commissioner Thomas F. Carty, and his staff. Since the start of the Mayor's Administration, he has maintained a sincere interest in improving traffic conditions throughout the city. He stressed a policy of steady improvements in keeping with Boston's new up-and-coming status.

Commissioner Carty and his staff have availed themselves of the most modern techniques in traffic controls; he has readjusted his department by obtaining additional engineering personnel; a new policy of inter-agency relationship has been adopted to keep the Traffic Department coordinated with all agencies who are currently participating in the construction of new highways; new developments, including the Government Center, the Prudential Complex, the Washington Park Improvement, and the West End Development; not to mention all other agencies currently undertaking the study for the waterfront improvement and the North Station area development.

A major study for improving mass transit facilities was initiated here during the past year which found the Commissioner of Traffic and Parking acting in an advisory capacity on the staff of the Metropolitan Transit Authority.

Each year the progress of traffic improvements are submitted to the National Safety Council in a report known as the Annual Inventory of Traffic Activities. These reports are then subjected to severe criticism and compared with all other reporting cities and towns throughout the country in accordance with the proper population group. The most competent traffic engineers are prevailed upon to act as judges in the appraisal of these reports. They determine the winners.

Mayor Decrees Pay Hike for BCH Interns

Mayor Collins announced a pay raise for Boston City Hospital interns in a new schedule announced recently. The schedule became effective July 1. The Mayor requested the City Council for an approval of $180,000 order to finance the increase for the balance of the year.

The new schedule compares favorably with other hospitals in this area, most of whom are also revising their intern pay increments upward.

Under it, first-year interns will go from $1,656 to $2,400 this year and up to $3,000 in 1964. Fifth-year residents will go from $3,500 to $4,800 this year and to $6,000 in 1964. Interim brackets will be similarly increased.

Connecticut Day At Fenway

July 7 will be State of Connecticut Day at Fenway Park with the Red Sox entertaining a big delegation from the Nutmeg State headed by Governor John N. Dempsey, while they try to improve their position in the American League race against the White Sox.

FOUR REASONS FOR SUCCESS—Folks like this quartet at City Hospital helped make the Mayor's Field Day a big success. Left to right, Personnel Deputy Alice Lyons, Assistant Superintendent Dr. James V. "Best Summer Ever" Triggered by Mayor

Mayor Collins officially opened what is expected to be Boston's greatest playground and recreation summer on June 26.

Occasion was a Play Leaders' Institute held at Pine Bank, Jamaica Plain, where 300 of those who will direct activities at the various playgrounds were on hand.

Present also were Parks and Recreation Commissioner Martin F. Walsh, Recreation Director Pat J. Ryan, Police Commissioner Edmund L. McNamara, Chairman Oscar Haussermann of the Massachusetts Committee, Catholics, Protestants and Jews, Director Thomas Feenan of the H. P. Hood Physical Fitness Program, Walter Palmer, Greater Boston Junior Chamber of Commerce.

Two days after the Institute the program at the various playgrounds got under way. Commissioner Walsh believes that the greatest number of children in his department's history will avail themselves of the facilities at their disposal. The Parks and Recreation Department, anticipating the heavy load has sought to bring all facilities up to the finest possible condition—from tot lots to the fastest of baseball diamonds.

Among the "openers" was the "Playland" facility on Boston Common, brighter and more attractive than ever for its influx of shoppers' children.

In addition to its regular program, the Parks and Recreation Department conducts four Day Camp Playgrounds for handicapped children. These are at Pleasure Island, South Boston; Fifield School, Dorchester; Cleveland Circle, Brighton, and Tileston School, Mattapan.

It cost New York City over $300,000,000 to meet its welfare recipient's needs in 1959. In that year there were nearly half a million on its welfare rolls.

New "M" Street Park Dedicated by Mayor

South Boston's newly rehabilitated Christopher J. Lee Playground and Independence Park, better known as "M" Street Park, was dedicated by Mayor Collins.

William H. Skinner, Jr., president of the South Boston Residents' Group, said other invited dignitaries included Senator John E. Powers, Representative John T. Tynan, Boston Commissioner of Parks Martin Walsh and Vincent C. Ziegler, president of the Gillette Company.

Before the dedication, St. Peter's Church championship CYO band led a parade down East Broadway to the park. Marching in the parade were Boy Scouts, Little Leaguers, Babe Ruth League, Connie Mack League, South Boston Boys' Club, Girl Scouts, and Girls' Club members.

"This important community recreational facility," Skinner said, "has undergone extensive landscaping and renovation costing approximately $85,000, which was raised entirely from private voluntary sources under the auspices of the Residents' Group.

"It was extremely gratifying to see the manner in which residents, businessmen, and local industries joined together to get this vital community need.

"On behalf of the citizens of South Boston, I would like to extend our sincere thanks to all who made the new 'M' Street Park possible."

Work has included landscaping of Independence Park and the installation of new benches and lighting and construction of a playground, a "tot-lot" for preschoolers, and a Little League baseball field.

One of the most popular facilities of the park is expected to be the two new basketball courts with lighting for night use. Ray Flynn, former basketball star at Providence College who was recently signed by the Syracuse Nationals, is organizing a basketball league and will conduct clinics.

Dave Gately Figured Kid Had Something

Dave Powers, Charlestown's gift to the White House secretariat, may be quite a guy in keeping President Kennedy abreast of the sports' scene, particularly in the areas of big league baseball and college and pro football, but Dave Gately, chief secretary to Mayor Collins, has no peer in those fields.

Actually, Dave G. could, if he wished, claim a bit of an edge on Dave P.

There's no record of Dave P. ever coming up with a big league star all his own. The way the scouts tell it, first man in this area to get Bill Monboquette high tailing it for top ranks among big league pitchers was Dave G.

Some years back when Monbo was just emerging from CYO and Junior Legion ball, Dave G. had a chance to get a good look at the West Medford boy. At the time Dave was on loan to the Hearst papers for their annual baseball tourney setup.

"There," said Gately, "is a kid with all the right equipment." He didn't let it go at that. He got the Red Sox interested. Monbo himself and the Red Sox organization took it up from there. Result: Local boy makes good. Dave G. and Monbo have been pals ever since.

3.5 Million Feet of Air Conditioning on Way

A space revolution is about to take place in Boston.

Over 3,500,000 square feet of new air-conditioned office space will have hit the market by the end of 1965, says Alexander S. Beal, president of the Building Owners & Managers Association, a division of the Greater Boston Real Estate Board.

The completion of the Government Center and other new office buildings in the next two years will provide the greatest addition to Boston's office space inventory made in any two years of this century.

Welfare Dept. Aids Social Work Students

Five college students will be given first-hand practical experience in public welfare work under the aegis of the Boston Public Welfare Department this summer. For the seventh successive year Boston department will participate in the Social Work Careers Program, Inc.

French Carrier Here

Guest of the city for a six-day period recently was the French aircraft carrier "Foch" with a complement of 100 officers and 1,373 enlisted men under command of Rear Admiral Fernand Jean Bailleux, former assistant chief of staff for the armed forces of France. The visiting sailors made the most of their shore leaves—like tars from time immemorial. They bought souvenirs to take home and did plenty of window-shopping. Their behaviour was most exemplary as they made their way about the city.

Each year, under the plan, the Welfare Department has provided paid summer work jobs for aspiring collegiate students bent on careers in the social work field. They are paid for their work and obtain the advantages of professional supervision.

Enrolled this year are Marybeth Burke, Emmanuel College; Richard Carideo, St. Anselm's College; Sheila A. Griffin, Merrimack College; Helen E. Hannon, Newton College of the Sacred Heart, and Jane Kline, Boston University.

The project is only one phase of the Boston department's policy of cooperation in the Social Works Careers Program. During the summer, Careers' students working in other agencies, will visit the Boston Welfare Department for briefing on programs and services. The first group will arrive July 9. Similar sessions are held for interested students at designated times through the academic year.

Earl Wilson Tries Hand at Real Estate

Earl Wilson, the 27-year-old Red Sox pitcher who has good reason to wonder if he has been snake-bitten this year, while one break after another has gone against him, will attempt to build an off-season and post-playing-days career in the real estate field.

Earl recently became associated with a Brookline firm specializing in low rental urban development projects. Born in Louisiana, Wilson, author of a no-hit game last season and one of the A.L.'s best pitchers this year despite a hard-luck streak, majored in business and public relations at San Diego State College, San Diego, California.

Birth and Marriage Rates at 1962 Pace

Births and marriages recorded in Boston for the first six months of 1963 were running at about the same rate as for the first half of 1962, figures of the City Registrar's office indicate.

Totals for this year showed 10,848 as compared with 10,891 for the same period a year ago. This year 3,132 marriage licenses were issued, only 55 less than a year ago.

The number of deaths increased somewhat this year. Total was 6,611 for 1963 against 6,443 last year.

City Registrar's Report for June

City Registrar Charles H. Mackie announced the monthly figures on Boston births, marriages, and deaths for June as follows:

	1963	1962
Births.....	2,129	1,760
Marriages.....	683	720
Deaths.....	995	968

Totals for six months, January to June, are as follows:

	1963	1962
Births.....	10,848	10,891
Marriages.....	3,132	3,187
Deaths.....	6,611	6,443

The above figures refer to births, marriages, and deaths which occurred in Boston regardless of official places of residence.

BHA Trains Staff for Integration Problems

In line with its new policy directive for achieving racially-integration in its projects, the Boston Housing Authority has undertaken an orientation and training program for key staff members. Under direction of Dr. Martin P. Chworowsky, director of the Greenfield Center for Human Relations at University of Pennsylvania, and Lester G. Houston, doctoral student at the Florence Heller Graduate School for Advanced Science at Brandeis University, the staff members attend sessions at Northeastern University's Henderson House, Weston.

Participating also are Professor Francis L. Hurwitz, director of the Department of Community Services, Center for Continuing Education, Northeastern University; and Dr. Reuben J. Margolin, professor of social science at Northeastern.

Hub Getting Bigger Shipments of Wheat

The Massachusetts Port Authority announced that a million bushels of corn has moved from the Midwest into Boston grain elevators as the result of trade missions to Washington designed to win a greater share of grain shipments to foreign countries for the Port of Boston.

The Hoosac Grain Elevator in Charlestown and the East Boston Grain Elevator each have 500,000 bushels in storage. On route to Boston is a consignment of 800,000 bushels of spring wheat. Additional grain now stored in the Midwest is expected to be shipped through Boston, the port authority said.

152, to all persons to be employed under the contract, and sufficient proof of compliance with the foregoing stipulation will be required before commencing performance of the contract.

The general bids will be deemed to relate to that signed set of specifications for the project on file at the office of the Superintendent of School Buildings designated above and bidders will act at their own risk if any variance exists between the aforesaid set of specifications and the set (or sets) of plans and specifications furnished to the bidder by the Awarding Authority. In short, each bidder has the burden of checking to make certain that the set (or sets) of specifications furnished to the bidder is a true and complete copy of the set of specifications on file as aforesaid.

Specifications and other documents may be obtained at the office of the Awarding Authority.

A performance bond and also a labor and materials or payment bond, each of a surety company qualified to do business under the laws of the Commonwealth and satisfactory to the Awarding Authority and each in the sum of 100 per cent of the contract price, will be required of the successful general bidder.

The Awarding Authority reserves the right to waive any informalities and to reject any or all general bids if it be in the public interest so to do, in accordance with section 44D, chapter 149, of the General Laws, as amended.

Boston Bids to Bring World's Fair Here in 1975 Chicago, Philadelphia Also in Field

Boston is taking aim on landing the 1975 official World's Fair. An application for making the city the 1975 site has already been filed with the Bureau International d'Expositions in Paris.

Under the Bureau rules a country can be host to an official World's Fair only once every 10 years. A city desiring the role must have its application backed up by a formal request from the head of its national government that such a city be awarded the site. Seeking selection in the '70's, Philadelphia and Chicago have already put in their bids. Both desire it for 1976.

The authoritative Hotel and Restaurant News, published locally for more than 38 years, is keeping a close eye on developments. In its issue for the last week of June it directs attention to steps already taken to achieve the goal.

Here is part of the article it published:

Boston's bid to have an official World's Fair held in the Hub in 1975 continued to pick up steam and organizational strength a week ago when incorporation of the 1975 World Freedom Fair of Boston Inc., was achieved and directors and officers of the corporation elected.

Heading up the slate of officers who were chosen at a breakfast meeting held at the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce Building was Gilbert Hood. Mr. Hood, who is president of H. P. Hood & Sons was elected president of the corporation.

Other officers chosen were: treasurer, Ephron Catlin, Jr., vice-president of the First National Bank of Boston, and clerk, James G. Roberts, executive vice-president of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce. Sitting as a director of the corporation is Paul E. Landry, president of the City of Boston Hotel Association and vice-president, Parker House.

The proposed Boston's World Fair would coincide with the 200th anniversary of the Battle of Lexington, the battle that started the physical struggle of the thirteen colonies for independence.

The idea of a World's Fair in Boston was conceived last summer. The actual wheels began to roll last October when a study group was sent to the Seattle World's Fair to study the operation there and talk with officials responsible for the administration of the Fair. Mr. Hood, president of the Boston corporation, was on the study group that went to Seattle.

A month after that an informal committee was set up. After a series of several meetings, incorporation was completed on June 18 and the first formal meeting of the Board of Directors of the new corporation was held two days after that.

Under the general rules of the Bureau International d'Expositions, first consideration for official World Fairs is given to those countries which have a treaty with the Bureau stating that they will not exhibit in any fair not recognized as an official World's Fair.

The United States is not a signator to such a treaty. This could become an important point if there were to be another country seeking a World's Fair in 1975 for one of its cities and if this country had signed the above-mentioned treaty.

For a general exhibit of the first order, the Bureau will notify the recipient five years in advance of the Fair that it has been selected as the site.

CO-ORDINATOR—Officer Eugene Lee of the Boston police thinks a real athletic program and folks who understand youths offer tremendous value to the solution of the American "youth problem." He's working with Celtics stars, Sam Jones and Tom Sanders, in the newly organized Friendship Athletic League setup for boys of the Washington Park area, Roxbury.

Boston Big Gainer in $200 Million Government Center Investments

Net cost of the Government Center project will be approximately $38.5 million. Under federal law the city share is one third of this cost or $13.5 million. However, under state law, the city will receive back over a 20-year period one half of this cost. In addition Boston will receive $7 million. Federal credit for the parking garage and a $5 million federal credit for streets, utilities, and parks.

Boston's Government Center, with a total financial investment of almost $200 million, will bring some impressive benefits to the city. Here are some:

From a physical standpoint, the project will represent the highest standards of urban design and architectural quality and will unquestionably be one of the showplaces of Boston.

According to the Boston Redevelopment Authority yearly taxes on the new construction in the Government Center will exceed annual taxes derived from properties in the Old Scollay square by more than half a million dollars.

The new project will promote increased tourism and other public uses of such important national shrines as the Old State House and Faneuil Hall-Quincy Market.

An estimated 50 thousand people coming into the Center on daily business or as office workers should give a major economic boost to the city's major shopping and retail area centered on Washington and Tremont streets.

Boston's prestige as a thriving financial and commercial center will be revitalized by the new construction in the Government Center.

Tops in Air Cargoes Sent from Hub to Los Angeles

The Flying Tiger line claimed the top record for a freight load between Boston and Los Angeles on June 29, when one of its freight planes carried a cargo of 64,917 pounds across the continent.

The line claimed the shipment represented the largest cargo of air freight ever flown in the U. S. by a commercial airfreighter.

Lowell, Tax Rate Up $9.20, Eyes Hub Cut

Lowell's tax rate went up to $9.20 to a new record high of $94 per thousand of valuation this year. Announcement of the latest increase in a series of annual increases staggered taxpayers.

Boston, target of alarm viewers four or five years back when zooming tax rates came under scrutiny is being mentioned again as her sister municipalities in New England and through the nation struggle with jet-propelled taxes.

Previously, Boston was held up as an example not to follow. Now demands are made for explanations of "If Boston can cut its tax rates four years in a row, why do we have to stay on the tax escalator?"

U. S. Will Be Nation of 200 Million in '67

If the present rate of population growth in the United States continues through 1967, the Census Bureau figures the nation will hit the 200 million mark by the third week of September, 1967. Our population today is increasing at the rate of one million every 135 days.

Actually the rate of growth has slowed down a bit from that established in the period 1958-1961. During those three years the upward pace was listed at one million persons every 115 days, about 1.7 per cent per year. Presently the rate of growth is between 1.4 and 1.5 per cent. In the next few years, according to census experts, it is expected to rise again.

60-Year-Old Gardner Palace Still Holds Lure for Visitors to Boston

Holding its own as a tourist attraction this year is the so-called Mrs. Jack Gardner Palace in the Fenway. Indeed, an increase in the number of visitors helps to mirror the all-around increase of summer vacationists "looking over" Boston.

Sixty years ago it is unlikely that Mrs. John L. Gardner would have been able to foresee the lure of the Italian palace she built back at the turn of the century would increase year by year. The palace recently attracted the attention of Nelson Lansdale. He wrote about it and Mrs. Gardner for the second volume of "The American Heritage New Illustrated History of the United States."

Here's an interesting excerpt:

The climax of her career as an art collector and hostess was the opening of Fenway Court, the Italian palace she designed and built, on New Year's night in 1903. "She had bought the barren, swampy wasteland on which it stood in 1899, and if no woman of her time had a more lively flair for publicity, Mrs. Gardner (nee Belle Stewart) could be as discreet as Plymouth Rock when she wanted to keep a secret. Speculation mounted as her Renaissance palace took shape, but Belle gave no interviews, dispensed no information. Although she showed a few foreign friends like actress Ellen Terry, tragedian Henry Irving, and the Archbishop of Canterbury through the house before the opening, she wanted her big surprise to bowl Boston over. It did.

At 10.30 P.M., ablaze with her famous pearls and two huge diamonds set like the antennae of a butterfly in her hair, she stood atop a horseshoe-shaped staircase in the Music Room (afterward replaced by the Spanish Cloister). Muttering their protests but consumed with curiosity, 300 of her friends and enemies—the cream of Back Bay society—clambered up one staircase to greet their hostess and marched down the other. Fifty members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra under her friend Gericke played Bach, Mozart, Schumann, and Chausson for an hour as the suspense mounted. Finally, on cue, a mirrored door rolled back and the invited guests saw for the first time the three-storied courtyard, scented with tropical flowers, aglow with orange lanterns from Paris and thousands of candles, the fountains tinkling, nasturtiums trailing down from the eight balconies taken from the Can d'Oro in Venice. And beyond the orchids in the palm trees waited the old masters displayed in gallery after gallery on three floors.

The opening night was exactly what Belle intended it to be—breath-taking. Mrs. Jack had finally won the Battle of Boston; she had also pioneered in the creation of a new kind of museum in America. To posterity, of course, it is the museum and not the social triumph that matters."

New Lighting System for Common Studied

Steps to give Boston Common the best lighting—both from a standpoint of public safety and aesthetic appeal—are now under way under direction of Public Works Commissioner James W. Haley.

If you've noticed a variety of standards and lamps on the Common recently it's part of the experiment carried on to determine those best adapted to the area.

Says Commissioner Haley:

"For years public works has been in charge of illumination in the city's parks as well as in the streets. And for years we've been using the same types on streets and in the parks.

"We decided to try out standards and lamps that would be more efficient and more in keeping with the surroundings of parks. Manufacturers supplied, free of charge, the several types we are trying on the Common and we will decide what we consider the best."

"Firemen-of-the-Month" 3 Were Heroes Together

Continuing the Boston Fire Department's record for cool heroism, sound judgment, and timely action against all odds, three Boston fire fighters combined in the rescue of three children from a fast-spreading Roxbury tenement fire.

It was easy to pick all three for consideration in the monthly award of the Hearst papers of Boston. It was impossible to distinguish one hero above another. Accordingly, the Boston Fire Department Board of Merit had to settle for a "Three-Firemen-of-the-Month," instead of its usual "Fireman-of-the-Month" award.

Accordingly, the usual award was upped from $100 to $150 and the three heroes split it.

Cited by the Board of Merit were Lieut. Leo J. Fama, assigned to Engine 24, Warren and Quincy streets, Roxbury; Lieut. Warren A. Hardy of Ladder 23, Grove Hall, and Fire Fighter Henry W. Young, also of Engine 24.

Summed up by Commissioner Griffin, Chief John A. Martin, Deputy Chief John J. Breen, and District Chief Henry J. McCue, the citations were the result of a bad tenement fire at 404 Blue Hill avenue, Roxbury.

"Upon arrival at the scene," Commissioner Griffin noted, "the members were notified that children were trapped in a rear apartment on the second floor.

"Lieutenants Fama and Hardy, with Fire Fighter Young immediately groped their way through large volumes of black smoke and entered the apartment where they located three children trapped in a bedroom.

"Each member picked up a child and removed them to the street. These rescues were performed under very difficult conditions and before ventilation had been effected or water applied to the fire. Because they accomplished the rescue work at great risk to themselves and without regard to their own safety, I am pleased to commend them highly."

Proceedings of City Council.

Monday, June 10, 1963.

Regular meeting of the City Council held in the Council Chamber, City Hall, at 2 p.m., President HINES in the chair. Absent, Councillor Tierney.

The Right Reverend Christopher P. Griffin, chaplain of the City Council, was escorted to the rostrum.

INVOCATION BY THE RIGHT REVEREND CHRISTOPHER P. GRIFFIN.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

Eternal Father, bless us this day in the conduct of our duties. Bless the elected servants of this city, commissioned to carry out the great burden of business of its government. Especially this day we pray for the dedicated public servants who teach our children. Who in every level of education bring our young citizens to another class, another year, another graduation, in the unending search for truth. Spare we beseech Thee, O God, this city from the tragic heartbreaking calamity of race bitterness that has left other cities without peace, but with fear ever mounting. May all the children of this city be taught the love, the patience, the brotherhood, the sympathy so unforgettably exemplified by good Pope John. Help us all to stay close to Thee, our Father, and we shall never be very far from each other.

In the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost. Amen.

The meeting was opened with the salute to the Flag.

PRAYER IN MEMORY OF POPE JOHN.

Coun. PIEMONTE offered the following motion:

Moved, That we stand in a moment of silence in prayer led by the chaplain in memory of good Pope John, and that this meeting be dedicated to the works of the good Pope John.

The motion was carried.

URBAN RENEWAL PLAN FOR GOVERNMENT CENTER PROJECT AREA.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 5, 1963.
The Honorable City Council.
City of Boston.

Gentlemen:

On June 5, 1963, the Boston Redevelopment Authority approved an Urban Renewal Plan for the Government Center Project. This approval, together with the findings and determinations required under chapter 121 of the General Laws, was made by the Authority after consideration of the statements, views, and opinions expressed at a public hearing, held on April 17, 1963, by the Authority to consider the plan and the undertaking of an Urban Renewal Project in accordance therewith. At the public hearing many persons and organizations interested in the development of Boston came forward to express their support and endorsement of the plan proposals.

Pursuant to the provisions of said chapter 121 and the provisions of Title I of the Federal Housing Act, the Authority must secure approval of the plan by the City Council after due notice and a public hearing, which approval must include the findings required by federal law. Under federal requirements such notice should be published at least once a week for two successive weeks, with the first notice published not less than ten days prior to the date of the hearing.

Accordingly, the following documents are transmitted herewith for your consideration and appropriate action:

1. Proposed resolution for adoption by the City Council after due notice and public hearing.
2. Form of notice of such public hearing.
3. Urban Renewal Plan as approved by the Boston Redevelopment Authority on June 5.
4. Relocation program of the Authority.
5. Copies of the following resolutions adopted by the Authority:
 - (a) Resolution Finding That The Government Center Project Area Is A Decadent Area;
 - (b) Resolution Approving The Urban Renewal Plan.
6. Proposed cooperation agreement as approved by the Law Department and authorized for execution by the Authority.
7. Part I, Application for Loan and Grant.
8. Transient Housing Study.

In addition, the Government Center model will be available for examination at the public hearing.

As you know, the Government Center Project has been proceeding with so-called early land acquisition activities assisted by a loan for that purpose from the federal government. Most of the land area has been acquired and a substantial portion cleared, one parcel has been sold to the federal government and another parcel is under agreement for disposition to a private developer. Construction of the new MTA tunnel is proceeding at a rapid pace.

Approval of the Urban Renewal Plan by your Honorable Body and by the required federal and state officials will enable the Authority to proceed with the disposition of the rest of the project area including sites for the new City Hall and State Service Center, as well as several private sites, and will expedite completion of redevelopment of the Scollay Square area. I think we all realize the importance of this development to the regeneration of the downtown core.

The total cost of the project, including acquisition, administrative expenses, demolition, relocation, property management, site improvements, supporting facilities, and contingencies is estimated to be approximately $48,000,000. Land proceeds are estimated at just under $10,000,000. Thus, the net cost of the project will be approximately $38,000,000, of which two thirds will be paid by the federal government in the form of a capital grant, and one third by the locality in the form of so-called non-cash local grants-in-aid, consisting in this case of the proposed parking garage, MTA improvements, plaza, and street and highway adjustments. No direct cash expenditures by the city to the project are contemplated. The Authority is requesting a temporary loan of $37,447,000 from the federal government to defray project costs until the federal grant has been earned and all the land conveyed. This loan will, of course, pay off the early acquisition loan which is now outstanding for this project.

I know that you are as anxious as I am to see this project move forward as quickly as possible.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

RESOLUTION OF BOSTON CITY COUNCIL APPROVING URBAN RENEWAL PLAN AND FEASIBILITY OF RELOCATION FOR PROJECT NO. MASS. R-35.

Whereas, Under the provisions of Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, the Housing and Home Finance Administrator is authorized to provide financial assistance to Local Public Agencies for undertaking and carrying out urban renewal projects; and

Whereas, It is provided in such act that contracts for financial aid thereunder shall require that the Urban Renewal Plan for the respective project area be approved by the governing body of the locality in which the project is situated and that such approval include findings by the governing body that: (1) the financial aid to be provided in the contract is necessary to enable the project to be undertaken in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan; (2) the Urban Renewal Plan will afford maximum opportunity consistent with the sound needs of the locality as a whole, for the rehabilitation or redevelopment of the urban renewal area by private enterprise; (3) the Urban Renewal Plan conforms to a general plan for the development of the locality as a whole; and (4) the Urban Renewal Plan gives due consideration to the provision of adequate park and recreational areas and facilities, as may be desirable for neighborhood improvement, with special consideration for the health, safety, and welfare of children residing in the general vicinity of the site covered by the plan; and

Whereas, The Boston Redevelopment Authority (hereinafter called the "Authority") has entered into a planning contract and a temporary loan contract for financial assistance under such act with the United States of America, acting by and through the Housing and Home Finance Administrator, pursuant to which federal funds were provided for the urban renewal project (herein called the "Project") identified as "Government Center Project" and encompassing the area described in the attached Exhibit "A"; and

Whereas, The Authority has applied for additional financial assistance under such act and proposes to enter into an additional contract or contracts with the Housing and Home Finance Agency for the undertaking of, and for making available additional financial assistance for the project; and

Whereas, The Authority on September 15, 1961, entered into a temporary loan contract with the United States of America for the purpose of financing early land acquisition and related activities in the Government Center Urban Renewal Area pursuant to section 26P of chapter 121 of the Massachusetts General Laws; and

Whereas, The City of Boston acting by and through its Mayor with the approval of the City Council thereafter executed a covenant with the Authority whereby the City of Boston in accordance with the applicable law shall bear any and all loss that may arise as a result of such early land acquisition and related activities in the event that the land so acquired is not used for urban renewal purposes, because the Urban Renewal Plan for the Government Center Urban Renewal Area is not approved or is amended to omit such land or is abandoned for any reason; and

Whereas, The Authority with the consent of the City of Boston acting by and through the Mayor with the approval of the City Council has assigned any and all of its rights under said covenant to the United States of America; and

Whereas, The Authority has made detailed studies of the location, physical condition of structures, land use, environmental influences, and social, cultural, and economic conditions of the Project area and has determined that the area is a decadent area and that it is detrimental and a menace to the safety, health, and welfare of the inhabitants and users thereof and of the locality at large, because of the existence of obsolete buildings which are ill-adapted to contemporary use; conversions from residential to nonresidential uses; a high percentage of structures 100 or more years old; over 90 percent of the buildings in the area determined substandard on the basis of federal criteria; fire hazards caused by accumulation of combustible debris, unenclosed stairways and lack of fireproof construction as well as high building coverage, narrow streets and lack of off-street loading facilities which hamper effective fire fighting and make most of the area a congested value district as designated by the National Board of Fire Underwriters; vermin infestation in almost half of the structures in the area; exposed electrical wiring in about 62 percent of the structures; obsolete plumbing in at least 68 percent of the structures; improper toilet ventilation; and narrow and inadequate streets; and because buildings have been torn down and not replaced and which under existing conditions it is improbable it will be replaced by the ordinary operations of private enterprise; and because there have been substantial adverse changes in recent years in business and economic conditions in the area; and the members of this Governing Body have been fully apprised by the Authority and are aware of these facts and conditions; and

Whereas, There has been prepared and referred to the Boston City Council for review and approval an Urban Renewal Plan for the Project Area, dated April 3, 1963 (as revised May 29, 1963), and consisting of a title page, a table of contents, 56 pages of text, numbered 1 to 56, and 3 maps, adopted by the Authority on June 5, 1963, and submitted to the City Council by his Honor the Mayor; and

Whereas, The Mayor submitted to the City Council with the aforesaid Urban Renewal Plan but not as a part thereof the following supporting documentation: (1) Application for Loan and Grant; (2) appropriate resolutions of the Authority; (3) finding of decadence by the Authority, including statistical data used for the determination of same; (4) relocation status reports; (5) proposed co-operation agreement authorized for execution by the Authority; and (6) transient housing study; and

Whereas, A general plan has been prepared and is recognized and used as a guide for the general development of the locality as a whole; and

Whereas, The Authority which is the duly designated and official planning body for the locality, has found that said Urban Renewal Plan conforms to the said general plan for the locality as a whole, and the City Council has duly considered said finding; and

Whereas, Said Urban Renewal Plan for the project area prescribes certain land uses for the Project area and will require, among other things, changes in zoning, the vacating and removal of streets, alleys, and other public ways, the establishment of new street patterns, the location and relocation of sewer and water mains and other public facilities, and other public action; and

Whereas, The Authority has caused to be made a competent independent analysis of the local supply of hotel and other transient housing; and

Whereas, The Authority has prepared and submitted a program for the relocation of families displaced as a result of carrying out the Project in accordance with said Urban Renewal Plan; and

Whereas, There have also been presented to the Governing Body information and data respecting the relocation program which have been prepared by the Authority as a result of studies, surveys, and inspections in the project area and the assembling and analysis of the data and information obtained from such studies, surveys, and inspections; and

Whereas, A public hearing on said Urban Renewal Plan and Project was, after due notice thereof held on..... and all persons desiring to be heard on said Plan and Project were so heard; and

Whereas, The members of the City Council have carefully considered and reviewed the aforesaid Urban Renewal Plan and the aforesaid relocation program in the light of (1) the supporting documentation submitted therewith as aforesaid; (2) the proceedings at the aforesaid public hearing; and (3) the general knowledge of the City Councilors with respect to conditions prevailing in the project area and in the City of Boston as a whole; and

Whereas, The members of the City Council are cognizant of the conditions that are imposed in the undertaking and carrying out of urban renewal projects with federal financial assistance under Title I, including those prohibiting discrimination because of race, color, creed, or national origin; now, therefore, it is hereby ordered

1. That it is hereby found and determined that the Project area is a decadent area and qualifies as an eligible project area under Chapter 121 of the General Laws.

2. That said Urban Renewal Plan for the Project aforementioned, having been duly reviewed and considered, is hereby approved and the Clerk is hereby directed to file said copy of said Urban Renewal Plan with the minutes of this meeting.

3. That it is hereby found and determined that said Urban Renewal Plan for the Project area conforms to said general plan of the locality.

4. That it is hereby found and determined that the financial aid provided and to be provided pursuant to said contracts for federal financial assistance pertaining to the Project is necessary to enable the Project to be undertaken in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan for the Project area.

5. That it is hereby found and determined that the above-mentioned Urban Renewal Plan for the Urban Renewal area will afford maximum opportunity, consistent with the sound needs of the locality as a whole, for the urban renewal of such areas by private enterprise.

6. That it is hereby found and determined that the Urban Renewal Plan for the Urban Renewal area gives due consideration to the provision of adequate park and recreational areas and facilities, as may be desirable for neighborhood improvement, with special consideration for the health, safety, and welfare of children residing in the general vicinity of the site covered by the Plan.

7. That it is hereby found and determined, as a result of a competent independent analysis of the local supply of transient housing, that there exists in the area a need for additional units of such housing.

8. That it is hereby found and determined that the program for the proper relocation of the families displaced in carrying out the Project in decent, safe, and sanitary dwellings in conformity with acceptable standards is feasible and is being reasonably and timely effected to permit the proper prosecution and completion of the Project; and that such dwellings or dwelling units available or to be made available to such displaced families are at least equal in number to the number of displaced families, are not generally less desirable in regard to public utilities and public and commercial facilities than the dwellings of the displaced families in the Project area, are available at rents or prices within the financial means of the displaced families, and are reasonably accessible to their places of employment.

9. That in order to implement and facilitate the effectuation of the Urban Renewal Plan hereby approved it is found and determined that certain official action must be taken by this Body with reference, among other things, to changes in zoning, the vacating and removal of streets, alleys, and other public ways, the establishment of new street patterns, the location and relocation of sewer and water mains and other public facilities, and other public action, and accordingly, this Body hereby: (a) pledges its cooperation in helping to carry out such Urban Renewal Plan; (b) requests the various officials, departments, boards and agencies of the Locality having administrative responsibilities in the premises likewise to cooperate to such end and to exercise their respective functions and powers in a manner consistent with said Urban Renewal Plan; (c) stands ready to consider and take appropriate action upon proposals and measures designed to effectuate said Urban Renewal Plan; and (d) authorizes the Mayor of the City of Boston to execute and deliver in the name and behalf of the city the cooperation agreement as approved by the Authority and presented to this meeting.

10. That additional financial assistance under the provisions of Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended, is necessary to enable the land in the Project area to be renewed in accordance with the Urban Renewal Plan for the Project area and, accordingly, the filing by the Authority of an application or applications for such financial assistance under said Title I is hereby approved.

LEAVE OF ABSENCE TO CERTAIN UNION EMPLOYEES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 10, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

This communication is occasioned by chapter 233 of the Acts of 1963 entitled "An Act Permitting Time Off Without Loss of Pay for Employees in Cities and Towns to Attend Union Conventions" and amending chapter 40 of the General Laws by inserting a new section 21C providing that "An employee of a city or town which accepts this section may be granted a leave of absence with pay while attending a convention of an employee union as an officer, delegate or alternate delegate."

It is my understanding that it has been the practice for many years for department heads to grant leave of absence without loss of pay in such cases. Now that a statute covering the subject has been enacted, it is dubious whether this practice can continue if the statute is not accepted.

Accordingly, I recommend adoption of the order transmitted herewith as soon after July 7, 1963 (the effective date of chapter 233), as conveniently may be.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Ordered, That section 21C of chapter 40 of the General Laws, inserted by chapter 233 of the Acts of 1963 entitled "An Act Permitting Time Off Without Loss of Pay for Employees in Cities and Towns to Attend Union Conventions," be, and hereby is, accepted.

On motion of Councillor Piemonte the rules were suspended and the order was passed.

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, June 5, 1963.
Honorable Boston City Council.
Gentlemen:

I am pleased to transmit herewith a report on the progress under the Workable Program for Community Improvement of the City of Boston.

The Workable Program is a requirement of the federal government by which a city endeavors to show that it is doing its full share of the effort to prevent the spread of blight.

I commend this document to you for your review and consideration. I believe that our city has made substantial strides forward in our efforts to rebuild and renew Boston so that it can become a better and finer place to live.

The material in the Workable Program is divided into seven (7) areas. These include Codes and Ordinances, Comprehensive Planning, Neighborhood Analysis, Administrative Organization, Financing, Housing for Displaced Families, and Citizen Participation.

In all these areas Boston has achieved a record of which we can all be proud. The citizen participation, in particular, in connection with our development program is without parallel in our city's modern history. As Mayor I wish to congratulate the many hundreds of men and women who have given so freely of their time and energies in this common cause of preserving and renewing our city. The details of our record of progress in each of the seven areas are set forth in the document itself. I urge your favorable consideration so that the Workable Program may be recertified for the coming year.

Sincerely,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Chief Martin Leaves Rich Legacy of Inspiring Service His Stamina and Courage Lauded By Mayor

Fire Chief John A. Martin, who vowed he'd place the Boston Fire Department among the nation's best when he took over the job and achieved his objective with room to spare, died July 13 at City Hospital.

He was 69. He served the department for nearly 45 years, entering it as private at the age of 25.

Death followed an extended period of uncertain health during which he often spurned the advice of his physicians to carry on.

He was a native of Roxbury and attended Dorchester High School. He rose to the rank of uniformed head of the department step-by-step and was quickly recognized not alone within the ranks of his own department but by firefighters outside as a born fireman.

He served in many stations through the city during his career and was never content with just "going along with the everyday job." He sought to perfect himself and at the same time to perfect his department.

When he was called upon to take over the chief's post on the retirement of the late Chief Leo C. Driscoll he brought a wealth of knowledge and ideas to the job. At the time he was sworn he took occasion to observe that for many years the Boston department was recognized as one of the nation's consistently outstanding firefighting forces. He announced he planned to restore it to its former rank.

Among those who quickly noted he did just that was Fire Commissioner Thomas Griffin. "We are once again the best fire department in the country and the credit belongs to Chief Martin who was a firefighters' chief," said the commissioner.

Chief Martin not alone commanded the respect of his men. He was able to command also a talent for organization and beyond that an ability to inspire.

With little fanfare but a lot of know-how he introduced many progressive ideas into the department. He initiated its firefighting force of skin divers and he brought close to perfection the idea of team play and close communication.

Twice within a few weeks recently his department attracted national attention when it handled with superb skill two early morning hotel fires both of which carried the potential of levying a toll of many lives. In each instance many of the possible victims saved by his men were from distant points from Boston.

The first fire involved the road company of a top musical show. The second involved the entire playing roster of the Los Angeles Angels, along with their complement of West Coast sports writers. Each fire made the front pages of papers across the nation—not because the great toll it had exacted but because of the great skill and speed of the Boston Fire Department in action.

Chief Martin took it all in stride. He sought to give credit where credit was due. He was lavish in his praise of the men who risked their lives to carry out rescues; to the teams who, in the first fire, had lifted such an array of ladders that astounded observers. Beyond that he directed attention to the cooperation his department had received from the police.

A year ago all of Charlestown was threatened with a general alarm fire which raged through buildings on the edge of the Boston & Maine yards. Chief Martin was injured in the early stages of that battle.

He waved aside advice that he go to the hospital for treatment. For 48 hours he re-

Col. Cass Memory Honored at Statue

The memory of Colonel Thomas Cass, organizer of Boston's famed 9th Regiment and a hero of the Civil War, was honored on July 12 with services at the Cass Memorial on the Boylston Street Mall of the Public Garden. The date marked the 101st anniversary of Colonel Cass' death, as well as the 65th anniversary of the surrender of Santiago in the Spanish-American War.

The exercises were jointly sponsored by the Cass Memorial Committee, Michael J. Perkins Post, A.L., and Company A, 101st Infantry.

Colonel Cass died from wounds received in the Battle of Malvern Hill, Virginia. His home was at 14 North Bennet street, North End, now the site of a Franciscan monastery.

The photographs were made for the express purpose of showing at the Boston Library. The gesture is in keeping with the "People to People Program" begun in 1958. Under the program Boston and Kyoto became "sister cities."

The photographs will be a gift from the Camera Club of Kyoto to the Camera Club of Boston. The Boston group will, in turn, present a collection of one hundred photographs to their Kyoto counterparts later this year. These photographs, too, will be shown in a Central Library exhibit, probably in November. In each case, the subjects will be largely scenes in or around the respective sister cities.

A delegation of officials, businessmen, and cultural representatives from Kyoto visited Boston, including the Central Library building, in June of 1959; the visit is to be returned by a similar party from Boston.

So far as is known, this will be the first international "Sister City" exchange of this particular kind that has ever been made. It is expected that Mayor Collins will attend the official opening of the exhibit.

The August exhibit will reflect the exceptional beauty of Kyoto, famous for its temples, shrines, palaces, and museums, and its manufactures of silk, jewelry, cloisonné enamel, porcelain, lacquer, and other art goods. It was the city's role as a leading cultural center that made Kyoto and Boston logical partners in the "People to People Program." The capital of Japan from 794 to 1868, Kyoto's art treasures, historic sites and buildings, and universities make it a mecca both for the Japanese themselves and for visitors to Japan.

President of the Boston Camera Club is Professor Homer C. Littlefield of Northeastern University. Mr. Alexander W. Hutchinson, Assistant Vice-President of the First National Bank of Boston, is Chairman of the Club's Exhibition Committee. Headquarters of the Boston Camera Club are at 351A Newbury Street, Boston.

maintained on the scene. Not until the threat was completely blotted out did he permit himself to be taken to City Hospital.

He was one of the first firefighters on the scene on the night of November 20, 1942, when the Coconut Grove disaster was visited on Boston. He was part of the first rescue group to gain entrance to the cauldron.

He made his home with Mrs. Martin at 183 Milton street, Dorchester.

Besides her he leaves a son, John, Jr., of Hingham, a daughter, Mrs. Roger Shea of Dorchester, and 12 grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Tuesday, July 16, with a solemn requiem Mass at St. Brendan's Church, Gallivan Boulevard, Dorchester. Attending were city and state officials, fire chiefs and firefighters from many cities and towns in New England, headed by Mayor Collins.

Members of the Department Rifle Honor Guard and the Underwater Recovery team, acted as escorts in the cortege. Off-duty members of the department attended in a body.

Pallbearers were Deputy Chief Richard A. Ash, District Chiefs Joseph L. Dolan and Edmund J. Sheehan, Captain Vincent J. Miller, Chief's Aides Walter A. Sullivan, John J. Doucette and James D. Ford, and Joseph A. Wall of the Maintenance Department.

Ushers at the church were Assistant Chief John F. Howard, Deputy Chiefs Edward J. Gaughan, John J. Ryan, Frederick P. Clauss, and John J. Crehan. Acting Chief William A. Terrenzi was in overall charge of the details, under Fire Commissioner Griffin.

Chief Edward D. Campbell was in charge of the funeral detail and Assistant Chief John E. Clougherty was in charge of assembling the visiting fire chiefs and firefighters.

Mayor Hails Chief as Brave and Outstanding

Here is Mayor Collins' tribute to the late Fire Chief John A. Martin:

"The entire City of Boston has lost one of its outstanding friends and protectors. For more than 45 years, Chief Martin was ever on the alert guarding the lives and property of our people.

"His bravery, his devotion to duty and the affection in which he was held by all who knew him are an inspiration to us all. He was a firefighter in the noblest tradition of that valiant group of men.

"We salute his memory as we mourn his death, and we pray that his family may be consoled in their great loss."

The Mayor ordered that flags at all municipal buildings be carried at half-staff in joining with the fire department in its loss.

Bastille Day in Hub

Boston observed "Bastille Day" on July 14 with a day-long program, highlighted by a reception at the French Consulate, 3 Commonwealth avenue. Ceremonies got under way at 10 A.M., with the placing of a wreath at the La Fayette Monument on the Common.

It's an 8-Pound Boy For the Blackburns!

Cigars and frequent visits to the Richardson House during off-duty hours were the order of the day for busy Dr. Robert O. Blackburn, former senior executive assistant at City Hospital and presently physician for employees' health services, last week.

At the Richardson House, Mrs. Blackburn became the mother of a fine eight-pound boy who called for the latest catalogues for Medical Schools after greeting New Boston with a whoop.

Library Installs Quick Photocopying Service

With the installation of "Docu-stat" coin-operated instant photocopying machines, a new service will become available to patrons of the Central Library and the downtown Kirstein Business Branch, beginning July 1.

The machine is simple to operate. You place the material you want to have copied on the machine, insert a 25-cent coin, press a button, and within 30 seconds you have a clear, sharp, negative copy on good paper. For a second quarter you can have a positive just as easily.

The new service will meet a need that has been urgently felt by students, researchers, businessmen, and others. The Central Library's first instant photocopier will be located in the Periodical Reference Room of the Periodical and Newspaper Department.

Franklin Park Clubhouse Becomes Outstanding Public Facility

The Franklin Park golf course, oldest public links in the nation and one of the first to prove the English and Scots didn't have exclusive rights to pursue a little ball uphill and downdale, is taking a long stride forward in the enhancement of its reputation this summer.

Within a few days work gets under way on the construction of an addition to its clubhouse designed to make it one of the best public owned in the nation. Among the first to recognize that the present clubhouse was inadequate to meet the demand the Franklin Park course has been building over the years, sport-minded Mayor Collins ordered a step-up in facilities.

The Mayor, who takes as much delight in a long drive that finds rest near the next green as the most rabid devotee anywhere, refused to go on deploring the tight fit of the present clubhouse. He demanded and got action.

The result is a "Go ahead!" signal for the building of a clubhouse addition more in keeping with the appeal the Franklin Park course has attained in recent years.

The addition will add 2,000 square feet of floor space to the existing structure. A covered porch 500 square feet in area will also be provided. The addition will contain a spacious lounge and snack room, finished in knotty pine, and a seating capacity for 60.

A serving counter for ice cream and light snacks is also included in the plans with sanitary facilities for men and women as well as a small men's shower. Nor is air-conditioning, a sine qua non for even the golfer's clubhouse these days, overlooked. Plans call for a complete air-conditioning and heating plant to serve the entire structure.

The entire plan is in keeping with the architectural features of the building located at the first tee of the course. The addition will be "L-shaped."

The Hartstone Construction Corporation, 5 Maywood street, Roxbury, as lowest bidder for the project among six, have agreed to do the work at a cost of $62,470.

Not a cent of the cost will come from city funds and not a cent will be reflected in the tax rate.

The appropriation is made possible from the income of the George F. Parkman Fund and will in a way offer a further monument to the memory of that benefactor who left $5 million to the city with the provision that interest be devoted to the improvement and maintenance of the park system.

The course itself was opened for the 1963 summer season a few days back for the Boston Traveler's Publinx Golf League. The Franklin Park defending champions led by Tom Hart met the D. W. Field entry from Brockton, with Park and Recreation Commissioner Martin Walsh driving out the first ball. He was assisted by Franklin Park pro, Charley Molloy, and League President Jack Edwards. The day's marshal was Bobby Woodward. The host team got away to a running start on the Publinx crown by winning rather handily.

Summer Traffic Peril Greatest for Children

"The remainder of July and the month of August are particularly dangerous for children on Massachusetts streets and highways," Registrar James R. Lawton points out.

"Last year," he declares, "records tell us the shocking fact that 12 preschool age children were killed and 900 injured during the July-August period. These children practically babies, 4 years old or less, have lost their lives because of lack of supervision or inattention by those responsible for their safety. In the schoolage groups, children between the ages of 5 and 14, four were killed and 2,054 injured."

"In this motorized age, children must not be allowed to play or roam on busy highways," Mr. Lawton continued. "There is a critical need for added vigilance on the part of parents and guardians to recognize this danger and to pay closer attention to the activities of their youngsters. Boys and girls must be supervised at all times by some responsible adult."

Women's Federation Aids North End Project

The Massachusetts State Federation of Women's Clubs has presented a check for $1,000 to help in the restoration of the Clough-Langdon House at the Old North Church. The check, representing donations collected from the Cape to the Berkshires, was presented to Rev. Howard R. Kellett, vicar of the historic church.

The Clough-Langdon House was built in 1715, making it older than the nearby edifice itself. Its builder was Ebenezer Clough who also built Old North. The Rev. Kellett in accepting the check said, "Restoration of the Clough-Langdon House will provide a home that is valuable historically and architecturally and at the same time the project will serve to beautify the adjoining church grounds."

Maine figures its gross income from the tourist industry is around $300 million a year.

W. A. Terrenzi Named B.F.D.'s Acting Chief

Assistant Fire Chief William A. Terrenzi was named temporary chief of the Boston Fire Department by Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin following the death of Fire Chief John A. Martin.

A daughter is the wife of District Chief George Paul.

PENAL INSTITUTIONS DEPARTMENT. OVERHEAD LIGHTING

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Permission is respectfully requested to dispense with a public solicitation for proposals in the City Record and to amend the $15,990 contract, dated March 8, 1963, by and between the City of Boston, acting by its Penal Institutions Commissioner, and Overhead Line Construction Company, Inc., the low bidder following public advertising, for overhead lighting and distribution at the House of Correction, Deer Island, to provide for the performance of certain extra work as described below.

During the progress of the work involved in the above-noted project, the linemen reported that in climbing poles 2-3 and 2-4 and as shown on contract Drawing Z-1, dated October 8, 1962, they discovered that these poles were soft and deteriorated. Test holes were then made in these poles which showed conclusively that the interiors of the poles were decayed and that the poles should be replaced. This condition was not apparent from the outer appearance of the poles, and the duty of replacing them was therefor not included in the specifications of the contract, as advertised.

Pole 2-3 is an individual pole, but pole 2-4 is one pole of a two-pole H-frame transformer installation. To replace pole 2-4, therefore, will require considerable work and while work is being done on this H-frame installation; it is most desirable that the second pole of the installation also be replaced and that the H-frame structure be rewired. The poles in question were set in 1947.

The contractor has submitted a proposal in the amount of $2,850 for performing this work, which I consider fair and reasonable for the labor and material included in this proposed additional work.

It is urged, therefore, that your Honor's permission be granted to dispense with public advertising since it is felt in this instance that advertising would not inure to the benefit of the city, and amend the subject contract in the amount of not to exceed $2,850 to cover the cost of and to provide for the carrying out of, the added work, as described above, thereby making the new contract sum in the amount of $18,840.

Very truly yours,
JOSEPH V. MCBRINE,
Penal Institutions Commissioner.

PUBLIC WORKS DEPARTMENT. REPLACE OBSOLETE WESTINGHOUSE SAR BRAKES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Your permission is requested to dispense with public advertising and award a contract to the Westinghouse Electric Corporation, 10 High street, Boston, Mass., to replace the existing obsolete Westinghouse SAR brakes and rectifiers by furnishing and installing six Westinghouse TM magnetic brakes and six rectifiers on the cranes in the South Bay incinerator.

There has been considerable crane operating time lost at the incinerator due to failure of the existing brakes which, due to their design, are difficult to maintain and repair. Westinghouse Corporation has discontinued the manufacture of this brake. The proposed brakes are of a more rugged design and all parts are easily accessible for repair or replacement. It is therefore advisable to replace the present obsolete brakes in the interest of plant operating efficiency.

The Westinghouse Electric Corporation proposes to replace the existing brakes and rectifiers at a discount from the list price of 73.5 percent. The proposed contract would be in the amount of $5,018 for parts and $600 for installation costs, for a total contract amount not to exceed $5,618.

Respectfully submitted,
JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Connecticut abandoned its original form of county government in 1959 and then transferred to itself the greatly restricted powers of its latter-day counties on October 1, 1960.

July 1, 1963, to March 31, 1964, inclusive, and the approximate total amount will be $3,000, less 2 percent, 15 days.

By awarding the contract as requested, it is my opinion that the best interests of the city will be served.

Respectfully yours,
MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

HOSPITAL DEPARTMENT.

ALTERATIONS, KITCHEN AND DINING HALL

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

After public advertising, on October 3, 1962, a contract in the sum of $199,711 previously amended to $207,553.33 was entered into by the Board of Trustees in charge of the Hospital Department and M. Solimando, Inc., 584 Columbia road, Dorchester, Mass., providing for alterations to kitchen and dining hall, Boston City Hospital.

Your authorization is respectfully requested to dispense with the customary public advertising at this time, and to further amend the aforesaid contract in a sum not to exceed $4,658.49 to cover the cost of work over and above that encompassed by the contract but which is both needed and directly related to the subject project. The proposed cost of the added work which will consist of fabricating and installing No. 16 galvanized stainless steel No. 4 finish panel over service opening in dining room to dishwashing room; relocating water, vent, and roofdrain piping exposed when walls were removed at location of new ovens; testing existing gas piping in kitchen area and removing and plugging leaking gas piping; furnishing and installing materials necessary for work to be done in dishwashing room and at the stainless steel counters around ovens, is in the opinion of the Board of Trustees both fair and reasonable.

The new contract price as a result of the proposed amendment will become $212,211.82.

Respectfully yours,
BOARD OF TRUSTEES IN CHARGE OF THE
By WILLIAM H. ELLIS, JR.,
President.

liam T. Currier, Jr., Stephen C. DeLosh, Edmund H. Kasianowicz, and Lewis G. McConkey of District 9 are hereby commended for meritorious police duty.

On Tuesday, June 20, 1963, a complaint was received from a 60-year-old woman that her handbag, containing cash, jewelry, and personal papers, was snatched from her hand as she descended from an MTA bus in the Roxbury district.

Sergeant-Detective Ingenere and the above-named officers, after questioning many suspects, arrested three youths on suspicion of having committed this larceny.

As a result of subsequent investigation and expert interrogation, the arrested youths admitted having committed a series of crimes which included 17 cases of breaking into business establishments and 46 cases of larceny of automobiles in various sections of the city.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the diligence and thoroughness with which these officers carried out this investigation which resulted in the apprehension of this youthful gang of criminals and solving an extensive series of crimes.

BCH Chosen for Child Endocrine Studies Lab by National Foundation

Dr. Robert Klein of Boston City Hospital and the Boston University School of Nursing has been awarded a grant of $14,000 for one year for the establishment of a pediatric endocrine and metabolic laboratory at the hospital.

The grant has been made by the Medical Foundation, Inc.

Children react quite differently from adults with the same disease. Laboratory tests require more than simply scaling down adult measurements and standards. A pediatric laboratory, where examinations are "for children only," contributes special insight into the diagnosis and treatment of diseases of youngsters.

Modified skills and techniques are required to obtain and analyze the minute samples from children. Some laboratory tests are more important for children than adults. A separate set of normal standards is often needed for children.

Incorporating this new facility into the regular pediatric service allows children with diabetes and metabolic endocrine diseases to get laboratory evaluations at one location. Pediatricians, alert to the relation of the effects of growth to illness, utilize the laboratory findings in prescribing their treatment. Better care for the patient can be achieved in this manner.

The Foundation grant helped the laboratory get started. Dr. Klein's expectation that a variety of research activities would be stimulated by this new setting has already been realized in the form of several grants.

FOUNDATION GRANT—Dr. Robert Klein of City Hospital who has been awarded a $14,000 grant by the Medical Foundation, Inc., to establish a pediatric endocrine and metabolic laboratory.

Greatly Improved Vacation and Overtime Announced

Mayor John F. Collins announced two improvements in working conditions for city employees.

The first change concerns a new vacation schedule, effective in 1964. Under the plan employees with five years or more service will receive three weeks paid vacation. Employees with ten years or more service will receive four weeks paid vacation. Formerly, employees had to serve ten years before receiving three weeks vacation and twenty years before receiving four weeks.

The Mayor said that he has consulted with Police Commissioner

Edmund McNamara and Fire Commissioner Thomas Griffin, and both commissioners are expected to promulgate the same plan through orders.

The Mayor also said he expects county officials to adopt the same plan for county employees.

At the same time Mayor Collins said he has ordered a change made in executive orders covering overtime pay. Under the old plan the maximum rate for overtime pay was $4 per hour. The new plan increases the maximum to $5 per hour.

FBI Reports Crime Rise Nationwide in '62

According to the FBI's annual Uniform Crime Reports for 1962 serious crime in the United States again reached an all-time high during that year with a 6 per cent increase over 1961. United States Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy released figures made available by FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover which show that increases were recorded in all Crime Index categories with the exception of murder which registered a slight drop of 2 per cent from 1961.

Mr. Hoover stated that for the first time the estimated number of serious offenses known to police passed the two million mark with a total of 2,048,370 crimes of murder, forcible rape, robbery, aggravated assault, burglary, larceny $50 and over and auto theft. Increases were distributed among all American cities when grouped by population size and ranged from 5 per cent in cities of 100,000 to 250,000 population to 11 per cent in cities inhabited by 500,000 to 1,000,000 individuals. Mr. Hoover said the metropolitan counties surrounding the large cities had similar increases whereas the rural counties reported a decrease in the over-all crime picture. All geographic regions had increases led by the Northeastern and Western states, each with a 9 per cent rise.

Earhart Jet Center Dedicated at Logan

Northeast Airlines dedicated its Amelia Earhart Jet Overhaul Center in memory of the pioneer woman flyer July 25 at Logan International Airport. Miss Earhart was founder of the line.

The jet center is a multimillion-dollar complex where the line's 31-plane fleet undergoes maintenance and overhaul.

James J. Higgins, who served the Boston Fire Department for more than 40 years, died July 17 at his home 11 Cookson terrace, Mattapan. The retired firefighter was 81.

He was born in Iowa and made his home in Mattapan for 56 years. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and a member of the Roger Wolcott Post, S.W.V. Services were held at St. Angela's Church, Mattapan.

Billy Day, Who Made Silver Threads Seem Gold, to Retire

Billy Day, who has played the role of "Mr. Golden Age" for more than a dozen years is retiring this month. Billy hits the 70 mark this summer and he admits the strenuous years during which he has been making Boston's older folk forget the burden of their years are beginning to tell.

Esplanade Concerts End Excellent Season

When an audience of 16,000 finished an extra long and appreciative applause and the musicians packed their instruments into their cases and headed home on the night of July 20, another Esplanade Concert season closed. Most acclaimed the 1963 series the best ever in the 35-year-old history of these distinctive concerts.

The program, initiated by Conductor Arthur Fiedler on July 14, 1927, with members of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, has proved itself one of the most popular summer attractions. Today it is a rich Boston tradition.

Four members who played in the orchestra Saturday night were in the original Esplanade Concert. The Symphony players began rehearsing for the concert season at the Berkshire Music Shed in Lenox at the conclusion of the Esplanade season.

Edward M. Sullivan

Members of the bar and judiciary, city, state, and county officials attended services for Edward M. Sullivan, Assistant District Attorney and former Boston School Committeeman. He died July 15 at Veterans' Hospital, Jamaica Plain. Funeral services were held July 18 with a solemn requiem Mass at Blessed Sacrament Church, Jamaica Plain.

He was 66, and a graduate of Boston College and Boston University Law School. He made his home at 490 Centre street, Jamaica Plain. He was associated with the Suffolk District Attorney's office for 30 years.

Back in 1950 he took over the task of bringing sunshine into the lives of those he came to call the "tee-age" group—(Sixtee, Seventee, Eightee, and Ninetee). It was a rigorous schedule. He got up impromptu parties and planned parties. He arranged outings and get-togethers for every season of the year. He got seats at the ball games and he had the oldsters making like kids when he persuaded managers to lend him their bowling alleys for a day.

During the years he has operated on a slim budget. Yet, he was able to get some pretty good entertainers. However, the top entertainer at any show arranged by Billy Day—was Billy Day himself, on popular demand. He was always the big hero of his "tee-agers."

Billy is a throwback—a throwback to the days when vaudeville was the top form of American entertainment. He could sing and he could dance. He could play the piano and he could plug a song. And he retains his talents to this day. Back in his heyday he hit just about every U.S. and Canadian vaudeville circuit in existence and they always wanted him back season after season.

He was just emerging from his teens when Boston and its environs went crazy back in 1914. That's the year the Braves found themselves resting at the bottom of the National League standing on July 4. That's the year a whip-snapping Georgian named George Stallings parlayed a combination made up of of the likes of Johnny Evers, Rabbit Maranville, and a pitching staff entitled Dick Rudolph, Bill James, and Lefty Tyler.

That's the year the Braves swooshed like a skyrocket out of last place on Independence Day and landed on the roof in October, to the dismay and horror of John McGraw and his New York Giants. That's the year the Braves went on to achieve a four-straight world series victory over the "unbeatable" Philadelphia Athletics of Connie Mack.

Such achievement had to be put into song and dance and Billy Day turned out to be their boy. The Braves had to borrow Fenway Park for the latter days of that season. The old Walpole Street grounds was far too old, too inadequate, and too dull a setting for such a historic troupe. Braves Field existed only on the drawing board.

On the roof of the "home dug-out" at Fenway, Billy Day—a kid with a lot of talent put into song and dance steps the heart of a populace gone mad.

If they've produced a song hit in the intervening half century that Billy Day couldn't remember and translate into entertainment for an audience it was something that never got beyond the tepees of the Southwest Indian tribes.

He's earned a seat in the audience with his beloved "tee-agers." It's a cinch they won't let him stay there, though. Every once in a while someone's going to demand—"Get up and give us 'Tessie' again, Billy."

Swiss Elect Boston for Gift of Geneva Flower Clock Replica

Ever heard of the Flower Clock that thrills you every time you look to see what time it is? If any of your European-vacationing friends happened to include Geneva, Switzerland, in their itinerary this summer ask them about it.

And Boston's getting an exact replica of the famed horticultural chronometer!

The other day two former Boston men, E. Wallace Lawrence, 3d, a B. U. alumnus, and Alvin I. Rudnick, formerly of Brookline, now American representatives of Federation Horlogere Suisse in New York, walked in on Mayor Collins.

With them came the model of the Geneva clock. The watchmakers

Hub Business Pulse Healthy During May

May was a good month for business in the Greater Boston area reports Research Director Thomas L. McGrath of the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

The business activity index for the month showed May reached a level of 15.3 per cent above normal and a gain of 1.2 per cent over April. It was the highest recording since November, 1962.

The economic vitality of the component series, including department store sales, total production hours worked, bank debits and other employment, during May advanced the index to its impressive level.

In the employment sector the first increase since September of 1962 was recorded in the total production worker category, McGrath said.

"In May the national rate of unemployment stood at 5.9 per cent, while Greater Boston recorded only 4.1 per cent unemployed. The Boston metropolitan area with this low rate displayed a better utilization of its labor force and was able to maintain its steady upward economic growth pattern," he said.

of Switzerland are making a presentation of an exact replica of the real thing to the Hub. It will be ready for dedication, it is expected, some time in September.

The clock is 26 feet in diameter. Its hands—hour, minute, and second—revolve around a huge floral design in which the numbers are marked out in flowers and shrubs. The face of the horticultural timepiece will be laid flat on a 30-degree angle slope.

The mechanism is contained in a steel, waterproof, shock-proof cabinet all encased in a concrete block underground.

Rain would not damage it, although extremely heavy snow might slow down its electronically-operated mechanism. A remote control box permits the setting of the eye-pleasing time-teller.

The Mayor has not definitely decided where to locate the clock. The Public Garden and Boston Common offer logical sites, he admits, but also there's a chance it might wind up in front of the new City Hall.

The Parks and Recreation Department and the Art Commission would have the job of deciding the floral arrangements. San Francisco which has one of the unique chronometers changes the floral arrangement twice a year. The original in Geneva gets new floral treatment four times a year, with the change of each season.

Mayor Collins was extremely pleased with the gift. He has had something similar in mind ever since he was told about a flower clock in Edinburgh, Scotland. However, engineers found a similar installation here would cost around $10,000.

After hearing of that price for a clock the Mayor filed the idea away in the back of his mind. The arrival of the two ex-local men with the model and the gift announcement pleased the Mayor no end.

"This gift, I assure you, comes to me and the people of Boston as a delightful and beautiful surprise," he told them.

Say Auto Excise Backlog To Be Sharply Cut

Massachusetts cities and towns can expect windfall gains and savings of several millions of dollars through the use of the new computers at the Registry of Motor Vehicles which more quickly forward automobile excise tax bills to local communities, Registrar of Motor Vehicles James R. Lawton said recently.

By September of this year, communities will be receiving excise tax bills each month for vehicles registered in the previous month. No longer will bills be running as much as 14 months behind, as under the old manual system.

Registrar Lawton outlined these highlights of savings expected for cities and towns under the new billing system:—

Saving in clerical cost, $1.5 million.

Saving through quicker billing, from $3 to $15 million.

More than 12.5 million dollars of automobile excise tax bills for 1963 have been sent out to Massachusetts cities and towns by the Registry of Motor Vehicles as of this date, July 18. The first bills left the Registry on June 24.

The 12.5 million dollars worth of bills represent 300,000 tax bills, almost 20 per cent of the number of January 1, 1963, registrations in the state.

Under present production schedules, 500,000 more tax bills will be produced during the next two weeks, with a daily quota of these bills being forwarded to all local communities. Included in this 500,000 will be 250,000 commercial registrations.

The total value of these 500,000 tax bills will produce 35 million dollars in excise revenue.

By the end of July, total billings will amount to 47.5 million dollars, almost 50 per cent of the expected 1963 revenue of 100 million dollars from this source produced for Massachusetts cities and towns.

By mid-August the number of bills sent out for that date under the old system will have been reached.

Do Paperbacks Have More Appeal Than Hard Covers?

Does a book with a paperback have more appeal for young readers than its kin in hard covers? The Boston Public Library has launched an experiment to find out. Last week in 10 of its 26 branches the BPL potential readers were given a choice.

Identical collections of one hundred titles each will be available for borrowing, or browsing, on free standing, rotating racks.

Hub Housing Authority Grants Wage Hikes

Boston Housing Authority recently completed negotiations for new contracts with members of building trades and all other maintenance classifications in both state and federally-aided housing developments of the Boston Housing Authority, it was announced by Chairman Edward D. Hassan.

The new contract, effective immediately and retroactive to March 26, was signed formally on July 24. The average increase in wages amounts to 22 cents per hour or $457 yearly.

The unions affected are the Boston Carpenters' District Council, AFL-CIO, unincorporated of Boston and Vicinity; Local Union 537 of the Pipefitters and Apprentices of Boston and Vicinity, AFL-CIO; Boston Cement Masons and Asphalt Layers Union Local 534, AFL-CIO; Local 103, Electrical Workers of Boston and Vicinity, IBEW; Glaziers Local Union 1044 of Boston and Vicinity, AFL-CIO; Painters District Council 35 of Boston and Vicinity, AFL-CIO; Boston Plumbers and Gasfitters Union, Local 12 of Boston and Vicinity, AFL-CIO; Boston Plasterers Union Local 10, AFL-CIO; Bricklayers Benevolent and Protective Union, Local 3 of Boston and Vicinity, and Firemen and Oilers Union Local 3.

Approximately 470 employees will benefit from the wage increase. It is estimated that the payroll payments to employees will be increased $215,000 annually.

Chosen by the Library's Readers Advisor for Young Adults, the paperback titles are intended to stimulate good readers and slow-starters alike. Almost all of the books were written with adult readers in mind. There are 47 works of nonfiction ranging widely in such fields as war, biography, science, true adventure, drama and humor, and 53 works of fiction.

The paperbacks represent a supplement to the regular collections of the Library; they are no substitutes or replacements for the hard-cover editions.

The paperback experiment will be tried at the following branch libraries:

Charlestown, Parker Hill, Dorchester (Fields Corner), Mt. Pleasant (Roxbury), Mattapan, Connolly (Jamaica Plain), South Boston, Brighton, Washington Village, Roslindale.

Museum Hails Boston Top Medical Center

Boston's place as a world leader in medicine is emphasized in an exhibit at the Boston Museum of Science.

A series of seven large panels produced and sponsored by the John Hancock Mutual Life Insurance Company, pays tribute to what is Boston's third largest industry. Depicting the latest advances in medicine, surgery research, education, and care of the sick, Greater Boston's 97 hospitals, three medical schools, and 26 schools of nursing are cited.

Photographs show some of the latest techniques and equipment used in New England Hospitals and on-the-spot scenes in some of Boston's most renowned hospitals and medical schools.

The exhibit may be seen daily except Mondays in the Museum's second floor Pierce Hall of Medical Science. It will be shown through January 7, 1964.

Top Teenage Drivers to Share $1,000 Prizes

United States Government Bonds worth $1,000 will be awarded to eight teenage drivers in Massachusetts, this summer.

The prizes for "Safe and Courteous Driving" will be given away by the Massachusetts Citizens Organization for Highway Accident-Prevention, Inc., in cooperation with the Registry of Motor Vehicles and the Massachusetts State Police.

President A. C. Rome of the Massachusetts Citizens Organization for Highway Accident-Prevention, Inc., will serve as one of the judges for the contest, along with Registrar of Motor Vehicles James R. Lawton, and Commissioner of Public Safety Frank Giles.

The contest will be held during the months of July and August, and the first nine days of September. Nominations for the awards will be made by Registry Examiners and Registry Investigators, and members of the State Police.

The two top prizes, $200 United States Government Bond, will be awarded to one girl driver and one boy driver. The next six winners will each receive one $100 United States Government Bond.

Nominations for the contest will close September 9. All Examiners and Investigators of the Registry and all members of the State Police have been alerted to the contest now in progress, and their nominations for safe teenage driving are now being received.

Eva B. Ammidown

Miss Eva B. Ammidown, 84, retired Boston school teacher, died July 17, at Buzzards Bay. She had served as a biology teacher in Boston schools and Boston Teachers College for nearly 50 years. Her assignments included the old Charlestown and West Roxbury High Schools.

She made her home in Buzzards Bay following her retirement in 1949. Funeral services were held July 20 at the Folsom Funeral Chapel, Belgrade avenue, Roslindale.

C of C Opposes Small Bloc Veto Powers

Rejection of a legislative proposal which would permit voters in a ward or precinct to block urban renewal projects has been asked by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

General James McCormack, Chamber president, in a letter to members of the Senate Ways and Means Committee of the Massachusetts Legislature, expressed concern over the "politically destructive effect" on urban renewal and development if the measure is enacted.

The proposal would permit blockage of land taking by eminent domain for renewal projects in ward or precinct-size areas by voter-residents, he asserted.

McCormack said the bill would affect every city and town in the state "which is attempting by means of urban renewal, to increase its tax base, generate jobs, lessen the deleterious effect of blight and its accompanying threat to public health, the crime rate and other factors."

"Urban renewal," wrote McCormack, "would presumably eventually move forward toward its goal for the need is so great and so apparent. But delay will be piled upon delay. And the cost of such projects will be enormously increased. Moreover, it is to be seriously doubted whether such a law could survive the careful scrutiny of our courts. We urge rejection of the proposal."

Prudential Pay Hikes for 750 in Hub Area

The Prudential Insurance Company recently announced that effective July 15 it was granting a raise to 23,000 office workers in the United States and Canada. About 750 workers in the Boston area will receive the hike ranging from $3 to $5 for those employees earning less than $213 a week.

The last general increase for Prudential workers was given in November, 1961.

Castle Island to Get Face-Lift by MDC

An improvement program calling for the expenditure of $400,000 at Castle Island, South Boston, has been announced by the Metropolitan District Commission. The program calls for construction of a new fishing pier, repair of the road leading to the island, sanding and expansion of the beach and construction of bathhouses.

Fort Independence, acquired by the MDC from the General Services Administration last fall, is due for a refurbishing, but it will not be opened to the public until the completion of work in the spring.

Mayor OK's Mission Hill 13-Story Project

Mayor Collins has given the final "go-ahead" signal for construction of the 13-story, 144-apartment building in the Mission Hill district of Roxbury. Construction of the $3.5 million project slated for the Whitney development area is scheduled to get under way within two months. Completion is expected next summer.

The structure will be erected under direction of Back Bay Towers, Inc., whose president, Frederick J. Mahoney, declares the structure will "enhance and sustain Mission Hill's unique character as a residential area."

Eleanor M. Ryan

Miss Eleanor M. Ryan of Dorchester, a teacher at Dorchester High School for Girls for 34 years, died suddenly recently at Bath, Maine.

Until her retirement in 1959 she was principal instructor of business courses at the Dorchester school.

Funeral services were held at St. Gregory Church, Dorchester.

Miss Ryan leaves a sister, Mrs. Fred Acorn of Quincy, and a brother, Professor James D. Ryan, dean of mathematics at Boston State Teachers College.

Kinnaly's 45 Years Noted by Congress

Eugene T. "Gene" Kinnaly, administrative assistant to House Speaker John W. McCormack, observed his 45th year as a congressional secretary, July 18. The 74-year-old widower heard himself eulogized on the floor of the House in a spontaneous tribute to his long service.

He went to Washington in 1918 as secretary to the late James A. Gallivan. When Congressman McCormack succeeded to the post at the death of Gallivan in 1928 he persuaded "Gene" to remain as his secretary.

NATIONAL TUBERCULOSIS CONVENTION, DENVER, COLORADO, MAY 11 TO 15, 1963.

On May 11, the annual seminar of the Nursing Advisory Service of the National Tuberculosis Association and the National League of Nursing was held.

The main feature of this meeting was detailed discussion of the nature of airborne infection by Dr. Riley of Johns Hopkins University.

Dr. Riley discussed the fact that present studies indicate that airborne infection of droplet nuclei may be the most significant factor in the spread of contagious disease. In view of this information he felt that many present practices of isolation technique should be revised. Many of the nurses present were working in the hospital situation and they discussed the advisability of use of caps and masks and other elaborate isolation techniques. Dr. Riley felt that this theory had application in the public health situation, particularly in the clinic area where many tuberculosis patients are active and are not receiving the benefit of hospital treatment and medication. He stressed the importance of open windows to keep the air circulating in rooms. He also felt that the use of ultraviolet lights is indicated in this area. Much interesting discussion followed this presentation.

This theory was discussed again during the meeting of the National Tuberculosis Association. Opening sessions of the meetings of the National Tuberculosis Association were concerned with a brief review of tuberculosis as a disease cause, transmission, etc. There was much discussion on the methods for the eradication of tuberculosis. Various members of health agencies throughout the country spoke of what they were doing to meet the recommendations of the Arden House Conference.

The second part of the program was concerned with the respiratory diseases.

This was centered around the new program of the National Tuberculosis Association to detect cases of chronic respiratory disease. There was a discussion of the nature and symptoms of emphysema. Some communities have been conducting case-finding programs. Results have not been too good, however, because of the large percentage of false negatives in these programs. It was felt that much revision had to be done on these programs to make them more effective.

There was one afternoon of discussion about smoking. There was a general review of the facts about smoking. Indications are that there is an increase in lung cancer and chronic respiratory disease among smokers. Here again, the National Tuberculosis Association is interested in sponsoring programs to present these facts to the public. Main emphasis is in school areas before boys and girls begin to smoke. Some communities had representatives who discussed the kind of program they were using.

The last discussion which I attended was on the school health program. Here great emphasis was placed on health education in the schools.

Respectfully submitted,

BARBARA A. DOHERTY.

One of the major discussions of the convention, especially as applied to nursing technique and procedure, was the environmental control of airborne infections. It was repeatedly emphasized that the droplet nuclei of the tubercle bacillus remained suspended in the air until sufficiently diluted by fresh air currents. Therefore, it was considered important that in areas where this source of infection could be found, proper air ventilation was of paramount importance. This was especially true of such areas as a tuberculosis clinic, where groups of tuberculosis patients might be expected to remain from periods of two to three hours. The method of choice was irradiation of the air by means of ultraviolet lights, installed at properly designated points. If this method was found to be too costly, then the simple measure of opening windows and insuring correct cross-air currents was advised. Air conditioning was not advised or recommended for purposes of environmental control.

There was some discussion relating to a Prophylactic Chemotherapy Program. The consensus of opinion seemed to be that isoniazid should be given more frequently and for longer periods of time. For instance, the use of isoniazid for a negative reactor in a family of several positive reactors. Also, the use of isoniazid in the last trimester of pregnancy for an inactive tuberculosis patient, as well as during any periods of stress and strain encountered by an inactive, post-chemotherapy, tuberculosis patient.

concerned with the medical problems and implications of pulmonary emphysema and cancer of the lungs. Of course the danger involved from heavy smoking was stressed and outlined. New programs are being instituted in various grade schools throughout the country to acquaint school children with the health hazards involved in cigarette smoking. A closer and more efficacious relationship between school personnel and the health team was described and recommended.

These were some of the subjects presented for discussion at the National Tuberculosis Convention in Denver, Colorado, in 1963.

Respectfully submitted,

EVELYN P. HAYES, R.N.

The Tuberculosis Association's Annual Convention was held in Denver, Colorado, from May 11 to May 15, 1963.

The areas which I found to be most beneficial were those concerned with airborne infection and the eradication and elimination of tuberculosis.

Dr. Riley, from Baltimore, discussed the dissemination of upper respiratory illness, especially, tuberculosis, through the airborne tubercle bacilli. The fact that those microscopic bacilli are floating constantly on air currents and do not settle out of the atmosphere has made us all aware of the importance of proper ventilation, especially in all clinical areas. Other methods of control are:

1. Ultraviolet light, which controls the number of nuclei in the upper air currents.
2. The basic good health practice of covering the mouth when coughing. (This simple practice traps the droplets and stops the nuclei at its source.)

These factors hold a great deal of interest for me as the Puritan Inhalator is to be used to obtain sputum specimens from clinic patients, and control of these airborne particles in this setting will be of utmost importance.

Programming for eradication of the disease was discussed. Three areas were felt to be of importance. They were as follows:

1. TREATMENT — This was felt to consist of lifetime follow-up of acute cases.
2. CASE FINDING — Which would include follow-up of all contacts, evaluation of all positive reactors, prompt follow-up of all abnormal chest X rays, and other forms of tuberculosis.
3. EVALUATION OF PROGRAM — There should be a periodic evaluation of program to see that it is meeting the needs of the community.

Tuberculin testing was thought to be the best guide to a community's tuberculosis problem. Not only were children to be considered for medical evaluation upon having a positive reaction but, also, adults who have a reaction of 15 mm. induration. These individuals should have INH therapy for a period of two years — the same as the children. It is also important to check up on all contacts to these positive reactors. If within this group, negative reactors with a high degree of exposure to positive reactors are found, then, these patients should be started on INH therapy. The negative reactor, however, should have the tuberculin test repeated in three months. If at this time, the test is still negative, and the contact has been broken, then medication could be discontinued.

It was suggested that tuberculin testing programs should not only be carried on in schools, but should also be instituted in industry and on all hospital admissions. If this type of testing program was established, then a reactor register would become necessary so that follow-up could be carried out.

In regard to inactive cases of tuberculosis, it was felt that those patients who had not had medication in the past, should be brought back and placed on chemotherapy. This group could become a reservoir of active disease, due to the fact that the older people grow, the greater the possibility of relapse. Other factors that could bring about reactivation, are emotional tension and anxiety. During periods of crises, INH therapy could be used to prevent this reactivation.

The establishment of nursing priorities for tuberculosis follow-up must be determined according to the policies of the individual health department, and on present scientific knowledge.

Priorities for nursing service were suggested as follows:

1. Newly diagnosed cases and contacts.
2. Patients with active disease.
3. Positive bacteriology.
4. Hospital discharges.
5. Suspects.

Inactive cases and patients attending clinic regularly, and on medication, do not need top priority. The status of the patient and problems within the situation are the determining factors in setting priorities.

Respectfully submitted,

DAURICE R. FARRELL.

HON. JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor of Boston.

DEAR SIR:

Kindly accept my sincere thanks for granting me the privilege of attending the annual meeting of the American College of Chest Physicians in Atlantic City, New Jersey.

As I am the member of the Committee on Tuberculosis for the Northeastern part of the country I attended that meeting. Here we had a thorough discussion of the subject of tuberculosis with special reference to the public health aspects stressing our policy formation for a future onslaught against this disease. With that in mind, and realizing that there would have to be a smaller group to work together to establish these new policies, a subcommittee was appointed by Major General Carl W. Tempel, chairman of the Committee on Tuberculosis. This meeting took place the day prior to the start of the scientific sessions. I was appointed to this subcommittee.

In addition to the above, I attended daily round-table luncheon conferences and scientific sessions from 8.30 A.M. until 5 P.M. I feel that I came away with a great deal that should help improve our present study and care of the people of this city.

Thank you very much for your kindness.

Sincerely yours,

H. ALLAN NOVACK, M.D.

HON. JOHN F. COLLINS,
Mayor of Boston

DEAR SIR:

I left Boston by automobile for Atlantic City, June 14, 1963, to attend the National Conference on Disaster Medical Care on June 15, 1963, and the Convention of the American Medical Association, June 16 through June 20, 1963.

Saturday, June 15, 1963, from 9 A.M. to 5 P.M., meetings covering all the medical aspects of Civil Defense were conducted. The speakers included many military and civilian experts in all fields.

Sunday registration for the A. M. A. Convention was accomplished and the exhibits visited. Sunday evening a very excellent meeting on Religion in Medicine was attended. Bishop Fulton J. Sheen and Dr. Reynerhaus presented very entertaining and impressive discussions of the subject.

The general scientific meetings began Monday, June 17, 1963, and continued through Thursday, June 20, 1963. I attended meetings in various medical fields which were related to Preventive Medicine and Public Health.

I feel that my attendance at this conference on Disaster Medical Care and the Medical convention was of great benefit to me as Director, Local Health Service, Boston Health Department.

JOHN B. LYNCH, M.D.,
Director.

V. HIGH COMMENDATION.

At 8.41 A.M., June 21, 1963, the department responded to an alarm from Box 1541 for a fire in the apartment building at 6 Dartmouth street, Boston. The fire was in a bedroom on the top floor, and upon arrival of Engine 22 and Ladder 13, members were informed that two children were trapped in a room to the rear of the room involved in fire.

Fire Fighters Frederick J. Gottwald of Engine 22 and John D. Sheehan of Ladder 3, detailed to Ladder 13, raced upstairs to the top floor, crawled through a long narrow hallway, through the room involved in fire, to the rear room where they found two children in a bed, both of whom were unconscious. Fire Fighters Gottwald and Sheehan carried the children through the fire room, along a hallway which was heavily charged with smoke and intense heat, to the stairway, at which point they administered mouth to mouth resuscitation to both children. Upon arrival at the street level, members of Engine Company 7 administered oxygen to the children who were taken to the Boston City Hospital.

Fire Fighters Gottwald and Sheehan performed this rescue work under most difficult conditions before charged lines were in position, or ventilation had been effected. Both fire fighters suffered burns of hands and faces and were given first aid at the scene.

Because Fire Fighters Gottwald and Sheehan performed this rescue work at great risk to themselves and without any regard for their own safety, the Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend them highly, and their cases are referred to the Board of Merit for further consideration.

VI. COMMENDATION.

District Fire Chief William C. Jeffers of District 6 is hereby commended for responding to and working at fire, Box 715 (three alarms), on July 3, 1963, while off duty.

VII. NEW ASSIGNMENT CARDS.

New assignment cards for the following fire alarm boxes are being distributed to the department today: 2274, 3441, 3614.

July 17.

General Order No. 24.

JOHN A. MARTIN.

It is with deep regret that I announce the death of our beloved chief, John A. Martin, on July 13, 1963. I would like to make these comments in general orders of the department so that future members and historians of the Boston Fire Department may know of the deep affection and respect we had for Chief Martin.

He was appointed to the department on December 14, 1917; promoted to fire lieutenant on February 16, 1934; to fire captain, January 29, 1941; to district fire chief, July 13, 1949; to superintendent of maintenance, May 31, 1950, and to chief of department, February 1, 1960.

He was a courageous and dedicated leader, confident and calm in major emergencies, a faithful protector of citizens of this city. As chief of department he worked untiringly to improve conditions in the department. We are all proud of the Underwater Recovery Team (the Martinauts) which he formed and started a new idea in fighting fires under piers. He also formed the Rifle Honor Guard, a team well organized and impressive which represents the department at public functions.

As the years go by, I think we will all remember him best for his deep concern for all fire fighters, from privates to chief officers. His casual, unaffected, humble manner made it possible for all members to come to him with their cares and troubles, and he helped solve them in so many ways and on so many occasions.

Our sincere sympathy goes to his family, and we mourn with them in the loss of some one so close to all of us. The outstanding representation of fire fighters at the funeral services will, I am sure, confirm our sentiments. We not only have lost a great chief, but I, as commissioner, have lost a dear, personal friend.

July 23.

General Order No. 25.

I. RETIREMENTS.

The following retirement, in accordance with section 5, chapter 32 of the General Laws, as amended, which will become effective at 8 A.M., Thursday, August 1, 1963, is hereby announced:

Fire Fighter (Motor Apparatus Engineer) David I. Driscoll, 74 Harriet street, Brighton, Maintenance Division.

The following retirements, in accordance with section 7, chapter 32 of the General Laws, as amended, which will become effective at 8 A.M., Thursday, August 1, 1963, are hereby announced:

Fire Lieutenant Andrew F. Collins, 39 Bullard street, Dorchester, Fire Prevention Division.

Fire Fighter Charles J. Jacobson, 130 Stratton street, Dorchester, Ladder Company 14.

Fire Lieutenant Collins was appointed to the department on May 20, 1942, and was promoted to the grade of fire lieutenant on February 5, 1947. Motor Apparatus Engineer Driscoll was appointed to the department on July 16, 1937, and Fire Fighter Jacobson was appointed to the department on January 21, 1948.

All of the foregoing-named members leave the department with the best wishes of their associates.

II. CORRECTION IN GENERAL ORDERS, No. 22.

In Section V, High Commendation, Paragraph 2, of General Orders, No. 22, dated July 9, 1963, the name of Fire Fighter Frederick J. Gottwald should be changed to George J. Gottwald.

III. COMMENDATION.

The Fire Commissioner is pleased to commend the members of Engine Companies 1, 3, 7 and Ladder Companies 3 and 20 for outstanding performance of duty during the five-alarm fire at Box 7261 on July 16, 1963. These were the first companies to go into action at the foregoing fire, which was an inferno when they arrived at the scene. There is no doubt that the stand made by the members of these companies prevented a holocaust in the heavily populated tenement area by quickly pouring water on the fire and holding their positions under a terrific volume of flame, smoke, and heat.

Personnel Order No. 181.

The following detail is hereby ordered to take effect at 7.45 o'clock A.M., Thursday, July 18, 1963, for duty until further orders:

Patrolman William I. Joyce, from District 16 to Criminal Investigation Division (Vice Control).

July 22.

Personnel Order No. 182.

Sergeant-Detective Arthur S. Pugsley, Detectives Alan J. Crisp, John T. Carter, John E. Norton, James E. Troy, Edward H. Donovan, Charles W. Miller, and

Patrolman Philip Doherty of the Criminal Investigation Division are hereby commended for the performance of outstanding police work.

On April 10 a Boston bank was robbed of $5,000 by three men, one of whom was armed. They fled the scene in a stolen automobile operated by a fourth man. On May 2 a Savings and Loan Association in Dorchester was robbed of $3,500 by three men, one of whom was armed. They left the scene in a stolen automobile. On May 23 another Boston bank was robbed of $10,000 by three men, one of whom was armed. They left the scene in a stolen automobile.

As a result of information received the officers started a search for a man operating an automobile, registration unknown. On May 25 the officers stopped a car in Roxbury and questioned the operator, one Franklin J. Fortes. He was arrested on suspicion of larceny of a motor vehicle. A search of the car uncovered a new set of registration plates for a motorcycle and a certificate of registration in the name of Richard Sweezy, also a letter from William Junkins to Fortes. Investigation revealed that Sweezy and Junkins had records and answered the descriptions of the men wanted for the bank robberies.

Later that day, armed with a search warrant, officers went to the home of Richard Sweezy and searched for the stolen money. None was found but Sweezy was arrested on suspicion of armed robbery. The following day the home of William Junkins was searched without results but the officers learned that one Douglas Murray was a close friend of Junkins. On the same day officers searched the home of Murray and found burned papers among which was a piece of a ten-dollar bill.

During the interrogation of Fortes and Sweezy both denied any part in the holdups but Sweezy was identified by an employee of one of the banks. Eventually Sweezy admitted his part in the holdup of another bank.

On May 29 officers arrested John J. R. Young on suspicion of armed robbery of one of the banks. Partial identification was made at the lineup and Young admitted his participation in the holdup.

On June 3 evidence was presented to the Suffolk County grand jury and indictments were returned against all five defendants and warrants for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution were granted against Junkins and Murray.

On June 19 as the result of information obtained by the FBI, officers went to Lewiston, Maine, and with the assistance of local police and FBI agents located Murray and Junkins and arrested them without a struggle. Both defendants waived rendition and were returned to Boston.

The defendants were arraigned in Suffolk Superior Court and were held in $50,000 bail and are presently awaiting trial.

The Police Commissioner is pleased to recognize the diligence and perseverance displayed by these officers in the apprehension of these criminals.

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 44, section 33B, it is recommended that this transfer of available funds be authorized for this purpose.

I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

Hon. John F. Collins,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Sir:

At its meeting of May 28, 1963, the School Committee voted to reduce the appropriation for Alterations and Repair of School Buildings in the amount of $200,000—from $2,000,000 to $1,800,000. At the same time, the School Committee voted to request of the Mayor and City Council an additional sum of $200,000 for General School Purposes.

The School Committee respectfully requests your Honor to recommend to the City Council to appropriate the additional sum of $200,000 for General School Purposes.

Respectfully submitted,

APPROPRIATION FOR SALARY INCREASES FOR INTERNS AT BOSTON CITY HOSPITAL.

The following was received:

City of Boston,

Office of the Mayor, June 24, 1963.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am transmitting herewith a communication from the Supervisor of Budgets dated June 21, 1963, pertaining to salary increases for interns at the Boston City Hospital.

It is my belief that the compensation presently paid house officers at the Boston City Hospital must be updated to keep pace with other hospitals in the Boston area. I am therefore submitting for approval by your Honorable Body an appropriation order to allow a revised salary schedule to become effective July 1, 1963.

I respectfully recommend the adoption of the accompanying order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston.

June 21, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

I have received from the Trustees of the Boston City Hospital a schedule of salary increases as recommended by that Board.

This schedule as presented by the Trustees suggests an increase effective July 1, 1963, with a subsequent second upgrading as of July 1, 1964. This proposal appears consistent with suggested compensation plans by other hospital facilities in the Boston area.

The cost of implementation of this program for the balance of 1963 will be $180,000 which is available in the Excess and Deficiency Account of the City Treasury.

Respectfully,

HENRY T. BRENNAN,
Supervisor of Budgets.

Ordered, That the sum of one hundred eighty thousand ($180,000) dollars be, and hereby is, appropriated from the Excess and Deficiency Account of the General Treasury for the purpose of implementing a salary increase for house officers at the Boston City Hospital effective July 1, 1963.

Item 10. Permanent employees..... $180,000

Referred to the Committee on Appropriations and Finance.

To the City Council.

Gentlemen:

I am enclosing herewith a communication from the Boston Redevelopment Authority requesting an additional appropriation to defray the remaining costs of the Whitney Redevelopment Project.

Pursuant to the provisions of the Cooperation Agreement of November 25, 1959, the City of Boston is obligated to meet this additional expense.

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 598 of the Acts of 1958 the City of Boston reserved certain funds representing proceeds from the sale of the Sumner Tunnel. These funds could only be appropriated for a purpose or purposes for which the city is authorized to incur debt outside its debt limit for a period of twenty years or more. The Whitney Redevelopment Project meets the specific requirements of this special act.

I am therefore submitting herewith an order for the appropriation of $355,000 from available funds in the Sumner Tunnel Receipts Account to meet the additional cost to the city of the Whitney Redevelopment Project.

I respectfully request the adoption of this order by your Honorable Body.

Respectfully,

JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

Boston Redevelopment Authority.

May 22, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,

Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mayor Collins:

At the regular meeting of the Authority of May 15, 1963, it was unanimously voted to requisition an additional $355,000 from the City of Boston in order to defray the remaining project costs and to complete the Whitney Redevelopment Project.

This requisition is made pursuant to section 3 of the Cooperation Agreement executed on the twenty-fifth day of November, 1959, by and between the Authority and the City of Boston, which stipulated that the City of Boston would upon demand pay to the Authority such additional amounts as needed for the completion of this project.

The principal reason for the additional cash requirement at this time is the fact that real estate acquisition costs, including litigated land damage cases, exceeded acquisition estimates made in 1958 and 1959, which were based on appraisals made at that time.

The delay in the development of Parcels 2 and 3 of the Whitney Project has been unavoidable, as you know, because of the opposition against the high-rise building planned by the officials of the Mission Church and the Mission Hill Neighborhood Group. I am pleased to report, however, that after several months of negotiations between the developers and the church and local groups in the area, a compromise has been tentatively reached, the details of which will be worked out very shortly, providing for the construction of a medium high-rise building in the vicinity of twelve stories in height on the parcel abutting Tremont street and providing for the construction, in the middle parcel, of approximately fifty to sixty garden-type low-rise housing as a cooperative development.

Sincerely,

RT. REV. MSGR. FRANCIS J. LALLY,

Chairman.

Ordered, That the sum of three hundred fifty-five thousand ($355,000) dollars be, and hereby is, appropriated from the Sumner Traffic Tunnel Receipts Account to meet the additional cost to the city of the Whitney Redevelopment Project as agreed upon between the City of Boston and the Boston Redevelopment Authority under date of November 25, 1959.

Boston Redevelopment Authority, Whitney Redevelopment Project.....$355,000

Dorchester Given Big Lift by First National Bank's Decision Electronics Center to Be World's Best

Mayor Collins Meets Teachers from Eire

A delegation made up of 30 Irish teachers dropped in on Boston for a five-day stay during their current tour of the U. S. The teachers, who conduct primary, secondary, and vocational classes back home are taking a look at American educational methods as well as doing a bit of plain and fancy touring. They are guests jointly of our State Department and the Irish government.

Stops here included calls on Mayor Collins and the Columban Fathers in Milton. A tour included a trip to Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The tour started July 7 and ends August 21, after stopovers in New York, Virginia and Washington, where they hope to meet the President.

Houghton Dutton Store Brings City a Million

The so-called Old Houghton and Dutton Building at Tremont and Beacon streets was sold by the city July 17 to Isadore Wasserman of Newton for $1 million. Wasserman was the only bidder for the property. He and his brother, Oscar, represented State Properties, Inc., 501 Washington street.

The one-time department store went back on the tax rolls as soon as the sale was completed. It had been owned by the city since 1941 when it was taken over in lieu of tax defaults. The city tried and failed to sell it last year at a knockdown price of $1½ million.

Dorchester will become the top modern electronic bank processing center of the world with the completion of the $2 million facility of the First National Bank of Boston, late next year or early in 1965.

The bank—one of the nation's oldest, with links dating back to Colonial Days, the development of the clipper ships, and the founding of the New England textile industry—announced its choice of Dorchester at a recent dramatic meeting in the office of Mayor John F. Collins.

The Mayor hailed its decision as an eloquent and powerful expression of confidence in New Boston and its future.

Dorchester was chosen for the site after a survey extending over a long period and after extensive study on its capacity to serve through many decades ahead.

Mayor Collins and Board Chairman Lloyd D. Brace of the bank made the joint announcement of the bank's decision to build and the selection of Dorchester as the site at a meeting in the Mayor's City Hall office.

Senior Vice-President William F. Keesler of the bank told a news conference assembled for the occasion that the development of the center at this time was based on its confidence in the present administration of the city's affairs.

"Mayor Collins has stabilized the tax rate," said the vice-president. "He has created new jobs and new industry for the city and the economic forecast for Boston is bright and healthy. It is our intention to make this the most efficient and up-to-date data-processing installation in American banking."

Electronics Center . . .

The $2 million construction cost does not include the vast and complicated electronic equipment installations.

"In the past," said Chairman Brace "the range of banking activities has been so stable that it was relatively a simple matter to anticipate one's needs five and ten years ahead. Today, the banking business stands on a new threshold of expansion and innovation in the services it offers. Such activities as deposit accounting for corresponding banks and payroll accounting for business are but forerunners of this."

Mayor Collins was tremendously pleased by the latest development in the flowering of the New Boston.

"This," declared his Honor, "is another stone in the foundation of New Boston. When an institution of the caliber of the First National Bank of Boston puts a major installation of such proportions in an area like that around Columbia Circle, it is certain to have a most profound and beneficial effect on the entire area."

Under a single roof, the center will contain electronic advances undreamed less than a decade back. At the outset the center will be staffed by 500 persons. One of the most pleasing initial by-products of construction on a six-acre tract off the Southeast Expressway at the junction of Morrissey Boulevard and Mt. Vernon street will be the very definite contribution it will make to the revitalization and upgrading of the entire area.

The First National Bank of Boston has been a pioneer in the use of electronic equipment in the field of banking. For years it has been active in adapting to the vast and complicated field of bank accounting the laboratory developments of swift, highly accurate electronic brains.

The Boston bank is one of the top banking institutions of the world. It serves not only Boston and New England but has branches and close ties with banking centers all over the globe. It has long been a leading international banking institution.

Why was Dorchester chosen? First, Dorchester was recognized as one of Boston's most vital areas. Again, it offered an urban-suburban atmosphere that was coupled with swift accessibility to the entire metropolitan area. Space was ample. There was plenty of room for parking facilities. An MTA transit station was close by.

Many features, unknown in previous construction projects will be incorporated in the center. First of all, there will be the huge air-conditioned plant which will serve it. To establish and maintain temperature and humidity conditions to precise levels insuring proper functioning of the delicate equipment some 500 tons of air conditioning will be required. This is 50 per cent more than that needed for a normal office building of comparable size. Even the elimination of all airborne dust particles will be a consideration of engineers to prevent malfunctioning of the electronic equipment.

Campbell and Aldrich are the architects. The engineering firm is that of Charles T. Main, Inc.

Royal Thai Pair to See Boston, Aug. 4-7

Thailand's Prince Dhaninivat and his sister, Princess Sibhan, will pay Boston a visit August 4-7. The Hub visit will conclude a U. S. tour which began in San Francisco July 21. The royal party reach here by Eastern Airlines and will stay at the Ritz-Carlton. They will visit the Museum of Fine Arts August 5 and that night will be guests of Thai Consul Kerry R. Lyne and Mrs. Lyne.

On August 6, the Prince will visit Mt. Auburn Hospital, where his brother, King Phumipol Adulyadej, was born. He will be given a reception at Harvard University after a tour of the college. They will leave for London August 7 at 8.30 P.M.

The Prince has acted as regent of the kingdom on several occasions and is one of Thailand's most revered figures. In the party will be Pacha Osthonond, first secretary of the Thai Embassy, and Cecil Stamford of the State Department.

U. S. on the Move

William L. Slayton of the U. S. Urban Renewal Commission believes that in the next decade about a million American families will be displaced in urban renewal projects and 15,000 more per year in road construction work.

He predicted a large proportion would provide a stimulus for new home building by turning to new homes.

Ships Crowd Castle Island Port Business Jumps

Boston seaport activities took a real jump during the week of July 14 as world imports for New England manufacturers hit a seasonal peak.

Freighters steamed into the Castle Island docks with half a million feet of lumber from the Pacific Coast; tons of nails, shoes, and novelties from Japan; 5.5 million feet of lumber from British Columbia; rubber, wool, and pineapple from Africa, and thousands of wool pelts from Australia.

Great Work of Five Companies in Big South Boston Fire Lauded

For another gallant display of cool heroism and self-sacrifice on the part of individuals and units of the Boston Fire Department, Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin lauded members of Engines 1, 3 and 7, and Ladder Companies 3 and 20, recently.

Members of the units were commended for "outstanding performance of duty" in the five-alarm fire at the Daniel Russell Boiler Works, South Boston, July 16.

This is how Frank Mahoney, the Boston Globe's expert staff man who has covered a lot of big fires in his day, reported the blaze in his paper on the morning of July 17:

"A heroic stand by seven fire fighters atop Engine 3 stopped the fire from spreading.

"All seven, cut off from rescue, their engine on fire and their clothes burning, swung two hose lines and a big deck gun back and forth keeping the fire from crossing Boston street.

"On the other side people ran from their threatened homes carrying belongings.

"Acting Fire Chief William A. Terrenzi ordered everyone within four blocks to leave their homes at 6.45 P.M., when it appeared the fire was going to sweep through the wooden tenement area, just off the Southeast Expressway.

"The huge boiler works, sold only a month ago for about $50,000, extends for two blocks along Boston street, between the end of the Boston street Expressway bridge and the Andrew square exit ramp.

"The fire spread so quickly, aided by hot air explosions and blasts from high tension electric lines that first arriving apparatus was trapped.

"Flames shot out of the one- and three-story wooden structure, set fire to three buildings across the street, ignited Engine 3, the department's light-unit and Ladder Truck 20.

"Engine 7 started to blaze and its driver, Paul Cuniff, drove it through flames to safety. He was badly burned about the face and taken to City Hospital.

"Up on Engine 3 were Charles Hoban, Andrew Brady, John Morgan, George Rustin, Robert Clougherty, Arthur Howard, and John Carlson of Engine 1.

"An ear-shattering blast followed by sheets of flame set the engine ablaze and the firemen's clothing burning.

"Hoban and Louis Liberatore pulled a small booster hose line from the vehicle and pumped 500 gallons of water on themselves and the six atop the truck while they stayed at their posts.

"Firemen on either side watched helplessly as flames closed in on the engine.

"Finally enough equipment reached the scene, and using heavy deck guns they blasted a path to the seven men and found them still working their hoses."

Three fire fighters were brought from the fire to City Hospital for severe burn treatment. Another dozen were given first aid treatment by doctors at the scene.

Said the Boston Traveler in an editorial:

"Boston fire fighters showed why they're rated tops in the nation this week with their outstanding performance at the five-alarm Russell Boiler Works blaze in South Boston. The city is proud to salute them.

"Trapped firemen, with their trucks ablaze and their clothes burning, courageously, held their ground and blocked flames from sweeping into a tenement area. Others drove apparatus through walls of fire. Off-duty fire fighters responded voluntarily and rushed to the scene to join the dangerous battle. And all this, incidentally, on a day when funeral services were held for one of their most popular leaders of recent years, Chief John A. Martin.

"It was a stirring display of dedicated fire fighting at its best."

Chamber Urges Approval of Rapid Transit Link to Melrose and Malden

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce on July 25 praised action of the Massachusetts Senate Ways and Means Committee for endorsing a proposal for extension of rapid transit service from downtown Boston to the Malden-Melrose line.

Manager Thomas J. Moccia, of the Chamber's Metropolitan Development Department, said the extension is vitally necessary and urged final enactment of the measure.

"The Chamber hopes the Legislature will enact the measure immediately. This would give the Metropolitan Transit Authority the green light to proceed to construct and equip a public mass transportation service which is vitally needed to serve the North Terminal area. Such a line would increase public mass transportation from 25 to 40 per cent of the total downtown Boston-bound travel from the north," Moccia said.

Moccia pointed out that such an extension would reduce the number of daily commuters from the cities and towns north of Boston using highways and other modes of travel from 75 per cent of total to about 60 per cent of the total commuters. He said the need for the extension was supported in a study made by the Boston Redevelopment Authority, City of Cambridge, Massachusetts Department of Public Works, Massachusetts Port Authority, Mass Transportation Commission, Metropolitan District Commission, Metropolitan Transit Authority, Boston & Maine Railroad, City of Somerville, Massachusetts Department of Commerce, and the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads.

Hot? Sure, But Festival's Paul Hines Thinks of Icy Snow and Yule Lights

Even though the Boston summer temperatures skyrocketed toward a permanent orbit in the upper 90s, Paul Hines, managing director of the Christmas Festival, declines to wilt this summer.

Paul conceded Old Sol was having a blistering time for himself. However, Paul's workaday thoughts are concerned with a crisp winter, with just enough snow to make it interesting and an assist from freezing temperatures to keep a nice glassy surface on the Common Frog Pond, where today young Bostonians pay no heed to the heat.

Yep, Paul agrees it's hot enough for him. He points out, however, that summer's merely a quick-passing season (notice how fast your vacation goes?). He's much more concerned with plans for winter 1963 and early '64.

He points out that Boston's Christmas Festival, conceived and started back in 1950, is just about tops in the world as far as municipal displays and actions go when the winter holidays roll around. Paul's problem is to keep ahead of all of them and every year the competition gets more fierce as other cities adopt the Boston idea along with the ideas that make it go.

Under Mayor Collins, the lure it holds brought more than a million visitors each year. The Mayor made it one of his pet projects and he has declined to let "well enough" alone—he wants "well enough" to become "better."

Passing the summer at Franklin Park Zoo under the care of MDC Curator Walter Stone and waiting for their on-stage calls next winter are the reindeer, the sheep, the Sicilian donkey and her pint-sized daughter, "Sicilia," of last winter's display.

Right now, Hines is looking over the possibilities of picking up a camel or two to add to next year's cast.

While bathing suits, rubber rafts, and beach balls are the concern of the nation's young fry right now, Paul is getting an assist from a friend of the festival. Said friend is visiting toy manufacturers about the nation looking over the latest in toy exhibits.

It's very possible the next festival will come up with one of the finest toy displays ever publicly exhibited—or at least on a par with those shown in Macy's Thanksgiving Parade in New York. What he has in mind are those king-size animated creations which can withstand outdoor exposure for a lengthy period.

During the current season, Hines says, repainting and repair work is the order of the day for some 250 religious and other festival figures which have been acquired during the years. Some are being replaced after winning retirement for many winters on the Common.

Five experienced artists are at work adorning the older figures with strikingly deep and beautiful ecclesiastical colors in harmony with the traditional displays of the most artistic crèches.

This phase of the work will be concluded in the fall, Hines believes. Today, he says the city owns upwards of $50,000 worth of festival equipment, most of it paid by financial contributions from leading citizens and business institutions.

Three BFD Veterans Retired August First

Retirement of three veteran Boston fire fighters on August 1 was announced by Fire Commissioner Thomas J. Griffin.

They are Lieut. Andrew F. Collins, 39 Bullard street, Dorchester, attached to the Fire Prevention Division; Fire Fighter Charles J. Jacobson, 130 Stratton street, Dorchester, of Ladder 14, and David I. Driscoll, 74 Harriet street, Brighton, of the Maintenance Division.

Collins was appointed to the department in 1942 and was promoted to lieutenant in 1947. Driscoll joined the department in 1937, and Jacobson in 1948.

Boston Health Dept. Handled 681,000 Sips

Boston's fight against the ravages of polio has been continuous since the serious outbreak of the disease which occurred in the summer of 1955. Thus far in 1963, there has not been a single resident case of polio reported.

Boston's Health Commissioner, John T. Foley, said, "Bostonians have responded well to the Health Department's efforts to provide oral polio protection for all residents." Since the introduction of the Sabin vaccine, 680,099 doses have been given. Preschoolers and adults received the vaccine in clinics conducted by the department. School children in public, parochial, and private schools received the vaccine in school. In addition, several thousands of doses have been given by private physicians.

The Health Commissioner emphasized the importance of protecting children as they are particularly susceptible to the disease. Fortunately Boston children are well protected, 95 per cent of the school children and about 80 per cent of the preschoolers having received the complete series of three protective polio "sips".

Now that the special clinics conducted by the Health Department have been completed, adults who have not yet received their polio protection or have not completed their series of three "sips" should consult their private physician and get the protective doses against polio. The department will continue to provide polio vaccine for children through the school program and to all new admissions to the well child conferences.

Polio is a serious disease. We are fortunate that we have such an easy and effective way of getting protection against polio—just three "sips". Everyone should make it his responsibility to see that he and his family are protected.

Here's Tops in Good Old Summer Reading

The new B.P.L. Bookmobiles I and II commanded a lively reading public wherever they made their scheduled stops in Boston during the hot spell. The books carried by these two units of the Library's mobile fleet have a lot of good summer reading. Likewise, they are staffed by genial, helpful librarians.

They have another good point. They are air conditioned.

Yes, sir, Bookmobile I and II have added a new dimension to the gentle art of summer reading. In the winter they'll be ventilated by a constant flow of fresh air at suitable temperatures. But who wants to go into that angle now?

Housing Project's Boy Scouts Get Camp Trip

An outstanding record in scout programming has won a "camper-ship" for the Boy Scouts of Troop 100 of the Heath Street-Bromley Housing Development.

The "camper-ship," a week's camping trip at Adams Pond Camp in Norwood, New Hampshire, is awarded by the Boston Council, Inc., Boy Scouts of America, to Boy Scout troops whose scouting activities for the year have been particularly noteworthy.

The eight Jamaica Plain boys who compiled the award winning record for their troop are Richard and Bruce Cummings of 10 Bickford street; William Glover of 297 Centre street; Robert Perry of 954 Parker street; Harry Porcher of 24 Bickford street; Thomas Kelton of 275 Centre street; Finis Crosby of 10 Bickford street, and Charles Dunn of 950 Parker street.

The troop spent the week of July 28 at the camp.

"Pru's" Air-Condition Plant Being Installed

While Boston sweltered and air-conditioning firms got writer's cramp complaints from their sales forces, the biggest air-conditioning job in the city was going on in the comparative comfort of two floors below the ground level up in the Back Bay.

That was the task of getting in place the machinery which will keep the Prudential Tower a nice place to visit on some hot day in the future. The largest office building in the world outside Gotham will have its main conditioning plant in the second subbasement below the lobby. All the machinery will be asked to do will be to supply 4,400 tons of nice clean, refreshing air to the structure.

The huge machinery installation will pump cool water from its basement to the tower's so-called mechanical floors above (the 12th, 21st, 31st, 41st, and 51st). This water will cool the air which is circulated through the one million square foot structure.

It will require two 24-inch diameter water mains to carry water from the basement to two cooling towers located near the top of the building.

The cooling towers are 18 feet wide; 62 feet tall. They will handle the 720,000 gallons of water needed to do the trick.

College Costs Still On Spiral Toward Skies

Got one or more youngsters in the family shaping up toward college in the near future? News out of Elizabeth, New Jersey, where a research firm was hired to keep tabs on such things, isn't at all encouraging at the moment.

The firm made a survey of Harvard, Iowa, Columbia, Stanford, and Vassar which shows tuition expenses at those five institutions of learning are at least three times greater than they were in 1940. In '40 the average was $336. In '63 it was $1,194.

On top of that returns showed that bare living expenses at the five schools have risen from average $1,060 in '40 to $2,611 this year. Of course, a more broadly based survey might take the staggering figures down a bit but they are typical enough to show that it would be a good idea for John and Mary to study hard and keep on the lookout for scholarships in their precollege stage of life.

Jim Duchscherer to Coast in Statler Shift

James P. Duchscherer, who built a wide circle of friends in Boston during his 2½-year stint as general manager of the local Statler Hilton, is being transferred to San Francisco. He will be replaced here by A. H. Zugger, general manager of the Pittsburgh Hilton.

Jim Duchscherer will take over direction of the San Francisco Statler Hilton, soon to be completed at a cost of $25 million. Manager Zugger is a hotel veteran, long with the Statler organization. He remained with the Statler Hilton chain when the two organizations merged in 1955.

B. & M. No. Station Sold for $2 Million

The Madison Hotel at North Station was sold July 29 by the Boston & Maine Railroad to the Dison Corporation, at a reported price of $2 million. The Dison firm is headed by Shaffie Hamsey of Jamaica Plain.

The terminal complex includes the B. & M. Industrial Building, the North Station Terminal Building, and a building at 150 Causeway street in addition to the hotel.

Hamsey, veteran hotel man, will serve also as general manager of the Madison. Cyrus Gardner, Brookline realtor, is treasurer, and Richard Duca is clerk of the Dison Corporation.

Antipolio Drives Pay Rich Health Dividends

If the four-year cycle of severe polio incidence which existed in pre-Salk days prevailed this summer it would be a most unhappy season for a large number of Boston families.

However, Dr. Jonas Salk discovered his antipolio vaccine and today polio appears on its way to classification as a rare disease in this country. Something more than the discovery was necessary, of course. Without an all-out drive such as has been pressed each year in Boston by Mayor Collins and on the state level by State Health Commissioner Alfred L. Frechette, polio could still be taking a devastating toll.

This year only one case has been reported through the entire state. A three-year-old child in the Midwest section of the state was the victim. He had neither Salk or Sabin immunization.

Polio established the four-year pattern in 1955 and again in 1959 when its incidence in the Bay State almost reached epidemic proportions. Gradually, Boston and the state, after making certain that every potential victim, child and adult, receives immunization can begin to concentrate on those coming to the state from outside—particularly school children and the almost 100,000 or more infants born each year.

Largest Sailing Vessel in 6-Day Call to Hub

The world's largest sailing vessel—the Argentine naval frigate Libertad—docked at the South Boston Naval Annex for a six-day stay in Boston, July 30. The three-masted vessel is making an 18,000-mile maiden voyage for training cruise for young Argentine sailors. Aboard as guests and observers are middies from Uruguay, Paraguay, Brazil, and the United States.

Boston was the only North American stop scheduled in the world-girding trip which will end in Buenos Aires, December 6.

State Tower Bids to Be Received Sept. 18

Sealed bids for the superstructure work on the $20 million 22-story State Office Building in the Government Center will be received September 18, Executive Secretary Thomas J. Doherty of the commission announces.

Each general bid proposal must be secured by an accompanying deposit of $50,000, Secretary Doherty pointed out.

Construction is already under way on the foundation of the building and on steel-pile driving incidental to the erection of the superstructure.

Advertising of a fourth contract for construction of a rear plaza of the building which is being constructed south of Cambridge street, between Somerset and Bowdoin streets, will be announced later.

Eastern Adds to Its Logan Parking Area

Ground was broken last week for a $100,000 expansion of Eastern Air Lines parking facilities at Logan International Airport. A 300-unit expansion will double the line's parking area at the port.

In addition, Eastern will erect three new all-weather waiting stations. Regular bus-shuttle service is supplied by Eastern. The new facilities are expected to be ready for service around September 1.

Car Abandoners Will Lose Right to Drive

Abandonment of vehicles on public roads or private property without permission of the owner of the land, will make the operator liable to suspension of license, James R. Lawton, Motor Vehicles Registrar, recently announced.

The suspension will remain in effect until the vehicle owners remove the car or truck from the road or property.

Peak military strength of the United States during World War II is estimated at 12,300,000. That of Russia was 12,500,000.

Shawmut Establishes Gov't. Center First

Honor of putting into operation the first privately constructed building in the Government Center goes to the National Shawmut Bank of Boston. On July 29, the bank opened a temporary office at Cambridge and New Sudbury streets, to serve the area in preliminary phases of the construction period.

All normal services of the bank will be handled at the temporary quarters.

Representing Mayor Collins at the opening was Administrative Services Director Henry A. Scagnoli. Heading the bank delegation was President Lawrence H. Martin. Also present was Harry Rose who will manage the office. The branch will replace the Shawmut office at Bowdoin square, scheduled for demolition. When it is ready it will move into new quarters in the completed Government Center.

CONTRACTS AWARDED WITHOUT ADVERTISING

The Mayor has approved the award of contracts, without advertising, based on the following communications:

ADMINISTRATIVE SERVICES DEPARTMENT.

Purchasing Division. ELECTRIC CABLE

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

Invitation to bid on proposals for furnishing electric cable to the Fire Department was advertised in the City Record. Subsequently, bids received were publicly opened and read in this office on June 5, 1963.

General Cable Corporation was the lowest bidder. However, their bid was irregular in that no bid was received at the Auditor's office. Authority is therefore requested to reject all bids received, dispense with further advertising, and award a contract, without public advertisement, to General Cable Corporation at the prices submitted in their public bid. It is my opinion that the best interests of the city will be served by awarding the contract as requested.

Approximate total amount of contract will be $10,640, less one half of 1 percent cash discount for payment within 10 days, net, 30 days from date of invoice.

Respectfully yours,

MICHAEL A. DESIMONE,
Purchasing Agent.

LIBRARY DEPARTMENT. ARCHITECTURAL SERVICES

DEAR MR. MAYOR:

The Trustees of the Public Library respectfully request that your Honor approve the signing of a contract with Messrs. Ames and Graves, 209 Newbury street, Boston, for architectural services in connection with certain relighting work at the Lower Mills and Mattapan Branch Libraries. The architects' professional services will consist of necessary conference; preparation of preliminary studies, working drawings, and specifications; drafting of forms of proposals and contracts; and responsibility for and supervision of the work required by the Trustees. The fee to be paid the architects will be in the amount of ten per cent (10%) of the contract for the above-mentioned work which will be awarded by the Trustees as a result of public advertising. The cost of the proposed work is estimated to be in the amount of $16,000.

The Trustees have therefore "Voted, That there be entered into with Messrs. Ames and Graves, 209 Newbury street, Boston, a contract for architectural services in connection with certain relighting work at the Lower Mills Branch Library and the Mattapan Branch Library, the total fee thus charged to be subject to the terms, agreements, and conditions set forth in said contract."

Messrs. Ames and Graves have been the consulting architects for the Library for over twenty years and are thoroughly familiar with library building problems. It is believed that no useful purpose would be served by proceeding to competitive bidding for these architectural services.

Respectfully,

THE TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY OF THE
CITY OF BOSTON,

By MILTON E. LORD,
Director.

Jim O'Leary Died An Exemplary, Courageous, True American Citizen

In the early morning hours of Friday, August 2, James B. O'Leary died in an operating room at Massachusetts General Hospital. Death came after a surgery team of doctors and nurses using every gift and skill of modern medicine had given of their utmost.

Jim O'Leary was a police officer. He was attached to the 16th or Back Bay Division. By the unanimous opinion of those for whom and with whom he worked he was an excellent officer. He lived in a modest home in a quiet, residential street in Brighton. Despite its modesty, it was an attractive house, well maintained by a man who devoted the best years of his life to it.

"I'll be home as soon as the theater closes," he assured his wife on the night of Thursday, August 1. He had a detail to the Exeter Street Theater that night. It was a paid detail. It meant a few bucks over and above his patrolman's pay. Jim knew he was going to need lots of "paid details" like that when college bills came around—and the two O'Leary girls were nearing college age now.

Jim didn't get home that night. He never saw his home again.

He died without knowing they had seized a suspect shortly after a bullet had torn its way through his heart. He died without knowing that a man he sought to place under arrest after he had completed his theater assignment was involved in a liquor store holdup.

He died without knowing that St. Columbkille's Church would be filled with fellow parishioners and notables in a final tribute to him and the God-fearing life that had been ended by a bullet.

He died without knowing that a great, revered prelate of the Catholic Church would say as he consoled his family:

"It was an expensive way of making the public realize the efficiency and the loyalty of the members of the Boston Police Department."

Jim loved his home. He loved his wife, Catherine. He adored his children, Marjorie, 17, Patricia, 16, and little Jimmy, Jr., 6.

He was never given an assignment he did not carry out with competent thoroughness. He joked about the commendations that inevitably came his way. He recalled—now and then—the three years and nine months he spent in the service of his country in World War II.

He worried about the progress of the flowers he planted about the house each spring, about a seemingly loose clapboard he was quick to make right, about a door that swelled a bit in the heat.

Jim O'Leary was one of those fellows who rarely complained; one of those who withheld criticism of another when a good word might be substituted.

He knew that some day, some night, he might not be coming home to his loved ones for he was a good police officer and a good police officer must accept sudden challenges when and wherever they are offered.

He could answer loud and clear when the final roll call was made far away from the squad room in the old Back Bay Station.

For Jim O'Leary was more than a good man, a good soldier, a good police officer. He was a truly great American.

Police Head Pays High Tribute to Hero Officer

Boston Police Commissioner Edmund McNamara issued this statement immediately following the death of Back Bay Patrolman James B. O'Leary:

"I share the grief of every man of the Boston Police Department in the death of Officer James B. O'Leary of District 16.

"The courage and dedication to duty displayed by O'Leary in the face of great danger will always be a tribute to his memory and the service for which he lived and died with honor.

"The Boston Police Department has lost one of its outstanding members but to the family there is no greater tragedy than the loss of a devoted husband and father."

McNamara also expressed "our deep appreciation to the doctors and the staff of the Massachusetts General Hospital. They worked unceasingly and did everything possible to save Officer O'Leary."

He said O'Leary "had an excellent record in his 18 years with the force. All of the policemen who worked with him through the years were at the hospital praying for him."

Charles-Jamaica Sailing Fleets Enjoying Best Season in History

Mayor Collins took time out from a seemingly routine report from the Boston Parks and Recreation Department the other day to enjoy a deep chuckle of satisfaction and tap his desk in applause for the story concerned in the report.

In the matter-of-fact language of all official reports the papers at hand simply gave an up-to-date account of one phase of the B. P. and R. Department's Summer Recreation Program, viz., the sailing boat program.

This summer in the Charles River Basin and at Jamaica Pond, Boston boys and girls are breaking all records for their devotion to that ancient art of sailing.

The number of those being qualified in the fine points of this invigorating, truly exciting sport is growing by leaps and bounds and by the time the season ends you'd have to go back to the days of the Indians to find a greater number skimming over the surface of the Charles or Jamaica Pond. And you can't count the Indians as competitors really. They went for canoes and hollowed shells.

Today's devotees of the Charles and Jamaica Pond go for sheets of nylon and canvas.

An all-sports man himself, Mayor Collins is delighted with the progress of the program this year and the rich promise it holds for the future.

Back in the 40's the Park Department put the project into action with some misgiving. There was some question about the response. Some debate about whether you could interest today's boy or girl in sailing.

When the present Charles River site at the foot of Revere street and Embankment road was originally chosen, there was a small fleet of six boats and a half a dozen of instructors operating under a qualified boat manager or sailing master.

Today Jamaica Pond has been included in the program. In all there are 18 instructors and a fleet of 24 sailboats!

The project has become a success! This year it has grown to true maturity.

It's no helter-skelter, quickly thrown together program either.

First of all there's the emphasis on safety. Children from 12 to 17 are registered. They must prove themselves able swimmers—either Junior Red Cross members in aquatics or have taken advantage of the fine swimming and water-safety activities program offered the public under the municipal Parks and Recreation program.

The Jamaica Pond fleet bases at Pond street and the Jamaica way.

From 9 A.M. to just before sundown the varicolored sails may be seen by motorists passing the shores. However, these youngsters aren't interested in motorcars or motor bikes. They are devotees of the sail.

They are knowing a happy summer and they are delighted with the many features programmed to make the sailing season go by in delightful fashion.

Rodents Routed; Only Vigilance Bars Return

Health officials have gained the upper hand in their battle to eliminate rodents in the Back Bay area, according to Dr. John T. Foley, city Health Commissioner. In fact, the doctor reports such progress that soon attention can be turned to other sections of the city troubled by the problem.

Because the Back Bay problem was so acute it was selected first under a city-wide extermination program for which Mayor Collins set up a $50,000 fund.

"I'd say rodents are no longer a problem in the Back Bay," said Dr. Foley. Teams will now turn their attention to five other sections of the city.

Dr. Foley pointed out, however, that while extermination can be achieved persistent follow-up measures are necessary. "Sanitation," he said, "is the key factor. We are going to enforce the litter law rigidly." It was also pointed out that a similar successful campaign was waged in 1961 but public apathy resulted in a return of the conditions which attracted new rodent invasions.

While Mummy Shops Around Children Can Romp at Playland

From the day General Gage chased young coasters off its slopes one winter to the present, Boston Common not only has a way of maintaining old traditions but introducing new ones as well.

Take Playland. It has been in operation only since 1948, a comparative brief spell as Common history goes. Yet, in 15 years, it has become a sort of pleasant auxiliary to the entire downtown area.

Playland was set up for a purpose. The idea at its inception was to provide mothers bent on an hour or so of shopping to make a tour of the stores without the admitted handicap of a tot who couldn't keep up with the pace, or who wanted to spend so much time in the toy departments that the whole shopping tour was ruined.

The purpose has never changed. Only difference is that every year the number of children who are registered for their mother's shopping tours steadily climbs upward.

The children love it. Mothers are delighted.

The location is a happy one, across Boylston street, from Temple place and West street. There's sun and shade in just the right amount. Mothers are assured that their offspring are in good hands until they return, laden with bundles.

Boys from 4 to 12 are eligible; girls from 4 to 14.

Playland is open all summer weekdays—Saturdays and holidays are out—from 10 A.M. to 4.40 P.M. No children are admitted after 4 P.M. The area and project are under direction of Commissioner Martin F. Walsh of the Parks and Recreation Department and Recreation Director Patrick J. Ryan. It is staffed by the recreation division.

A wire link fence surrounds the area but there's nothing about it to bring on a sense of claustrophobia for those inside. Few of them want to leave and many rebel when mummy finally arrives to start the homeward trek.

Children may be registered once a day for a three-hour limit. The child (or children) must be accompanied and registered by an adult. No parent can remain inside Playland after the child is registered and the parent must call for the child before the 4.30 P.M. closing time.

If it is raining at 9 A.M., Playland will not be opened. If it rains seriously after 9 A.M., the child must be called for immediately. However, there is a large shelter at Playland for the children if a sudden squall comes up and lots of 'em like to ride the rain under benches and tables.

Six young ladies with a talent for getting along with children staff the area. All kinds of child activities and facilities are available with special attention to arts, crafts, storytelling, games, etc. To work off excess energy there are swings, seesaws, slide, and softball games.

Mayor Hails Congress Moves on NASA Site

Mayor Collins hailed initial approval of the NASA research center and its location in the metropolitan Boston area by Congress. "It is an action that is both logical and in the best interest of the nation," said the Mayor.

"Its impact on the economy of Boston and New England is inestimable. I am pleased that Congress has voted affirmatively and the full resources of the Boston Redevelopment Authority will be available to NASA in the ultimate selection of their site."

While favorable action by both House and Senate members on August 1 started the tide running strongly toward Boston, the task of actually getting the $50 million lab within the city's borders must go on for quite awhile. Right now, as Mayor Collins pointed out, everything is moving in the right direction.

Highest Welfare Share Benefits Hub Elderly

The Welfare Department reports expenditure of $22,652,163 for public assistance during the first six months of 1963, with approximately two thirds of this amount being paid directly to clients and the other third earmarked for medical needs.

The elderly were the chief beneficiaries. A total of $6,302,701 was paid for Old Age Assistance and another $5,043,130 being paid out in medical assistance in this classification.

Dependent children received a total of $7,660,468 in aid moneys, about $7 million in direct payments. Disability assistance payments in the January through June period totaled $2,674,681 and general relief payments totaled $971,153.

B & M Patronage Still Holding Strong Gains

The highest percentage gain in commuters for any given week in the Mass Transportation Commission's Boston & Maine Railroad experiment was registered for the 29th week of the plan.

Passengers increased 33.4 per cent for the week on all lines. The peak period showed a 21.2 per cent gain over the week of July 19-25 last year, and off-peak riders increased 72.1 per cent.

New fares went into effect recently. Commuter tickets rose to near pre-experiment levels but off-peak fares were reduced another 10 to 26 per cent.

James J. Kane

James J. Kane, retired deputy chief of the Boston Fire Department, died recently at Carney Hospital. He was 78 and made his home at 96 Washington street, Brighton.

He retired in 1954 after a long and colorful career in the BFD.

He leaves two daughters, Mrs. Grace Farrell of Quincy, Mrs. Marie B. Kennedy of Mattapan, and a son, James J., of Mattapan.

WELFARE COSTS FOR JUNE

Following is a summary of the Welfare Department for June:

In the course of the past six months, $22,652,163 was spent for public assistance of which $14,384,213 was paid directly to clients and an additional $8,267,950 earmarked primarily for medical needs. This includes the $3,843,364 spent during the month of June for 50,424 persons in a caseload of 28,277 for an average grant of $133.81. During June, 1,221 applications were approved, 317 requests denied, and 976 cases closed.

Old Age Assistance: Resources below the minimum for financial eligibility prompted the majority of applications which were subsequently approved. A contributing factor to this situation was loss of employment due to illness or discharge. Death continues to be the major reason for closings. The average expenditure for 11,579 clients was $88.33 for a total of $1,066,524.

Medical Assistance for Aged: During the current month, medical care in the home, in hospitals, and in nursing homes was provided for 4,347 clients at an average cost of $208.15. When it is realized that generally speaking, monthly living expenses for this category are limited to $150 for single persons and $225 for married couples, the formidable financial barriers facing clients for their adequate medical care are apparent.

Aid to Dependent Children: Aid to Dependent Children families numbering 7,235 shared the largest portion of the June budget for a total of $1,264,793. Of the 369 applications processed, 323 were approved and the balance, or 46, were rejected. An analysis of the 254 closed cases shows that return to employment of the wage earner was the major factor in allowing families to become once again self-supporting.

Disability Assistance: The cost of this program during June amounted to $445,393. This provided needed care in the home and in medical facilities for 3,168 clients at an average cost of $140.40. Failure to meet necessary medical requirements continues to be the primary reason for the rejection of 73 applications. As could be expected, disabling illness resulting in unemployment accounts for the majority of the 117 approvals, while 56 cases were closed due to death.

General Relief: Failure to meet eligibility standards for the categories enumerated above, does not necessarily eliminate the need for nor forfeit the right to public assistance. Such applicants often qualify for the General Relief Program. June expenditures for this category, amounted to $160,200. The rejection of 40 cases combined with the closing of 317 leaves a current General Relief caseload of 1,659.

Ex-Poland Spring Golf Caddies Get-Together

Plans for the first annual reunion of the Poland Spring Caddy Camp Alumni Association to be held at the Poland Spring Hotel on September 27, 28, and 29, were announced recently by Thomas J. Turley, president of the association.

Poland Spring Caddy Camp is now in its 42d year. Formed in 1921 through the cooperative efforts of Poland Spring Hotel officials and the staff of Boston's South End House to get deserving boys off the city streets and into the country—many of the alumni have been popular figures in business, professions, and the religious life of the community. Rev. William J. Healy, S.J., former President of Holy Cross College; former State Treasurer John E. Hurley; the late Boston newsman, James F. Leonard, and the late Father Edmund Trayers, O.M.I., one-time Cathedral Club athlete, were just a few.

Dr. Frederic F. Maloof of the City Health Department is Sectional Chairman for Membership of the Alumni Association.

Green St. Bus Back At Mayor's Insistence

At the intervention and earnest behest of Mayor Collins the MTA has announced plans for the restoration of the Green Street, Jamaica Plain, bus line service starting September 1. Service on the line was sharply curtailed during the reconstruction of Green street.

The MTA agreed to reinstate the line following repeated requests from Collins who pointed out that the bus line was the only means of transportation for people in the Washington Street-Centre Street area who wish to shop or conduct other business along Centre street.

The line will start from Forest Hills, following Washington street to Green street, go left to Green to Centre, left on Centre to the Monument then proceed through Roslindale to West Roxbury to Wren street.

The return route is Wren to Monument, right on South street to Forest Hills.

50 Boston Police Have Given Lives to Duty

Patrolman James B. O'Leary, slain by a fugitive robber, was the 50th member of the Boston Police Department killed in the line of duty. His death follows that of Patrolman J. Gallagher, 33, of Mattapan, on May 25, 1962, when he with other officers surprised a burglar in the Kenmore Square branch of a Boston bank.

Curbside Registration For Potential Voters

L St. Brownies Have Annual Mass July 27

Annual Mass for the L Street Brownies was held at Gate of Heaven Church, South Boston, July 27. Celebrant was Rt. Rev. John T. Powers. He was assisted by Rev. Joseph Keene, S. J., of Boston College High School.

In the big turnout were a number of relatives and friends of deceased members of the organization.

George F. Regan

George F. Regan, who spent most of his life in the service of Boston City Hospital, died suddenly while on his vacation at Duxbury. For many years he was in charge of the hospital's mailing center, handling the tremendous volume of incoming and outgoing mail for members of the staff, the hospital's business offices, and patients.

It was a task that called for patience and understanding, especially around Christmastime when he and his limited staff were obliged to handle tons of cards not alone from the metropolitan area but from foreign lands as well.

Again he was often called upon to turn detective in order to deliver, if possible, a letter addressed simply —“Daddy, City Hospital, Boston.”

He was 50 and made his home at 8 Sumner park, Dorchester, with his family. A daughter, Miss Patricia, serves on the hospital's nursing staff. He went to work at the hospital at the age of 16 and remained there until his death, with the exception of service with the U. S. Navy during World War II.

CAB's Northeast Rule Declared "Incredible"

The following communication was sent to the Chairman of the Civil Aeronautics Board, Washington, D.C., from the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce on the Northeast Airlines renewal case.

"Deem incredible ruling on Northeast Airlines Renewal Case. It stands as a detrimental blow to Greater Boston's economy. It stands as a detrimental blow to Greater Boston's mobility. It stands as a detrimental blow to fair competitive business practice. It stands as a detrimental blow to Greater Boston and the New England area which in fact need additional air carriers not less. We plead for reconsideration of your decision in this matter."

Melrose-Malden Okay Hailed by Chamber

Passage by the Massachusetts Legislature on August 5 of a measure to extend rapid transit, between downtown Boston northerly to the Malden-Melrose line, was praised by the Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce.

Robert M. Jenney, chairman of the Chamber's Commuter Transportation Committee and president of Jenney Manufacturing Company, said the Legislature acted in "a most praiseworthy manner on this vital fiscal proposal so necessary to provide rapid transit service to and from the north terminal area of Greater Boston."

Jenney said enactment of the measure, which would permit the Metropolitan Transit Authority to construct and equip the rapid transit extension, would provide much-needed traffic relief on highways north of Boston. "This," Jenney declared, "will relieve the massive crush of bumper-to-bumper traffic we now witness daily on expressways throughout the Boston metropolitan area."

Jenney lauded swift passage of the measure as an effort to insure an immediate start by the MTA on the northerly extension.

Mystic River Dam to Require 2½ Years

The MDC signed a $10.5 million contract with two construction companies to begin work on the Mystic River Dam, between Somerville and Everett.

The dam will take $2\frac{1}{2}$ years to complete and will raise the water level in the Mystic River Basin area, allowing more recreational space and facilities for larger vessels.

Contractors are the Perini Corporation and J. Richard Steers, Inc.

Strange Creature If You Go By Analysis

The following chemical analysis of the creature known as woman is attributed to a lady who makes her home in Ireland.

Symbol: WO. Accepted atomic weight: 120. Physical properties: boils at nothing and freezes at any minute. Melts when properly treated, very bitter if not well used. Occurrence: found everywhere man exists. Chemical properties: possesses great affinity for gold, silver, platinum and precious stones. Violent reaction if left alone. Able to absorb a great amount of food matter. Turns green when placed beside a better looking specimen. Uses: highly ornamental, useful as a tonic in the acceleration of low spirits and as an equalizer in the distribution of wealth; is probably the most effective income-reducing agent there is. Caution: highly explosive in inexperienced hands.

In addition, neither the subbids filed by the three lowest responsible and eligible subbidders for a subtrade nor the subbids for the same subtrade as shown on the general bids of the three lowest responsible and eligible general bidders, may be withdrawn after the opening of the general bids and for five (5) days (Saturdays, Sundays, and legal holidays excluded), after presentation of a subcontract to the subbidder selected for that subtrade by the general bidder selected as the general contractor.

Plans and specifications and other documents may be obtained after 9 o'clock A.M. (Eastern Daylight Saving Time), Monday, August 12, 1963, at the office of the Awarding Authority designated above, upon deposit of a certified check for $10 per set of plans and specifications, payable to the City of Boston. FEES FOR LICENSING OF PERSONS TO TELL FORTUNES.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Licensing Board, June 28, 1963.
Councillor: Christopher Iannella, Committee on Ordinances, City Hall, School Street, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir:

Chapter 194, Acts of 1963 in amending chapter 140 of the General Laws provides, by the insertion of section 185I, for the licensing of persons to tell fortunes—and further provides the fee for such license shall be two dollars ($2).

It is the opinion of the Board that this fee would not be equitable to the cost of processing and administering a license of this type, and that a minimum license charge should be one hundred dollars ($100).

In accordance with the provisions of chapter 222, Acts of 1949, may we ask your committee to consider and recommend the setting of a fee which more properly would cover the cost of issuing such licenses.

Very truly yours,

JOHN J. CALLAHAN,
Chairman.

Section 2301—Design for Loads

All buildings and other structures and parts thereof shall be designed to support the loads and to withstand the forces to which they are to be subjected during construction as well as after completion. The design shall allow for dead and live loads, including wind and snow loads as required in this part without exceeding the allowable stresses prescribed for supporting members elsewhere in this code.

Section 2302—Dead and Live Loads

(a) The dead loads acting upon a building or structure shall include all the forces due to weight of walls, permanent partitions, floors, roofs, framing and all other permanent stationary construction and fixed service equipment entering into and becoming part of the structure.

(b) The live loads acting upon a building or structure shall include all loads other than dead loads.

Section 2303—Weights of Materials

(a) The actual weights of the constituent parts of a structure and of materials to be supported shall be used in calculation of loads. The materials listed in the following table shall be taken to weigh not less than there indicated:

(a) In structures in which permanent partitions occur their weight shall be counted as affecting the design of all supporting structural members, including columns and foundations, as part of the dead load; and in those portions of office buildings in which the prescribed live load does not exceed fifty pounds per square foot, allowance for partition weight shall always be made, whether or not partitions are shown on plans.

(b) If a layout of partitions is included in the building plans, the weights of the partitions and their locations shall be determined in accordance therewith, or such layout shall be used to determine an equivalent load per square foot of floor to be applied uniformly as a super-imposed dead load for purposes of design. But the allowance for partition weight in portions of buildings given to office occupancy, when expressed in pounds per square foot of floor, shall in no case be less than a minimum of two pounds for each foot of story height for each square foot of floor.

(c) In estimating loading from actual weights of partitions it may be assumed that the partition occupies a space one foot wide, and a deduction may be made of the live load displaced on this width.

(d) Arch action of partitions shall not be assumed to relieve the supporting members.

Section 2305—Live Loads on Floors

The live loads taken on floors for purposes of design shall be the greatest loads that will probably be produced by the intended occupancies, but the following distributed live loads shall be taken as the minimum for the occupancies named. For occupancies not listed, the design engineer shall submit the proposed design live load to the Commissioner for approval. All plans filed for permit shall include a list or notation of the live loads used in design. In buildings, structures or portion thereof used for industrial, mercantile or storage occupancies the live load for which each floor or part of a floor is designed and approved shall be conspicuously posted in that part of the story to which it applies. LEASE OF LAND TO NORTHEASTERN PETROLEUM SERVICE AND SUPPLY, INC., WEST ROXBURY.

The following was received:

City of Boston,
Office of the Mayor, July 1, 1963.
To the City Council.
Gentlemen:

I transmit herewith a communication from the Commissioner of Public Works relative to the leasing of an area of land in the West Roxbury district by the Northeastern Petroleum Service and Supply, Inc.

Accordingly, I respectfully recommend passage by your Honorable Body of the accompanying order to accomplish this purpose.

Respectfully,
JOHN F. COLLINS, Mayor.

City of Boston,
Public Works Department,
July 1, 1963.

Hon. John F. Collins,
Mayor of Boston.

Dear Mr. Mayor:

At the present time, Northeastern Petroleum Service and Supply, Inc., of 37 Brookley road, Jamaica Plain 30, is operating a petroleum service at the above address, and they are desirous of occupying land owned by the City of Boston which is adjacent to their place of business. This land is contemplated to be used for the parking of customers' vehicles in an open space at no charge. I have no objection to the leasing of this area of land to this company for a period of five years, and in view of this, an order has been prepared by the Corporation Counsel for the approval of the City Council authorizing the leasing of this area of land at an annual rental of $150 per year, which in my opinion is a fair rental for the area involved.

I respectfully recommend, therefore, that the enclosed order authorizing the lease of the above-referred-to land be submitted to the City Council for the approval of that Body.

Respectfully yours,
JAMES W. HALEY,
Commissioner of Public Works.

Ordered, That the Commissioner of Public Works of the City of Boston be, and he hereby is, authorized to execute and deliver to Northeastern Petroleum Service and Supply, Inc., a written instrument satisfactory in form to the Corporation Counsel whereby the City of Boston may lease for a period of five (5) years at an annual rental of one hundred and fifty (150) dollars per annum and upon such further terms and conditions not inconsistent herewith as the Commissioner of Public Works shall determine, a certain parcel of land situated in the West Roxbury district and shown as the area outlined in red on a plan "No. 190, Sewerage Works, Stony Brook, West Roxbury, July 28, 1906, William Jackson, City Engineer." A copy of said plan is hereto attached.

Referred to the Committee on Public Lands.

Your Committee on Public Lands to whom was referred an order on March 11, 1963, which would have authorized his Honor the Mayor to sell a discontinued firehouse at 32 Walnut street, Dorchester, having considered the same, recommends that the same ought to pass in the following new draft:

CONFLICT OF INTEREST LAW.

Coun. FOLEY offered the following:

Ordered, That the following be referred to the Executive Committee for their consideration in connection with the deliberations upon the so-called Conflict of Interest Law:

June 14, 1963.

Dear Sir:

This letter concerns your editorial of June 10, 1963, entitled "A Relic of Old Boston," concerning the so-called Conflict of Interest Law and the City Council's action in putting certain boards and agencies into the "special employee" category.

The point of the editorial is that the members of "ten of the city's boards whose members are unpaid should be exempted because not exempting them could mean the resignation of these men and many others and a slowdown of vital projects." Mr. Robert Morgan, President of the Boston Five Cents Savings Bank and Chairman of the Government Center Commission, and Mr. William D. Ireland, Chairman of the Civic Auditorium Commission and officer of the State Street Bank and Trust Company, are singled out for particular praise for their work in their public posts.

Ironically, you chide me for failing to appreciate the good work of the men affected and, further, failing to classify the position to accommodate the holders thereof. The "Herald," in an editorial last week, insisted that the job be classified without reference to the man.

May I invite your attention to chapter 268A, section 1 (Definitions) subsection (g) which reads as follows: "Municipal employee," a person performing services for or holding an office, position, employment, or membership in a municipal agency, whether by election, appointment, contract of hire or engagement, whether serving with or without compensation, on a full, regular, part time, intermittent, or consultant basis, . . ."

This definition is surely sweeping and is quite different from the standards laid down directly by the same statute with respect to state and county employees.

Subsection (m) in defining "special employees" decrees that the City Council shall employ standards "reasonably related to the stated purpose and terms and provisions of the chapter."

I will suggest most strongly to you that noncompensation is no reason either by the terms of the statute itself or in common sense to exempt persons from the general provisions of the act. These boards generally exercise very substantial power in an independent and discretionary way. The conflict problem continually arises here. At least seven times in my service on the Council, it has arisen among these uncompensated boards and agencies. Several times, enormous sums of money have been involved.

I use the term "conflicts" strictly, in each case the facts were publicly known. I do not, in any sense, imply actual evil. I do want to emphasize that conflicts of the type contemplated by the statute are more likely to be found among the remaining unclassified non-paid boards than elsewhere in the city service.

It should be kept in mind that the Conflict of Interest Statute forbids not sin, but temptation. It is much easier to legally define sin than temptation, and I suspect that this attempt to define temptation has now proven itself unworkable.

The Boston City Council, I believe, has applied the law with skill and discernment in accord strictly with the act. If the result is bad, blame the law, not the Council.

I believe the law places the affairs of this community in a strait jacket. I believe that the "special employee category" should be generally extended where requested, but for the right reasons and not the wrong ones. And I further make bold to suggest that our newspapers should indicate, at least occasionally, appreciation of the good work of all in public service in this city and not just the labors of a few bankers.

Your editorial expresses great distaste for the use of the term "Establishment." It does not, however, I note, deny the existence of one. My point has been from the beginning that this law purporting to establish a moral and ethical standard for the public service should be applied equally to all.

For example, there are two lawyers and an insurance man on the School Committee. They are uncompensated. Your recent series on the Boston schools surely indicates that professional and business people should serve on the School Committee without having to sacrifice personal income because of the extreme reach of this law.

We have accepted the principle that a real estate man should serve on the Board of the BRA.

I do not see how an active real estate man could possibly be found who would not have to live under the sword of Damocles if not exempted. Remember this is a criminal statute.

The evil I have been trying to first illustrate and avoid here is an ancient one and has been expressed in many ways. As good as any is the "double standard of morality" which would apply if certain persons were exempted because it is felt somehow that they are more reliable and trustworthy than others. I say there is a hint of this in your editorial. I am sure it was unintentional. I am equally certain that action on such a basis would haunt us in the future.

Very truly yours,

WILLIAM J. FOLEY, JR.

Section 402 of the Housing Act of 1954 (PL-560, 83d Congress) amending the Housing Act of 1937, as amended, provides that prior to the execution of an Annual Contributions Contract, the Local Authority shall notify the Governing Body of the locality of its estimate of the annual amount of payments in lieu of taxes which will be made for the projects, and of the amount of taxes which would be levied if the property were privately owned. We wish to advise you that our estimate of the annual amounts of payments in lieu of taxes, the annual amount of taxes which would be levied were the property privately owned and the amount of actual taxes now being levied are as follows:

Project 2-31, Bismarck street, Dorchester, payment in lieu of taxes, $3,410, present payments, $3,552, if privately owned, $79,350.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD D. HASSAN, Chairman.

Hub Wins AMA Award for '62's Public Relations Job Turned Failing Polio Drive Into Success

For his amazing job of turning a flat failure into a thrilling, spectacular success, Mayor Collins has been chosen for a special award in performing one of the top public relations jobs of 1962 by the American Municipal Association.

In competition with all the major cities and towns of the nation, the Boston accomplishment was hailed by the AMA as outstanding.

The achievement was concerned with the field of public health — polio.

The successful drive was quarterbacked from start to finish by Mayor John F. Collins himself.

The award was received by the Mayor at the annual convention of the American Municipal Association at the Shamrock Hilton Hotel, Houston, Texas. By his side as he received it was his press secretary, Richard J. Sinnott, his chief aide in the direction of the successful 1962 polio immunization drive.

This is how the Mayor capped a dismal, disheartening failure, with an inspiring success.

At the Mayor's orders the Boston Health Department undertook a free Sabin immunization drive in 1962, aimed particularly at preschool-age children. The dates were set for May 3, 4, and 5. Before and during the drive the cooperation of all news media was sought and obtained. Clinics were set up at strategic places throughout the city. They were staffed by top professionals.

On Saturday night, May 5, the results were brought to Mayor Collins. If they showed anything they indicated that Bostonians as a whole were completely indifferent to polio. Seven years had passed since Salk. Seven years had passed since the disease had visited a scourge of epidemic proportions on the city.

You didn't have to read far down on the list of figures they turned over to Mayor Collins that Saturday night. The drive spelled out failure. Less than 50 per cent of the preschool-age children of the city had been immunized. In one section — a populous area that had been hard hit in 1955 — less than 21 per cent response was recorded.

John Collins had good reason to be shocked as his eyes ran down the figures. In 1955 he had been stricken by the dread disease. So had three of his four children.

He sent for Dick Sinnott. He sent for other advisers. Quietly, he told them that another drive was to be instituted as soon as possible. "This time, it will be a success," he declared. "As long as I am Mayor of Boston not a single child will be made subject to that disease if I can prevent it."

"We can whip a new campaign into shape pretty quickly," said Sinnott, expert in the ways of modern news media. "I'm not going to wait. This new drive will get under way next Wednesday May 9. And it's going to be a success." The drive closed May 12.

Actually the Mayor had no choice but to launch the second campaign as soon as possible. August and the so-called "polio season" was around the corner.

Some outsiders, conscious of the complete indifference of the city, however, urged a longer wait. Some even advised to chalk it up as a disappointing loss and to start making plans for the next year. To them the Mayor was deaf.

The Mayor and Sinnott himself went to work that Saturday night. On the following Saturday night the returns came in.

In between the Mayor and Sinnott got little extra sleep.

That did not matter. The returns were astounding.

On the night of May 12, it was pretty evident that 80 per cent of the city's 65,000 preschool-age children had been immunized at the municipal clinics set up for the purpose. Practically all of the remaining 20 per cent received immunization at the hands of private physicians.

How was it done?

Sheer work and a lot of imagination gives a good part of the answer. The press, radio, and TV were re-enlisted right at the start. "You were wonderful in the failing campaign," they were told. "We need you to put it over this time." They cooperated 100 per cent.

Top Public Relations Job Award for Boston by AMA

The Record American, heavily circulated throughout the city, came up with some sterling ideas. Radio cars of these papers, circulating constantly through the city appealed for public cooperation through loud speakers. In some sections foreign language broadcasts were used.

The publications printed special telephone numbers for those seeking free transportation. They set up a battery of telephones to handle requests. They recruited volunteers to transmit the requests to proper agencies.

Members of the Boston Taxicab Association composed of hundreds of independent taxicab drivers joined up. They were asked and quickly agreed to supply free transportation from homes to clinics. "We got kids ourselves," they explained, "This is somethin' that oughta be done."

The Metropolitan Transit Authority, operating the city's sprawling transportation system, came to bat, too. It provided buses to transport children and their parents to clinics and home again.

Mayor Collins himself was no bench manager. He got daily and even hourly reports. He was late getting to his office in the morning. He was late getting home to his supper at night.

Why? He had his car equipped with a loud speaker. From his own home in Jamaica Plain to City Hall each morning he broadcast the appeal, stopping every now and then where there were groups of women and children gathered. He made it a personal appeal.

The same thing happened when home at night. He made use of the loud speaker every night he was called out for a public meeting or for an address at one of the hotels or meeting halls.

On Friday, May 11, he knew the drive was going to be capped with success. He refused to permit any letup. "Only one day left," he told his workers, "Don't miss any child you can possibly reach."

The account of the three days of failure and four days of success was prepared and edited by Ed Drohan. When the wire advising the Mayor's office of the grant of the award, the Mayor was pleased.

"It's a thrill," he said, "but that thrill we got on the night of May 12 is one I'll never forget."

Red Stickers Will Be Badge of Unsafe Cars

There are lots of good reasons for getting that auto inspection sticker before the next deadline on October 15. One of them will be the risk of a registration suspension by the Registry Office for as long as 30 days—plus a court appearance. Previously only a court appearance was required for violations. Now the Registry will get into the act. The inspection period starts six weeks before October 15.

Something new this year will also be the red sticker. Inspection station personnel will be required to paste the red stickers on the windshields of those cars which fail to meet safety standards. The red means rejection. Owners must correct defects as soon as possible. The red stickers will be dated and the Registry will be the judge of whether a reasonable effort is made to obtain repairs.

For the removal of a red sticker by an unauthorized person a 30-day suspension is promised by Registrar James R. Lawton.

Good NASA News Ups Hub's Business Pulse

An idea of what final acquisition of the NASA Center would mean to Boston can be gained from the following story clipped from the financial section of last Sunday's New York Times:

The decline of United States Senate opposition to a $50,000,000 space research center for Boston lifted midsummer business morale in the city last week. Early August retail sales continued to show gains over last year's performance. For the week ended August 3, department store sales in the First Federal Reserve district advanced 8 per cent over the 1962 week. This compared with year-to-year gains of 2 per cent and 3 per cent, respectively, in the two preceding weeks. Wool district volume remained quiet, with prices firm. Demand for cotton textiles were slightly higher than in early summer, with trade encouragement at prospect of a United States-Japan agreement on the latter's export quotas. Car dealers reported summer sales of both new and used vehicles the highest since 1955.

St. Stephen's, No. End, Gets Restoration Okay

Cardinal Cushing has announced plans for the renovation and beautification of 159-year-old St. Stephen's Church in the North End, designed and built by the famed Charles Bulfinch.

The old church, today one of the area's finest historical landmarks, was originally occupied by the New Congregational Society. In 1862 it was sold to the Archdiocese of Boston. Some changes and enlargements were carried out in 1870-75 but basically it retained its characteristic architectural features. When it was seriously damaged by fire in 1920 a great-grandson of Bulfinch directed repairs.

The Cardinal is asking for present and former parishioners to contribute to the present restoration program.

City Hospital Administration Building Adding Two New Floors; Attractive, Modern Lobby Planned

Another phase of Boston City Hospital's extensive capital improvement's program is now well under way.

The Administration Building at 818 Harrison avenue, main entrance to the hospital and the locale of many of its administrative offices, is not only undergoing a tremendous face-lifting operation but acquiring two badly needed floors as well.

The work is being pressed to eliminate as far as possible inconvenience to both the public and the hospital's staff members but trustees and Dr. John F. Conlin, superintendent, give assurances that the change-over period will be made as short as humanly possible.

Meanwhile, they ask the indulgence of all.

The Administration Building project will cost around $585,000. For years the administrative functions of the big hospital have been somewhat scattered. The two new floors plus wing additions at the second floor level and alterations to the basement and three existing floors will permit a centralization.

At the completion of the work, expansion of the personnel division, medical records and library facilities will be possible along with the under-one-roof functioning of finance activities, social service, the board of trustees, the superintendent and deputy superintendents' offices.

A very important phase of the program will be the complete alteration of the building's lobby and visitors' waiting room, the major public areas of the hospital. Accent will be on utility, comfort, and attractiveness.

Linked with the Administration Building project and programmed for a timely start as it nears completion will be the system of pedestrian bridges or passageways by which all pedestrian traffic from the central building to the various parts of the hospital may be handled.

The new system will relegate to a lesser role the underground tunnels which for many years have tied the various hospital buildings together. The tunnels were a necessity of their day. They'll remain not as a reminder of their function through the decades but for use as auxiliary transportation links for food carts, supply deliveries, patient transfers, and the like.

The tunnels have long been extremely expensive from a maintenance standpoint and have often offered severe traffic congestion problems. The new pedestrian bridges will be attractive, serve as all-weather arteries and quickly justify their construction cost of $225,000 against the steadily growing tunnel maintenance levies.

Motto for the State of Washington is "Ai-Kai." It's said to be Indian for "Bye and Bye."

BIGGER AND BETTER—Work is proceeding at a rapid pace in the reconstruction of Boston City Hospital's Administration Building. Two floors will be added and the entire structure, including the main entrance lobby, will be given an extensive face lift. At right, the hospital's Out-Patient Building.

New Law Hits Hard at Booze, Cars, and Kids

Registrar of Motor Vehicles James R. Lawton has issued a reminder to all motorists under 21, their parents and guardians, of a new provision in Massachusetts law which became effective on July 29.

The provision, chapter 338 amends chapter 90 by inserting the following section 24C: "Whoever, being a minor and unaccompanied by his parent or legal guardian, operates a motor vehicle upon a public way, knowing that there is any alcoholic beverage, as defined in section one of chapter one hundred and thirty-eight, in such vehicle or on his person, shall be punished by a fine of not more than fifty dollars."

"A conviction of a violation of this section shall be reported forthwith by the court to the registrar who shall suspend, for not less than one month nor more than three months, the license of such person to operate a motor vehicle."

Said Registrar Lawton:

"We have received too many complaints from police all over the state about minors who have been driving while having alcoholic beverages in their automobiles."

Ten Sergeants Obtain Promotion Certification

Ten Boston police sergeants have been certified by the State Civil Service Division for promotion to lieutenant.

Names sent to the Boston Police Commissioner were: Frederick J. Lovett, Jr., 2 Washington Street place, Hyde Park; Edward C. Doherty, 27 Sparhawk street, Brighton; Richard T. Fay, 69 Glendower road, Roslindale; Michael J. Keightley, 10 Centre avenue, Dorchester.

William J. Ryan, 44 Beryl street, Roslindale; Earl R. Coutu, 93 Maxwell street, Dorchester; Joseph J. Hartnett, 384 West Roxbury Parkway, Roslindale; Henry T. Yetman, 107 Woodard road, West Roxbury; Thomas B. Flanagan, 64 Minot street, Dorchester, and Joseph P. Rowan, 27 Saxton street, Dorchester.

"We naturally intend to carry out the provisions of this new law to the fullest, and also to suspend, as an improper person, the license of any person responsible for providing alcoholic beverages to minors while these minors are operating a motor vehicle."

"As Registrar, I certainly don't intend to tolerate the loathsome practice of making alcohol available to minors who are driving, or who are about to drive, automobiles."

New Ordinance Requires Candidates to Get Signs Down After Election

According to a law of physics discovered by man even before he invented the wheel—"What Goes Up Must Come Down."

That's the title of a WBZ-WBZ-TV editorial recently presented both on the radio and TV. It wasn't so much concerned with the mysteries of gravity. It was devoted entirely to the matter of political signs. Since this is an election year it's a bit on the interesting and informative side. It read:

"Before the Boston election campaign gets too far along, it would

New Sharp Teeth in "Driving Under" Laws

Commissioner Edmund McNamara has directed attention of members of the Boston Police Department to changes in the motor vehicle laws providing stiffer penalties not only for driving under the influence of liquor but also of various drugs.

Fines now range from $35 to $1,000 and imprisonment for two weeks to two years, or both, for drunken driving or driving under the influence of the following drugs: Barbiturates, amphetamines or other hypnotic or (sleep-producing) drugs, or under the influence of the vapors of glue, carbon tetrachloride, acetone, ethylene, dichloride, toluene, chloroform, xylene, or any combination thereof.

Baseball Clinics Wind Up for This Season

The popular series of baseball instruction clinics the Park Department has been conducting in various parks of the city will be concluded August 19 at South Boston Stadium. The clinics have already been held in Town Field, Dorchester; Cleveland Circle and East Boston Stadium.

Topping the clinic staff are baseball supervisors Ernest Stevens and Tony Segadelli, assisted by recreation instructors.

be well to issue a reminder to candidates and their workers about the city's new law of political gravity. Summed up very simply, the law says that campaign posters that go up must come down—or else.

"The City Council passed this ordinance in February, and we think it's an excellent idea. It requires candidates to remove political advertisements from signs, poles, and fences within 30 days after an election. Failure to comply with the law can mean a fine of up to $20 for each poster. The only exception is in cases where the candidate has written permission from the property owner.

"Actually it's long been against the law to put campaign materials on utility poles, walls, fences, and the like. But it's virtually impossible to stop this. And there's been no way of pin pointing responsibility for the posters. A candidate can always claim that someone put them up without his knowledge.

"With the new ordinance, the candidate will have the responsibility for getting them down. And if he is wise, he'll urge his workers to use restraint.

"We're all for giving candidates their day in the limelight. But we don't think the city has to be reminded of each campaign and its many candidates for years afterward.

"The poster removal law is one way to assure this—and it should be put to use."

17 Eligible for BFD's 11 Open Lieutenantcies

Mayor Seeks Answer On Sidewalk Flaking

Pointing out that cities and towns throughout the Commonwealth are sharing in a mysterious deterioration of the surfaces of many sidewalks—a flaking or pock-marking that is costing considerable repair bills—Mayor Collins sought cooperation of Governor Peabody and the State Public Works Department.

In a message to the Governor Mayor Collins asked that the State PWD act as a coordinating agency for the gathering of information concerning the mysterious "malady". He sent a copy of his message to Acting Chairman Andrew A. Hunter of the Boston Finance Commission.

Senate Bans Localized Urban Renewal Vetoes

The State Senate defeated a bill which would have allowed voters to approve or reject urban renewal projects in their areas. The measure had received House approval. Opponents argued that under its provisions it would be impossible to get favorable action at the polls for landtakings.

Chamber Hails Senate Metro Planning Vote

The Greater Boston Chamber of Commerce thanked members of the State Senate who voted in favor of a measure which would create a metropolitan planning district and council.

Benjamin R. Alexander, chairman of the Chamber's committee on metropolitan planning, said passage of the planning bill "reflected one of the most outstanding bipartisan acts in the interest of the public during this session of the Legislature."

"Enactment of a metropolitan planning district and council," Alexander said, "will foster association of cities and towns to solve common problems. Financing of the program will amount to merely a few pennies on local tax rates since the federal government will finance two thirds of the cost under the urban planning assistance program. We congratulate the members of the Senate whose forward-looking vote has pushed closer to realization an organization so vitally needed to cope with modern and future problems."

Who Said Germany Had Most Brewers?

The American public purchased a record-breaking 91,197,198 barrels of beer in 1962, enabling the United States to set a new high for the fourth straight year and maintain its world leadership. The sales figure was 2.4 per cent higher than 1961.

The U. S. was also first in total production with 96,831,981 barrels, comfortably ahead of West Germany's 52,975,000 barrels.

England was third with 38,933,000 barrels, then came Russia, 22,753,000; East Germany, 16,192,000; France, 15,514,000; Czechoslovakia, 13,379,000; Japan, 12,635,000; Belgium, 12,348,000, and Canada, 10,844,000.

These figures were announced in the 15th edition of The Brewers Almanac, the industry's "blue book," released by the United States Brewers Association.

Beacon Hill's North Slope Gets Protection

Governor Peabody signed legislation extending the Beacon Hill architectural district to include the north slope of the historic Old Boston area. The district was established to preserve the architectural charm of Beacon Hill. Property owners must receive approval to demolish, build, or initiate major remodeling programs under the new law.

Included under provision of the law are Bowdoin street on the east, Cambridge street on the north, and Embankment road on the west. River House, and buildings of Suffolk University on Hancock, Derne, and Temple streets are excluded from the expanded district.

So. Boston Site Eyed For Huge Hub Stadium

The Boston Municipal Stadium Authority indicates that it likes the railroad-owned area midway between Broadway and Andrew Station on the Dorchester-Cambridge rapid transit line as a first choice for the construction of the proposed multimillion-dollar all-weather athletic facility.

The commission was created last year by the Legislature. Its chairman is William J. Sullivan, Jr.

Prudential Site Offices Give Way To Turnpike

The northeast corner of the Prudential area at Huntington avenue and Exeter street will soon cease to serve the temporary wooden structures used as site offices by the construction firms. The buildings will be razed.

The reason? The Massachusetts Turnpike construction is just about ready to begin final-stage work in this area, including the "ring road" leading in and out of the project area.

What happens to the offices? They'll find temporary space in the basement floors of the Tower Building.

Dorchester Hts. to Get Needed Face Lift

The National Parks Service has notified Speaker John W. McCormack that it plans to carry out a badly-needed face-lifting program at Dorchester Heights, a national historic site.

The Service told the Speaker that bids for the improvement work would go out at the end of this month. The project had been carded for earlier this summer, McCormack was told, but original plans were delayed.

Prudential Prudently Takes Glance Ahead

The Prudential Insurance Company isn't letting the future take care of itself without a prod here and there. Recently it advertised for bids for foundation work along the proposed Massachusetts Turnpike easement on the eastern end of Prudential Center.

The insurance firm has not committed itself on any eventual use for this particular area, whether for a complex of high-rise apartment houses or other construction. However, regardless of what type of structures may eventually be decided, the footing work is much cheaper to carry out now than at some future time after the turnpike has been completed.

Wed. Noon Absolute Ad Copy Deadline

Attention of all department heads and others using the City Record for advertising purposes is called to the fact that the absolute deadline for advertising copy is Wednesday noon, preceding the Saturday publication date for which the copy is intended.

All such copy should be sent to the office of the City Record, Room 35, City Hall, as early in the week as possible. In the future it will be necessary to postpone to a subsequent issue of the City Record any copy that does not meet the Wednesday noon deadline.
